HEAD OF THE ILL-FATED ENGINEERS

MAJ. J. R. M'QUIGG,
Who Was in Command of the Engineers' Battalion. His Is Probably Fatally Injured.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT SAYS CAUSE OF DISASTER UNKNOWN

E. D. Whiter of the Ft. Wayne Railroad Details the Accident from the Viewpoint of the Company. Prompt Investigation Promised.

At midnight E. T. Whiter, superintendent of the eastern division of the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad, made the following statement:

"Two special trains consisting of Pullman cars left Cleveland about 2 o'clock p. m., bearing the Tippecanoe club and a battalion of engineers of the Ohio national guard, en route to the inauguration at Washington, D. C. The trains moved along smoothly to a point about half way between Clifton and Emsworth stations, seven and one-half miles west of Pittsburgh, when the first section stopped to give attention to a hot box on one of the cars. When this train had been standing perhaps five or six minutes the second section ran into the rear car of the first train.

The wreckage immediately took fire and three cars of the first train and two cars of the second train were totally destroyed. The engine of the second train was very badly damaged. The rear car of the first train was an observation car and quite a number of the passengers were sitting in it. Six or seven of this number were probably instantly killed and their bodies were all badly burned.

From the latest reports from the scene of the wreck received at this office at midnight the above were killed and five or six are seriously injured and about 25 whose injuries are slight. The dead were brought to the city on special trains and turned over to the Alegheny county morgue, from which place the bodies will be prepared for burial and sent to their homes as soon as the remains of the victims can be identified.

The injured were distributed among the following hospitals: Mercy, Allegheny General, Bellevue and Rochester, Pa., where they will receive proper attention until they can be sent to their homes.

After a partial investigation made tonight I am unable to give any definite cause of the wreck. A full investigation of the accident will be held immediately with a view of fixing the responsibility.

Cleveland Hears of 12 Dead.

CLEVELAND, O., March 3.—Reports to the superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad in this city, are to the effect that the number of dead may be 12 and the number of injured about 35.

CRASH CAME INSTANT AFTER FATAL WORDS

Capt. Charles E. Pope Only Officer Not Injured, Had Premonition of Danger.

Little thinking his fateful words, spoken to his fellow officers, "If we have any more stops the Tippecanoe train will catch us before we get to Pittsburgh and there will be trouble," were about to be realized, Capt. Charles E. Pope of Company H, the only officer of the Engineers' battalion who escaped injury, stepped from the car and many of his friends, the next instant, were hurled into eternity. Capt. Pope let his gaze wander over the great crowd of Ohio guardsmen and people gathered in Union station last night, and his voice broke as he realized the awful calamity that had befallen his friends and the battalion.

Capt. Pope, who is now senior officer in command of the battalion, Senior Capt. F. M. Fanning, a deputy United States marshal in Cleveland, being in Washington as a member of Gov. Herrick's staff at present, said after he reached Union station last night that he had been in the last car, the officers' car, all evening. When he spoke his fateful words he said he stepped out of the car to go to the one ahead.

"Just as I reached the inside of the car ahead, the second from the last on our train, there was a terrible crash and with the others in the car I was hurled forward. The concussion was so great that many of the seats were wrenched loose and many of the men were bruised in being knocked against each other and the seats and sides of the coach."

Capt. Pope gathered his men together in companies as they arrived and notified all that the battalion would return to Cleveland as soon as a train could be made ready to carry them home.

Capt. Pope stated that the train had stopped twice before the wreck took place because of a hot box.

EXTINGUISHER USELESS; LITTLE FLUID IN IT

Survivor Went to Fight Flames, but Tools Proved Inadequate.

"I will—I must get out of here tomorrow and attend the inauguration! You can't keep me from seeing Roosevelt sworn!" exclaimed Ernest S. Mills of Cleveland, as he lay in bed in the Holy Family of Nazareth Orphan asylum in Clifton.

Mills, who is a member of the Tippecanoe club, is injured internally, and was propped up by the sisters of the institution as he announced his declaration.

"I was in the baggage car of the Tippecanoe special when the crash came," he said. "We were hurled to the floor as we groped into the train ahead. I rushed to the window and looked out. I saw five or six bodies lying along side of the track, and at once realized the horror. Our car was then imbedded in the train ahead. Flames were bursting from the roof of the rear car of the engineers' special. Grasping a fire extinguisher I rushed to the roof of the burning car, but upon applying the extinguisher found that it contained less than a pint of the fire-fighting fluid. It was only when I descended that I felt the pains of my injuries."

Theodore Specht, bailiff of common pleas court No. 3 of Cleveland, is living with Mills in the orphanage. He is injured seriously internally.

MEMBERS OF DRUM CORPS WERE SLIGHTLY INJURED

William Pendleton and Otto Mashek of the drum corps with the Tippecanoe club were slightly injured. Pendleton has an abrasion on the face and Mashek sustained a wound on the left arm. Pendleton received his wound by being thrown against the side of the car, and Mashek fell over a seat. Both men were able to come to Pittsburgh without any assistance, and they took supper in the Union station restaurant.

"MY FAULT," SAID FLAGMAN

Corporal Diehl Positive He Heard the Man Say So.

HELPED RESCUE FIVE

TAKING DEAD FROM WRECK

"When the crash came I was in the second car of the special carrying the Tippecanoe club of Cleveland," said Corporal F. H. Diehl, "and as soon as I could regain my balance I ran to the car door and jumped from the train. In the darkness, near where I jumped, a man was swinging a lantern and I heard him say, as though speaking to himself and in a dazed tone, 'It's all my fault,' and with that he disappeared into the darkness. I did not see him afterward." Diehl said he looked at the man as he disappeared with the lantern, but the darkness prevented him making sure he was a railroader.

Other men with the Tippecanoe club while waiting for a train to carry them back to Cleveland said that the flagman of the first train is named Everson, and that he has had a run out of Cleveland for some time and is well known to them. Diehl said that an awful confusion reigned around the wreck, and when he was able to gather himself together and take his bearings he discovered the feet of men protruding from under the wreckage.

In Danger of Cremation.

With the assistance of several other men, the wreckage was knocked apart and raised enough to allow the men, who were all in danger of being burned by the flames which were consuming the wreck, to be removed. Five men were taken from under the wreck by him and the other men, but each man was found to be dead by the time he was gotten out.

The bodies were laid along the roadside and blankets were secured and they were covered up. All the bodies were badly broken and some were charred. The body of one of the men taken out was found in two pieces, said Diehl.

There were 101 uniformed men with the club, outside of the officers and club drum and fife corps. The latter is composed of 25 men in charge of Albert Marlow. All the drum corps men escaped serious injury. Some of the men were bruised by being hurled from their seats when their train crashed into the train ahead, Diehl said.

"That none of the members of the drum and fife corps was killed or injured was due to the fact that two-thirds were in the baggage car," said Charles L. Lang, a drummer.

Escaped from Baggage Car.

"We had been told before leaving Cleveland that our train would stop at Pittsburgh for 45 minutes, and we arranged to get our supper there. When the collision occurred we were thrown about the car and all the instruments were buried about. We opened the side door of the baggage car and jumped out."

Lang and Otto Mashek, another drummer, said that almost as soon as they reached the ground flames flashed up from the cars ahead.

"The cries of the injured then reached them and they left the other men to get the instruments out while they ran ahead to help get the injured people from the wreckage and names. The whole corps then gathered together and walked to Avalon, where the men boarded a car and went direct to the Union station. At the latter place they sent telegrams to relatives in Cleveland to notify them that none of the men was hurt.

Lang said he intended to return home as soon as the train would take him and the other men also stated that they did not intend to go on to Washington. The members of the drum corps were all personally acquainted with the men killed and injured and all agreed it was their duty to show respect to the memory of their friends by giving up the trip to Washington.

At Union station several of the members of the drum corps, who were in the baggage car, said that after the second shock a brakeman tried to prevent them leaving the car by the rear door, saying that they would be safer inside. It was not long afterward, said Lang, that the car ignited and was soon consumed. The men were very indignant over the brakeman's attempt to keep them in the car, since it was destroyed by fire shortly after they made their escape from it.

SAVED BY HIS SKULL.

Company Cook Congratulates Himself on Being a Negro—Victim Burned to a Crisp.

"It's a good thing I am a nigger, or I would have been killed, for sure," said Mose McKay, the colored cook of Company C, Engineers corps. He was washing dishes when the accident happened and he was hurled against the stove with tremendous force.

"My head came in contact with the sharp edge of the stove and I can see stars yet," he said. "Blood started to come like water from a spring, but when I heard the shrieks from those pinned under the cars my head did not bother me. I tried my best to get a fellow from under a car that was burning, but I saw him literally cooked to a crisp. It was awful, and to be unable to do anything for him made it worse. If the cars had not caught fire, possibly all would have been released from the wreck. My head aches, but I have no kick coming. If I had been only a white man no doubt my skull would have been broken."

Most Enthusiastic Ceremony of the Capital Is Promised.

Thousands of Visitors Ready to Do Honor to the Chief Magistrate.

DAY'S PROGRAM IS OUTLINED

Today's Weather for the National Capital

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Official Forecaster Frankenfield of the weather bureau tonight said he looked for rain in the morning, but that the storm area is moving so rapidly it may cease falling by the afternoon in time for the parade. The local prediction for tomorrow, as issued by the weather bureau, reads: "Warmer and threatening, probably rain Saturday morning followed by fair."

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 19, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.

In life, color and enthusiasm Theodore Roosevelt's inauguration as president of the United States tomorrow promises to eclipse any similar ceremony since the foundation of the government. Called to the office of chief magistrate by an unparalleled majority of the American people, he will assume the obligations of that office under circumstances equally unusual.

All the preparations are completed, the guests are here, the soldiers and the marching clubs are ready to escort him to the White House, the whole national capital, augmented by thousands upon thousands of visitors, is prepared to do him honor, and save all that may mar the ceremonies hinges upon the weather. Even that cannot entirely spoil the great spectacle surrounding the event, but it may dim the luster of some uniforms and dampen the ardor of some of the marchers, as well as add discomfort to the spectators. However, the present indications are not discouraging, and all Washington is banking on the well-known and oft-tried "Roosevelt luck." Fortune seems to favor the president in all his goings and comings and there is an abiding faith prevailing here that it will not desert him at this juncture.

Day of Hand Shaking.

Workmen were busily engaged today in putting the finishing touches on the stand at the east front of the capitol where President Roosevelt will take the oath of office. The oath will be administered by Chief Justice Fuller of the United States supreme court, and the Bible will be held by James H. McKenney, chief clerk of the supreme court. It will be the same book that Mr. Roosevelt kissed when he was inaugurated governor of New York on January 2, 1899, and as the president has expressed no wish that the Bible be opened at any particular passage, it will be opened at random.

The Bible used in the supreme court has been used for the purpose since 1829, and every justice of the court has taken his oath of office on that book since that date, with the exception of Chief Justice Chase, who had a Bible of his own which he wished used. When President Cleveland took the oath he kissed a printed Bible that had been given him in his youth by his mother, and at his second inauguration he used the same book.

President Roosevelt spent this the last day of his present presidential term, in shaking hands with the hundreds of callers who visited the White House. Those called to pay their respects who were not received, the president being the view that, on this of all days, his time belonged to the people. There was no formality, and senators, representatives, politicians, Rough Riders, cowboys and silk-stocking aristocrats mingled together in the ante-room all on the same plane and each receiving as cordial a handshake as the other.

A Democratic Luncheon.

No engagements were made for the day by the president, and as he got a few moments of time he would discuss public business with congressmen, but was ever ready to lay it aside when visitors were announced. It was after 1 o'clock before he was able to take up the morning mail, and then, after disposing of a few letters, he resigned himself to greeting those who came to pay their respects. Despite this crush of visitors, he found time to approve of several hundred bills that had been passed by congress, leaving only a few to be signed tomorrow.

One of the events in connection with the inauguration ceremonies tomorrow will be a buffet luncheon served at the White House, to which several hundred guests have been summoned. It will be one of the most democratic features of this wholly democratic inauguration, and the guests will include men and women from various walks of life. Seth Bullock, the cowboy and Indian fighter from the woolly west, and "Bill" Sewall, the Maine hunter, who has guided the president on many an expedition after moose, will be among those present. Sewall arrived on the scene today, accompanied by his wife, his two daughters, their husbands and several other Bristol progeny of the third generation.

TRAINLOADS OF CLEVELAND'S REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

Section No. 2 left Cleveland at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, carrying 200 members of the First Battalion of Engineers of the Ohio national guard. The train was made up of a baggage car and six Pullmans, and was running as a special through to Washington. The first four cars were occupied in the following order: The band, Companies A, B, D and C. The last car was occupied by the officers of the battalion and a number of their guests. The second train was another through special carrying 250 members of the Tippecanoe club, Cleveland's swell organization.

The second section stopped at Rochester to cool off a hot box, which caused the loss of considerable time and allowed the third section to gain upon it. The third section had left Cleveland a half hour later. At Clifton station the train stopped again on account of the hot box. What happened after that is told by Engineer Nick Long of the third section. He said:

Engineer Describes Disaster.

"As we rounded the curve I saw the green light of the automatic block, which showed me the track was clear. The next instant I saw the flagman running back and waving his lantern. I shut her off and put on the air, but the tracks were slippery with the light rain and we could not stop. We struck the rear car and went clear through it and half-way through the next coach. The first car was split wide open and we plunged clear through it. Neither my fireman nor myself had time to jump. It was all so sudden we both sat in our seats until our engine came to a standstill."

The wreck happened just about 200 yards above Clifton station on one of the most isolated stretches of track on the Fort Wayne road. There is neither telegraph station nor telephone conveniences handy, and it was some little time after the crash occurred before word reached the city. It was after 9 o'clock when the first wreck train reached the scene from the Allegheny yards.

The scene that followed the crash was a frightful one. Almost immediately after the collision the gas tanks burst and sent a sheet of flame about the wreckage. In a moment the shattered coaches were in a blaze and the bodies of the dead were being consumed.

Bugle Notes Rang Out.

Above the roar of the flames, the hissing of the steam and the shrieks of the wounded, the notes of a bugle rang out on the night air. It was the bugler of the First battalion calling the command to order. Like machines the men went to work with a will to rescue the injured. The members of the Tippecanoe club also went to work. Within a couple of minutes after the wreck hundreds of willing hands were dragging the mangled forms from the blazing debris. The men of both organizations worked like heroes. Dozens of them were injured. Blood streamed from cuts on their hands and faces, but, regardless of their minor hurts, they braved death itself to drag their comrades from that fiery furnace.

One of the most heartrending cases was that of little Frank O. Pinney. He was a son of Lieut. O. C. Pinney of the Engineers. The boy had been counting on the trip to Washington with his father for months. When the wreck occurred he was in the rear coach with his father. When the body was found not a vestige of flesh was left upon the bones. Only their childish size and form aided in the identification.

Bodies Forced Into the Boilers.

So terrific was the crash that the whole forward end of the boiler on the big Atlantic type locomotive of the third section was stove in. The flames from the firebox leaped out through this opening, and when the wreck train pulled the engine back out of the splintered and broken Pullman in which it had ended its run, the spectators were horrified to see several bodies which had been forced into the boiler and had been literally burned to nothing there. With a great iron hook the wreckers dragged these poor remains out, one at a time, and at least three of the dead were taken out of the boiler of that engine. Even their bones had been burned up in the terrific heat, and little was left to tell what they had been but a few minutes before.

When the fire started the Avalon department was called upon for assistance, and a general alarm was sounded in that borough. The firemen responded and hurried their hose to the scene, but it was a difficult place to get at. The hose had to stretched from plugs up in the town, many hundreds of feet, and then dropped over the face of a perpendicular cliff, at least 150 feet high, before the firemen could get to work on the burning cars. Five coaches on the rear train and four on the forward train were consumed.

One Car Went Into River.

The great engine which dealt death so suddenly, never left the rails, nor did any of the cars except the two into which the locomotive plowed its way. The first car struck split in two and was thrown to either side, that going to the right was thrown over the bank and into the Ohio river. That going to the left was thrown against the cliff. How any person escaped instant death in that car is a mystery.

Within a few minutes after the crash came, hundreds of citizens from Clifton and Avalon were gathering at the wreck and assisting in the work of caring for the injured and recovering the bodies of the dead. Word was sent to Rochester, and when the first special pulled out from the wreck it carried six of the injured and two of the dead to that city. Several trained nurses from Dixmont insane asylum had just finished their turn of duty when the wreck occurred. They promptly volunteered their services and went to Rochester with the relief train and proved invaluable. Many of the injured were burned with the explosion which followed the wreck when the gas tanks let go. For the alleviation of the sufferings of these the railroad company had brought oils and bandages from Allegheny. A score of doctors reached the scene on the first relief train.

Rescuing the Wounded.

The work of rescuing the wounded, thanks to the presence of the troops and the coolness of their few remaining officers, was accomplished in a most systematic manner. While some of the men tried to stay the progress of the flames, the others got out the axes and other tools always carried in each car and proceeded to batter and cut their way into the mass of wreckage which held dozens of their comrades imprisoned. It was in the officers' car the death-dealing monster had been busiest, and the boys worked with a will to get their superiors out of the blazing wreckage.

The Tippecanoe club had its own injured to look after, although so far as could be learned none of the members of that organization were killed. Many of them were injured, however, and the uninjured members of the club promptly attended to their injuries.

The dead were dragged from the burning cars with long iron hooks and placed tenderly at the side of the tracks, where they were covered with blankets to protect the charred remains from the morbidly curious. The injured were laid to one side of the track, and as soon as the special train arrived were placed aboard of it and hurried to the hospital.

Sisters of Mercy Responded.

But through that scene of death and horror, walked the angels of mercy, in the form of the black-gowned and white faced Sisters of Charity. Just on top of the cliff, above where the collision took place, is the buildings of the Polish Orphans' home. It is conducted by the Sisters of Mercy. No sooner had the terrible news been carried up the cliff than the sweet faced women were on their way to the dying and injured. The bedding of the home was carried down to the railroad track and the cots taken from the dormitories and put in use as stretchers. In and out, through the blaze and the heat and the smoke, walked the women whose lives are consecrated to work of mercy. To a dying one's lips here they pressed a sup of water. To another one there they breathed words of comfort and hope. To this one, writing in agony, they spoke soothing words, and to distracted ones, dying perhaps themselves, but yet keenly alive to the fact that they had lost loved ones, they gave words of assurance that all would be well, which did much to quiet their fears.

They were heroines, those women, and they went right into the thick and the heat of that awful scene and never flinched.

Avalon Homes Were Stripped.

There was no lack of stretchers within a few minutes after the accident. The people of Avalon simply stripped their homes to supply what was needed. Blankets and cots were furnished in plenty. Twenty minutes after the wreck occurred the injured had all been taken out and placed on cots, where they awaited the coming of the relief train, securely wrapped up to protect them from the chilly night air.

The isolated nature of the place made it difficult for the railroad people. The wreck had completely blocked the four-track system at this point. There being no telegraph or telephone system handy, many valuable minutes were lost before the news reached the city offices. Immediately word was sent to the morgue and hospitals for ambulances. The first reports were that 50 or 60 had been killed and 100 injured. Within a few minutes ambulances were clanging their way toward the Ft. Wayne station in Allegheny and a vast crowd had gathered there. A special train was hastily got ready and all the doctors who could be got were hurried aboard. The railroad authorities would permit none but the physicians to go down on this train.

Illuminated the Countryside.

By this time the countryside for miles around had been aroused by the glare of the flames, which lighted up the heavens for miles. Across the Ohio river from the scene of the wreck were gathered hundreds of sightseers along the tracks of the Lake Erie railroad, watching the fire. They came over by skiffloads and added to the crowds already there. Thanks to the presence of the soldiers, it was an easy matter to keep the crowd in order, and no crowding was allowed.

Trainmaster A. E. Hubbard was seen at the wreck shortly after the relief train had left and the bodies had been removed to the morgues. He stated that there were probably a half dozen bodies still in the wreck, and it was very likely more were killed than had been recovered. It was not believed, however, that many of these other bodies would be recovered, as the car where they were supposed to be was a mass of fiercely burning coals. Some pieces of bone in the ashes will probably be all that will remain to show that human life had gone out there.

Wreck Burned for Hours.

The wreck was still burning fiercely at midnight, and the Avalon fire department was still at work playing upon the fire, but much of it they were unable to reach with their hose. About the mass of wreckage which has been the heavy engine of the third section, there was a pile of burning timbers and the whole wreck was red hot. The firement were playing upon this mass to cool it in effort to save some o fthe bodies which were believed to be still in the debris and also to cool it off enough for the wreckers to get to work at it.

The relic hunters were busy. One young man found a sword in its metal scabbard. The straps had been burned off it and all its trappings and the temper was gone from the blade, but he gathered it up as a memento of the awful event. Another had a bayonet scabbard, and others had gathered military buttons. As a rule, however, the crowd which had gathered was very orderly, due largely, no doubt to the presence of the soldiers.

The cause of the wreck was directly attributed to the hotbox on the second section. When the stop was made at Clifton the third section was running so close on the time of the second, the flagman had no time to get back before the crash came.

Signal May Be to Blame.

What is yet to explain is why the automatic block signal showed a green light when there was a train in the block and permitted the third section to run in on the second. It is said there had been some trouble with this signal and that it had not yet been remedied. Whether this was correct or not could not be verified.

FOUR MEN ARE KILLED; TEN RECEIVE INJURIES

Four Hundred Pounds of Dynamite Explode on Big Sandy Division of C. & O.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., March 3.—Four hundred pounds of dynamite exploded among workmen on the Big Sandy division of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, eight miles from Paintsville this evening. Four men were killed and 10 were injured.

The killed: John Mullins, foreman; Henry Kirk, Civorani Marchitti and Toncy Mariana.

The wounded are Italian and negro laborers. Twenty boxes of the dynamite let go just as the men were quitting work for supper. The body of Mariana was blown across the Big Sandy river, while those of Mullins and Kirk were torn to pieces.

The explosion was heard in this city and Ashland, a distance of 60 miles. The grade of the railroad was ruined for 100 yards. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

MASCOT'S SAD END.

Death of Earl Pinney, the Battalion's Favorite, Caused General Sorrow Among the Troops.

To many of the members of the Engineers' battalion one of the saddest features in connection with the accident was the burning to death of Earl Pinney, aged 12, son of Lieut. O. C. Pinney, quartermaster of the battalion. The boy was taken along as the mascot of the battalion, and was known to every officer and private.

Members said that since he was a little lad he had attended all the state encampments, and for several years past he had made a practice of serving the members of the battalion with the daily papers while they were in camp.

Most of the troops knew when they reached Union station that Lieut. Pinney had been badly injured, but the news that their mascot had been burned to death in the wreck caused profound sorrow. Many expressed regret at the death of the boy and the terrible manner in which he died.

WILL COST $1,000,000.

Estimate Made of Coming Personal Injury Claims on the Pennsylvania Company for Accident.

"If the Pennsylvania Company escapes from this affair with less than $1,000,000 in personal injury claims, I shall be greatly surprised."

This remark was made by a railroad man last evening, who is well acquainted with such matters. Continuing, he said:

"The tenor of all recent decisions in actions such as this wreck would occasion is to make the damages to the persons hurt or killed proportionate to his earning income. The engineer corps included many men of large income, and some of these were among the killed. Lawyers were numerous in the organization and some of Cleveland's best known legal talent are hurt or killed.

"That is the reason why I say a cool million would be a low total for the Pennsylvania. The damage to its equipment and roadbed is insignificant in comparison with this feature."

SOME SCENES OF HORROR.

Charred Remains Were Taken from Burning Cars and Carried Into an Improvised Morgue.

The baggage car of the special train which hurried the railroad officials to the scene was sidetracked at the wreckage and improvised as a temporary morgue.

As the charred sections of former humanity were taken out of the burning cars, they were wrapped in blankets and carried into the car. There were very few if any complete bodies, and the blackened bones were contorted in such positions as to clearly mark the dying agonies of the victims.

With the remains of their companions of a few hours before in the baggage car in front, the train was again made up to carry the fortunate surviving soldiers to Allegheny.

CLASH BETWEEN CITY AND ROAD

Allegheny Police Objected to Wounded Victims Being Taken to Pittsburgh.

TROUBLE ON A RELIEF TRAIN

When the first train bearing about a dozen of the injured from the Emsworth wreck arrived at the Fort Wayne station in Allegheny last night, about two hours after the wreck occurred, an altercation took place between the Allegheny police and the railway officials and employes over the disposal of the victims.

Captain of Police James Wilson ordered all the injured to be taken to the Allegheny General hospital, only half a square from the station. The railway officials and employes made strenuous objections and insisted that, as the railroad was bearing the expenses of giving the injured medical treatment, the company should have the privilege of deciding to which hospital the patients should be sent. They insisted that the victims should all go to the Mercy hospital in Pittsburgh, but Director Scandrett and the Allegheny police officials would not agree to this, declaring the lives of the injured would be endangered by the long drive. The police had their way, but their action created much ill-feeling on the part of the railroad men, who planned a little coup.

Train Was Run Through.

About two hours later another special bearing dead and injured from the wreck was expected, and the railroad officials arranged that the train should go through to Pittsburgh, stopping in Allegheny long enough only to take on Dr. J. G. Buchanan, a Fort Wayne railroad surgeon, and several doctors from Mercy hospital.

The Mercy hospital ambulances were sent over to the Union station, and the ambulances of the Allegheny General hospital followed. Director Scandrett also ordered the Allegheny police patrol wagons to go to Pittsburgh to assist the Allegheny General hospital in taking patients back to Allegheny. A number of the railroad employes and station officers were instructed to guard the steps of every coach on the incoming special, and to allow no person on board except the Mercy hospital staff.

When the train rolled in the railroad police prevented newspaper men from boarding, and also used force in keeping a couple of doctors from the Allegheny General hospital from getting on the train. Two attempted to get into the baggage car, which was filled with soldiers, and they were grabbed and jerked back by a railroad detective.

Battalion Surgeon's Treatment.

Dr. C. K. Brady of Cleveland, one of the medical staff and an officer of the battalion, climbed up into the baggage car and instructed the soldiers to permit the two Allegheny General doctors to get on board. The railroad detective pulled his badge out of his pocket and ordered the soldiers to close the door of the car. Instead one of the soldiers poked his gun threateningly at the detective and the latter stepped back. Then the doctors were allowed to get on the train.

Dr. Brady arrived in Allegheny on the train which brought the first lot of injured. He and Dr. H. Henderson of Cleveland were the only physicians on the wrecked train besides Maj. Surgeon William Hendry, who was killed.

"Dr. Henderson and myself escaped because we were in the front end of the train treating one of the soldiers who had been poisoned by eating canned beef. We were applying the stomach pump when the crash came.

"Dr. Hendry was dead, and we two were the only doctors to attend the injured. We had them carried to the baggage car, and there dressed their injuries as best we could with the limited medical supplies we had. The only supplies we had on the train were in a field chest.

Broke Open the Medical Chest.

"Dr. Hendry had the key for this, and we had to break the chest open with an axe. We could not do anything for the men who had been burned, but broken legs and arms we were able to bind and to apply bandages.

"The medical assistance the company gave us was the worst I have ever experienced. Although the wreck was only seven miles from the city, we waited over an hour for some aid without getting it, and then made arrangements to carry the injured to Allegheny by taking the engine and a couple of cars of the wrecked train. Up to that time there was not a railroad company physician on the spot, and Dr. Henderson and myself worked alone, aided only by the soldiers and the passengers from the other train.

"The fact that the officers of the battalion were among the dead and worst injured was because they occupied the rear car of the first section, the second section carrying the Tippecanoe club and other passengers from Cleveland. There were about 18 or 20 officers in the rear car.

"With Maj. McQuigg of the Engineers were P. C. Davis of 53 Brightwood street, Cleveland, and George B. Riley of 94 Elwood street, Cleveland. Maj. McQuigg was terribly injured, but his two guests were only slightly hurt, receiving cuts and burns."

EXPLOSION OF TANK FOLLOWED BY FLAMES

Captain of Tippecanoe Club Band Tells of First Horrors of the Wreck.

Albert Harjow, captain of the band of the Tippecanoe club, who was in the baggage car of the Tippecanoe club when the crash came, gives the following graphic account of the catastrophe:

"With the tremendous crash every member in our car was hurled to the floor and against the baggage, nearly every one sustaining at least light bruises. A continued grind followed. As I looked out of the car window I was confronted with five or six bleeding bodies lying along the track while the cries of the injured and dying greeted my ears. In an instant there was a loud report as the gas tank exploded, followed by a blinding flash of light which enveloped the bodies of the suffering.

"As I scrambled out of the window I found that the rear car of the engineers' train had been completely cut in two, and that our engine had buried itself half way into the last car.

"I saw the legs of one man kicking and struggling out of the wreckage of our engine. His face was buried in the seething mass. They finally took him out a corpse. The flames from the first train rapidly communicated to the rear train, and the intense heat drove out of view many of the horrors of the moment."

SIGNAL SYSTEM DEPENDED UPON

Accident Happened on Stretch of Track Supposed to Rank With Any.

HOW THE SIGNALS OPERATE

The Pennsylvania line between Allegheny and Rochester is supposed to be one of the most perfect pieces of railroad in the world. Four tracks wide, graded to follow the gentle slope of the river, the road skirts the picturesque banks of the Ohio. Every guard known to modern railroad operation is provided for the safety of the swift flying passenger and freight trains. Two tracks are reserved for passenger trains exclusively, and a speed of 60 miles an hour or even more is considered entirely safe in this stretch of heavy-railed, perfectly ballasted, low-grade and easily curved track.

The system of block signals used on this piece of track is that known as the "Hermann." It consists of bridges bearing the semaphore arms to show the situation on each track. Under this system the blocks are 4,000 feet long and a double safety is supposed to be assured by the two signals which each train passing over the track receives.

The operation of this system is as follows: Suppose there is a train in No. 2 block. A train leaving No. 1 block to enter No. 2 will receive a green signal meaning "proceed with train under control." When reaching No. 3 block the signal shown in case the block is still uncleared is a red light, which commands an instant stop.

Why these signals were not received, or if received were not obeyed by the engineer in charge of the second special was the puzzle last evening among the railroad people who talked on the subject. Until the whole matter has been decided in the strict hearing and investigation which will be conducted at once by the superintendent of the division, no one in authority will say a word that might cast a suspicion of neglect upon any one or of blame upon the signal system used.

AS AWFUL AS WAR.

One of the Rescued Says the Sight Was the Worst He Ever Witnessed. Flames Spread Rapidly.

J. F. Barnhardt of Company C, Engineer corps, was standing just inside the door of the third car from the rear of the first section when the crash came. He had been on the platform watching the Cleveland flyer passing and was entering his car again when he was knocked down. He heard piercing cries for help, but was so stunned that it was several minutes before he was able to realize what had happened.

When Barnhardt regained his senses he found the car aflame and immediately jumped out of the window, the flames preventing him getting out of the door. In alighting on the ground he sprained his ankle and was unable to walk. He crawled along the ground several feet away from the car, when he was helped up the bank.

"It was the worst sight I ever saw, and if war is worse, I am too much of a coward to be a soldier. I lost my overcoat; it was burned up. However, its no use describing the wreck. I am shaking hands with myself that I am able to speak. I have just sent word home I am not hurt but I expect a siege before my ankle will be allright again."

TIPPECANOE CLUB LUCKY.

George Pringle Says That Only Two Members Were Injured—He Heard No Crash.

"There were only two members of the Tippecanoe club injured," said George Pringle, of the drum corps of the club, when seen at the Union station after the special train arrived. "They were E. Mills, who was hurt about the chest, and Theodore Speck, who was injured about his face.

"I was standing in the baggage car of the first section when the crash came. Some of the fellows say they heard the crash, but I didn't. I was in conversation with some other fellows and that is all I know until I was being led out of the car by one of the drum corps members.

"After I reached the bank I regained my faculties and the sight was fierce. There was moaning and groaning, and people running about like kids scrambling for nuts. I tried my best to help those under the burning cars, but I was as helpless as a new-born child. It seems to be all a dream."

DISFIGURED FOR LIFE.

Fred Troyan Realized His Affliction and Knows Not How Injury Was Sustained.

Fred Troyan walked down the Union station platform from the special train which arrived from the wreck at 11 o'clock last evening wearing a bandage around his face, and showing that he was suffering intense pain.

"I am disfigured for life," he said, "but still I am better off than many others."

He was taken into the Union station restaurant, but he was in too much agony to eat.

"I do not know how I was hurt," he said. "I felt a peculiar sensation as I keeled over. I was on the train being brought to Pittsburgh before I realized there had been a wreck and that I was numbered among the injured.

He left on the first train for Cleveland.

BOTH POLICE BUREAUS RENDERED SIGNAL AID

Dead and Injured Were Guarded by Blue Coats from Two Cities.

The police departments of both cities sent officers to aid the railway company. Capt. James Wilson of the Allegheny force had 30 men and three patrol wagons at the Ft. Wayne station. Supt. Wallace of the local force had 40 men and two patrol wagons at the Union station to aid in removing the injured.

The members of both city detective bureaus were sent to the Ft. Wayne and Union stations. The survivors of the Ohio regiment were brought to the Union station about 10:30. Station Master Neebaum had benches set aside for them and they were fed as fast as food could be prepared.

On arriving at the Union station the soldiers immediately surrounded the telegraph stands and sent messages notifying their relatives they had escaped injury. Most of these soldiers were from Companies A and B. They said they were playing cards and preparing for supper when the accident occurred. They were able to tell little of the affair except that they were hurled forward in the cars.

It was first decided to unload the wounded at the Ft. Wayne station. Ambulances from Mercy, Allegheny General and Homeopathic hospitals were lined up at the side of the station, with the morgue ambulances and the patrol wagons from both cities. Later the railroad company decided to bring the wounded and dead to the Union station on trains.

The ambulances and patrol wagons were hurried to this side of the river. When the train arrived it was learned it contained the bodies of dead and the surviving members of the regiment. The bodies of the dead were placed in the ambulances and taken to the morgue from the Fifteenth street yards of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Thousands of sightseers gathered about the Union station and Police Captain McCabe said his officers were compelled to use force to keep them out of the way of the railroad men. It was learned the balance of the wounded had been cared for at the Bellevue hospital, and the crowd dispersed.

Supt. M. J. Maxwell of the Allegheny division of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, sent two ambulances to assist in the removing of the injured.

SURVIVORS THOUGHT OF ANXIOUS ONES AT HOME

Rush at Union Station to Send Messages to Friends That They Had Escaped Death.

With nerves shattered yet thankful they were spared from being numbered with the dead, dying and injured, with fond recollections of home, the members of the Tippecanoe club and the Engineers corps, upon arriving at the Union station made a mad rush for the telegraph offices to send messages to relatives, sweethearts and friends that they were spared from injury. As soon as the special train reached the Union station they discarded organization, rules and cheering words flashed over the wires to anxious ones at home.

Realizing the station telegrapher could not send dispatches himself the officials of the railroad company came to his rescue. The club and corps members were told to go up in the elevator to the third floor, where a large number of operators would send their messages. All the operators employed in the building had been called out, the officials realizing that numerous messages would be sent to Cleveland.

Most all the "boys" were too nervous to write, and the operators sent the messages as they were dictated to them. It was fully two hours before the several operators had finished manipulating the instruments in the interest of those who were spared a horrible death.

SAW OFFICER BURN.

Wounded Corporal's Strength Failed Him, and He Could Not Save His Superior's Life.

Corporal Frank Grepp of the engineer's corps, was dragged from the second car from the rear in an unconscious condition. He was thrown under a seat and in some manner moved out into the aisle. The other occupants of the car, in making their dash for liberty, trampled over Grepp until he was almost dead. However, he soon regained his senses and assisted in rescuing those more unfortunate. He said:

"I secured an ax from one of the burning cars and swung it with almost superhuman force in trying to extricate an officer of the engineers corps. I worked for several seconds but finally my strength left me and I had to watch him burn up with the car. My, but it was an awful sight. I felt like jumping into the fire and roasting with him. Some person gave me a drink of whisky. That sort of revived me.

"I know I am a nervous wreck, but even at that, my condition is better than the one who met such an awful fate."

WILL USE NEW STOCK FOR SIBERIAN ROAD

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—All the new rolling stock, which includes 44 locomotives and 5,113 wagons, just delivered, will be employed to reinforce the main Siberian line, instead of being utilized in general commercial traffic as had been intended. The minister of communications has been obliged to order 12,000 more wagons for the various lines in the empire.

ANXIOUS FRIENDS RUSH TO MORGUE

Charred Victims of Disaster Are Viewed by Hundreds During the Night.

NO CLEWS TO IDENTIFY

The first news of the accident had hardly reached the city until the Allegheny county morgue in Diamond street was besieged with inquiries. Calls by telephone came in constantly from people who were bent on going to the morgue to look for friends whom they believed were on the train. Dozens called in person and waited patiently for the latest news from the railroad officials. The dead wagons, which were sent to the Fort Wayne station in Allegheny, were reported to be on the way to the morgue about 10 o'clock, which redoubled the curiosity of those waiting. Some delay was experienced, owing to the train bearing the dead bodies coming over to Union station, so that it was 11:25 when the load of corpses arrived at the morgue.

Five bodies were brought at this trip. Four of them were men, and the fifth was the body of a boy apparently about 4 years old. This is the only body that can be identified, and this was only possible because his father, Lieut. O. C. Pinney, had made known to the railroad officials his loss and the position of the child in the car. Coroner Joseph G. Armstrong received instructions from the Pennsylvania officials to take special care of the little corpse, and when it was learned that the father had expected to take the body back to Cleveland last night the group of men who listened to the story turned away with expressions of deepest sympathy. As soon as the coroner's view has been made the remains of the little one will be given up.

Burned Beyond Recognition.

The other four bodies are burned so that identification last night was not to be thought of. Every vestige of clothing was gone. Hair was missing and in most cases the body was burned to such a shapeless mass that it fell apart at the slightest touch. It was thought at first that one body was that of a woman, from the fact that a woman's skirt had been thrown over the charred mass when it was put on the train. There was not a ring or a bit of jewelry with the bodies to serve as a clue to their owners' identity, and no notebooks or baggage was brought in with them. There is a possibility that two of the bodies may be identified later by the teeth, as these are well preserved. The little boy's skull had been crushed and the upper part of his head was completely burned away. Arms and legs were missing from some of the bodies, and not one of them had all its limbs or hands and feet.

About 10 o'clock Coroner Armstrong was notified by Coroner J. R. Gormley of Beaver county that two bodies were at the morgue in Rochester. He immediately requested the Beaver county coroner to return them to Pittsburgh, and arranged with the Pennsylvania officials for a train to stop at Rochester and pick them up. These two were put on the train to Rochester with the injured and died before they were out of sight of the wreck.

Only Means of Identification.

The bodies that were brought to the Pittsburgh morgue were covered with sheets and tagged by number. They will remain at the morgue until the roster of the missing makes it possible to be reasonably sure of their identity. The few who viewed them last night declared they had never seen corpses so horribly mutilated, even at the Harwick and Dawson disasters.

Late in the evening the crowd of visitors increased and many of them made determined efforts to find buttons or something that would afford a slight clue to the dead. At midnight Coroner Armstrong was notified by the railroad officials that all the bodies taken out of the wreck had been brought in except the two at Rochester.

About 1 o'clock three members of the Cleveland organization went to the morgue to try to find out who their dead comrades were. These were Color Sergt. Downey and Privates Jack Kohen and S. C. Sener of Company D. The latter two had been detailed shortly after they escaped from the train to identify all possible at the scene of the wreck and also to assist in locating the dead and injured in the city.

Wept Over Their Failure.

They spent fully 15 minutes looking over the remains, but announced, with tears running down their cheeks when they came out, that the search had been useless. A single officer's overcoat which had been picked up and brought to the morgue was the only thing that might have afforded the slightest clue. There was no mark on this overcoat, and the soldiers said that it might easily have belonged to one of the injured men or perhaps to one who escaped with only slight hurts. In the pocket was a small volume of infantry drill regulations, but this book had no name in it to betray the owner.

Shortly after midnight Coroner Gormley of Beaver county arranged with Coroner Armstrong for the removal of the two bodies at Rochester to Pittsburgh on an early train this morning. Long after midnight groups of a half dozen came to the morgue and stood about anxiously waiting for more news. At 2 o'clock it was announced that in all probability there would be no more bodies brought in during the night unless some of the hospital victims died.

HIS HAT WAS ON FIRE.

Heat from the Burning Car Was Intense.

Hot Box Primary Cause of the Wreck.

"We had a hot box, and that is the prime cause of the accident," said Samuel Jackson of Company D, engineers corps. He suffered a sprained hand and had it put in splinters, the attending physician thinking it was broke. Upon a later examination the splinters were removed. In describing the wreck he said:

"I was on the second car from the rear of the train. We left Cleveland 30 minutes before the second section, and all the way our car had a hot box. At several places the train was stopped and oil poured into the box, but apparently it did not have a cooling effect.

"I was on the platform when the accident occurred. The car upon which I was standing appeared to drop. The trucks were driven from under it. Almost immediately it was on fire, and in trying to rescue those mingled in the wreckage, I sprained my hand. See my hat? It was burned while trying to help some fellow that was pinned under the last coach. That is the hottest job I ever had, but I did not feel the heat until I was told my hat was on fire. Words cannot describe the scenes nor tell of the suffering."

TWO INJURED ENGINEERS

Lieut. W. J. Boetticher, Jr. Capt. Chas. F. Geckler

WITH GLAD SPIRITS PARTY MADE ITS START

Cleveland Military Organization and Tippecanoe Club Were Given an Ovation.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, O., March 3.—The Engineers' corps left the Union station over the Pennsylvania railroad, bound for President Roosevelt's inauguration, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. At the station the engineers were bade farewell by their wives, sweethearts and friends, the occasion taking the appearance of a military company going to war. Little did the spectators think that they were seeing many of their friends for the last time.

There were 200 in the Engineers' party, Maj. John R. McQuigg was in command. There were a few invited guests, including George B. Riley, H. Lindsle Smith, P. C. Davis, Lieuts. Briggs and Haskins of the Naval reserves, and City Passenger Agent Thayer of the Pennsylvania company. The corps was accompanied by a full brass band. The Tippecanoe club, the leading Republican organization of the city, left for Washington over the Pennsylvania at 2:40 o'clock this afternoon. The "Tipps'" train carried, in round numbers, 600 people. The train comprised five sleepers and a combination day and baggage car.

The escort corps, designed originally to be limited to 80 men, numbered 92 when the train started. The members of the corps were handsomely attired in navy blue blouses and caps trimmed with heavy dark braid. Across the caps were the words, "Escort Corps." On the march to the train the corps was commanded by Capt. Ed Griffin, Capt. Fanning having already gone to Washington with Gov. Herrick's staff. It was accompanied by the Tippecanoe Club Military Trumpet band and by older members of the club in citizens' suits and silk hats. The band consists of eight snare drums, two bass drums and 14 bugles. The late Senator Hanna was a leading spirit in the Tippecanoe club.

MAJ. M'QUIGG'S CARE.

Badly Crushed as He Was, the Battalion Commander's First Thought Was His Men.

"Game? He's the gamest man that ever had a command!"

This is the opinion expressed by one man hurt in the wreck as he sat with three other bandaged victims at a table in the Union station and told of the actions of Maj. John R. McQuigg, the Cleveland lawyer who was in command of the Engineer corps.

"I saw him a minute after it happened," said another. "His first question was 'Are any enlisted men hurt?' Some one who had already seen enough to know the truth told the major that none had been hurt, and he accepted his own crippling without a murmur. One of his legs was so badly crushed that it will take a surgical miracle to save it. The doctor said that he had never seen a leg so badly torn and still on a man's body."

"Did you notice what the major said after he asked about the enlisted men?" asked another of the group. "He said that he most regretted the shock it would bring to his family at home.

"When they took him into that house there near the railroad, he did not want to be taken into the parlor, lest he should disarrange it. He did not make a murmur about himself. He's the best soldier I have ever seen."

CAR LAMPS EXPLODED.

Trucks Seem to Come Up Through the Floor—Conductor of the Train Declined to Talk.

At the Mercy hospital there are two injured. One is W. R. Couse, conductor of the first section. The fibula of his right leg is fractured. Couse lives at 15 Inverness street, Cleveland, and is 34 years old. The other patient is Frank Johnson of 101 Heywood street, Cleveland. He is 18 years old. His forehead is lacerated and he has a contusion of the right shoulder and left leg.

Johnson said he was in the car immediately ahead of the Pullman and was looking back into it to see if he could see any of the officers. His train was brought to a stop, and before it had actually stopped the crash came. The truck seemed to come up through the floor. One of the lights went out, but the others exploded and set fire to the car. Johnson said there were 225 men on the train and 14 officers. On his car were 32 men, among them was his brother.

Conductor Couse declined to talk, except to give the name of his engineer, H. L. Malone, and the name of the conductor of the second section, E. R. Butler.

FOUR COACHES WERE AFIRE.

Experience of a Tippecanoe Club Member Who Was in the Baggage Car.

George Trapp, a member of the Tippecanoe club, was in the baggage car when he heard a sound which resembled the breaking up on an ice gorge. He was hurled over other members of the club, who were also in the baggage car.

"I realized immediately that we had collided," he said, "and I tried to get out of the car, but ran into a beam which had pierced into the end of the car. Later I found it belonged to the coach in which were the officers of the engineers' corps. I was game for several minutes, but I gradually became helpless. I felt as though I would faint, and finally I reeled. Some person prevented me from falling, and I knew no more until the cars were all blazing.

"There were four cars afire when I regained my senses. A large crowd was trying to assist the unfortunates, but I was powerless to help. War cannot be more ghastly than the sight I saw while sitting on the bank."

PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED.

Four Persons Are Injured on the Bessemer & Lake Erie at Shenango.

GREENVILLE, March 3.—(Special)—Passenger train No. 2, northbound on the Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad, was wrecked at Shenango, two miles south of here, this evening. The following were injured: Walter Smorer, traveling salesman, Greenville, cut about head and body; George Hawk, Grove City, two ribs broken and bruised about body; A. R. Lininger, Greenville, fireman of passenger train, eye and head injured, and Monroe Saul, conductor, hand injured.

The passenger train, ordered to take a siding, struck a string of empty freight cars. The locomotive and baggage cars of the passenger train and two freight cars were wrecked.

CLEVELAND PASSENGER AGENT TELLS STORY

Hot Box Had Given Trouble Throughout Trip—First to Give Notice.

R. M. Thayer, city passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines at Cleveland, was the representative of his department in charge of the special train of the Engineer corps. It consisted of seven Pullman tourist sleepers and a standard Pullman sleeping car on the rear containing the officers of the command.

"I had just left the officers' car and stepped into the car ahead of it when I saw what was coming, and as I looked the engine of the train behind ran into the rear car. I shall never forget the sensation of that moment. I could see the engine bursting its way forward through the car and could not tell how far forward it would come. I suppose it went 10 feet into the rear car before it stopped.

"As soon as possible, in some way I got off the train and ran to Emsworth to notify the people at the station what had happened and relief was brought out from the city with all possible speed.

"The hot box which had stopped us at Clifton had given considerable trouble before. We stopped at East Palestine, but did not have time to cool it thoroughly there. At Beaver we stopped again and it was thoroughly cooled. The stop at Clifton was the third."

Mr. Thayer came out of the accident without a scratch, losing only his satchel and overcoat. He paid no attention to these losses, but bent all his efforts to helping in the railroad's care for the hurt. His friend, Dr. Dean of Emsworth, supplied him with a coat and he came into the city with the injured.

HIMSELF BADLY HURT TRIED TO HELP OTHERS

D. Yates Received Frightful Cut but Plunged to Rescue of Others Threatened by Flames.

D. Yates of Company C, engineers corps, was numbered among the injured. He suffered a severe cut on the face and had his right arm burned, while trying to rescue the more unfortunate. He was on the rear platform of the third car from the rear when the accident happened. He was in too much pain to describe the accident fully, but in a few words he told of his experience:

"I was thrown down on my face, my right cheek sliding on the brake lever. I grabbed the railing, which broke my fall somewhat. It was some time before my wound stopped bleeding, but I kept on trying to help those under the burning cars. I did not do much when I was pushed aside with instructions to attend to myself. Directly a doctor bandaged up my wound, but the suffering was worse than getting teeth extracted. My company doctor redressed the cut while coming on the train."

BROKE UP A CARD GAME.

Players Were Thrown in a Heap and Had Difficulty in Freeing Themselves.

Bert Tancred of Company B had a narrow escape from being crushed. He said: "When the crash came I was playing cards with some of the boys. We were all thrown in a heap. I was jammed between a seat and the side of the car, but worked myself loose and climbed out of a window. I called to a number of my companions to work themselves out by the same means. Twenty climbed out. Most of them were battered and cut.

"When I got out of the car I looked down the tracks at the other wrecked cars. The men were calling for help and moaning from their injuries."

TRACTION EMERGENCY WAGONS ORDERED OUT

When the report of the accident was received in the city last night Patrick Callahan, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, issued orders that four emergency traction wagons be placed at the disposal of those in charge of removing the dead and wounded to the morgue and hospitals. Hugh O'Donnell, the downtown traction inspector, and Thomas Murray, traction inspector in Allegheny, were placed in charge of the wagons. Murray went to the Fort Wayne railroad station and O'Donnell reported at Union station.

SOLDIERS STAND THE TEST NOBLY

Clevelanders Do Their Duty in Midst of Trouble, Orderly and Efficiently.

HONORS TO DEAD COMRADES

How truly the Cleveland organization has been trained in its soldiery stood out magnificently at the Union station. In the midst of the disaster that had killed many comrades and hurt many more, the surviving members of the engineer corps went ahead with their work as orderly as if the merry trip had no such end.

When the train bearing alike the unhurt, the hurt not sent to hospitals in Allegheny, and the bodies for the morgue, reached the Union station, a crowd of several score of station attaches surrounded the doors of the baggage cars.

Officers were the first to leave the train. The bugle called "assembly" and the men drew up in line and held back all who had no business there. Then came the call to "attention," and as the morgue employes lifted the bodies from the cars into the stretchers Company B, in charge at the car, presented arms and through the double line of soldiers the bodies were borne.

Pressing against the gates in the station lobby was a crowd that fell back only as the injured went through. An intense silence was over the entire crowd at the station.

The railroad was represented by a score of its officials who worked unceasingly to hasten the relief. There were many physicians on hand, and the dining room at the station was made the place of examination. Men known to the railroad officials were asked to take parties of three or four of the hurt to the dining room, where they were placed at tables and the physicians made their examinations. The entire menu of the big restaurant was placed at their disposal and despite the accident many ate vigorously.

As quickly as they were fed, the men gave up their places to others and stood about awaiting their final disposition by the railroad authorities. In little groups of three or four they talked over the accident, their eyes dilating with the excitement.

As each group grew the new arrivals added to the number of known hurt, but there was no word of anything except a stoical acceptance of the sad fact.

LINSEED OIL HURRIED TO RELIEVE THE BURNED

As the information of the wreck and its seriousness was made known at the Allegheny station of the Ft. Wayne railroad, a relief and wreckage train was at once made ready and a tank containing 10 gallons of linseed oil was secured from the paint shops in the yards and placed aboard to be applied to the burns of the injured.

D'ALBERT IS THE GREATEST BEETHOVEN PLAYER OF ALL TIMES, and to be so esteemed by the musical world, admits the HIGHEST MUSICAL PERCEPTION, in fact, the GENIUS OF D'ALBERT.

Therefore, his INVARIABLE CHOICE of the KNABE PIANO is something that no argument (especially not a commercial argument) can possibly assail.

Weather—showers. Yesterday's Temperature—Max. 42; Min. 26. Saturday, March 4, 1905.

ANOTHER PROOF OF OUR LESS PRICES. In a prominent show window the other day was a brass bed bearing this label: "$64.75, reduced from $100.00." We had this same grade of bed some little time back and sold it regularly for $58.00, and made a fair profit. It wasn't good enough for the price so we discontinued it.

Those $9.00 to $15.00 Women's Skirts for $5.75.

We started yesterday with 275 of these skirts, and there are probably 100 left for today. There never was such an all-round good skirt sold for anything like $5.75. In praise of it there was a pretty large chorus yesterday. We have told you how we were enabled to sell the skirts for the very small price of $5.75; we have told you of the materials, the styles and the colors.

And now we beg to say this morning that, if you are interested in a skirt of this character, it is quite likely you can, if early enough, find one among the remainder to your liking.

All are in the new instep length.

Gentlemen, the Opportunity Is Yet Yours to Save Money on Clothing.

Again today we will sell men's clothing, suits and overcoats, that totally different class, for saving prices. Young men's clothing is also selling for sharply reduced figures. All the suits and overcoats offered are of sufficiently heavy weight for present wear, then after a few months they can be laid away for the hot season, only to be resuscitated in the Fall.

The saving figures all the way from $8.50 to $20.00, and we put it to you plainly—Does the proposition appeal to you from an economical standpoint?

$40.00 and $45.00 Overcoats may be purchased for $25.00. | $30.00 Overcoats may be purchased for $20.00.

$25.00 Overcoats may be purchased for $16.50.

The above are shown in black and oxford, the finest overcoatings of the season, mostly silk lined. In addition we have about one dozen overcoats that were $15.00, which we will sell for $8.50, sizes 40 to 46.

50 Men's Cassimere and Cheviot Suits, fancy mixed materials, will be sold for a full third less than original low prices.

All automobile goods, coats, leggins, caps, etc., will be sold for one-half prices.

Youths' Suits, black and blue cheviots and thibets, fancy cheviots and cassimeres, as well as all that remains of our Winter line of youths' overcoats, will be sold for a third less than original low prices. In some cases the reduction is even greater.

To men who would like a peep at the advance styles for Spring and Summer we would say we are now ready with a big showing. Many novelties are to be seen in the line.
Men's and Youths' New Spring Suits, $10 to $35.
Men's and Youths' New Spring Overcoats and Raincoats, $15.00 to $30.00.
Fancy Vests $1.50 to $6.00.

Men's Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs from Paris.

50c Each.

New today, these hemstitched colored silk and linen Handkerchiefs which we sell at 50c each. They are exceptionally pretty and exclusive with us. It is personal buying abroad and direct importation which enables us to quote such a low price.

The ordinary loud-colored handkerchiefs are not to be found here, as we eliminated such objectional styles when making our selection.

White grounds with stripes and plaids in different arrangements in fast colors, blue, gray, tan, red and lavender.

Men's Shirts to Order.

One set of workers makes these shirts from start to finish. Therein is one difference between a shirt ready to wear and one made to measure. In the former a dozen or more workers make the different parts. The shirts we make to order are made throughout by one set of expert workers. They scrupulously follow the measurements, cross checking themselves as they progress. When the shirt comes from the laundry they unpin it, remeasure and re-examine it. If faulty in any respect, back it goes—YOU never see it.

It's our risk all the way through.

Fancies in madras, cheviot and percales—hundreds of different up-to-date effects.

Prices $2.00, $2.50 to $5.00.

White Dress Shirts, $1.50 to $5.00 each.

New Go-Carts Just Arrived.

Spring always brings with it new lines of Go-Carts. We have just received a large shipment and there are some very handsome turnouts for the baby among them. Of course there are inexpensive Carts for people who don't care to spend much money. Some of them are small enough when folded and light enough to pick up and take in the street car, which makes them especially nice for people living in the suburbs.

Step down into the East Basement and look them over. You can't help but find something to your taste in such an assortment.

Folding Carts, $3.00 to $15.00.
Reclining Carts, $5.00 to $30.00.

The peace which was secured at the meeting of the directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Company does not prove to be permanent. The two most important steps taken since were that of a policy-holder, who asked the courts to prevent the use of any of the surplus to buy out the Hyde interest and the movement of John D. Crimmins and others to ask for legislation at Albany to reorganize the company into a mutual one. The policy-holders are unwilling to allow certain conditions to continue and they strenuously object to the use of their money to enrich men who in reality are simply their trustees.

Gen. H. L. Burnett, federal district attorney for the southern district of New York, has drawn a salary of $6,000 a year, but with the fees his income has been more than that of the president of the United States. Every effort to cut the salary down has been met with the opposition from the New York delegation in congress, who have asserted that exceptional talent was needed in the office. As a final compromise it has been decided that he shall receive $10,000 a year with no fees. No doubt the office has been made an important one by the press of cases connected with importers and involving large sums, but it was rather absurd to pay him more than the president of the United States receives.

Boston sustained a shock when an English revivalist started a street procession to drum up recruits for his revival meeting in Tremont temple. Pedestrians were accosted, and even tipplers at bars were approached with invitations to hear the gospel preached. The Boston idea of a revival of religion would be a calm discussion of ethical subjects and the absence of any form of emotion. The Rev. Mr. Dawson seems to have disregarded such conventional theories and to have followed the methods he has employed with success elsewhere, and even in Boston it may be found that there are numerous people accessible to such influences that are not touched by the dignified forms of religion approved by Boston society.

It is stated that the British claims on account of the North sea affair amount to $325,000, which Russia will doubtless be glad to hand over in settlement. If that is the whole of England's demands on account of the firing upon the fishermen, there has been a great change since the time when her fleets were assembled and there was talk of arresting the Russian fleet as being too dangerous to be at large. Russia has from the first professed her desire to pay an indemnity, but refused to entertain any demand for the punishment of her officers who ordered the firing. The reference of the matter to a commission of inquiry has given time for excitement to subside, but apparently the matter has been settled in accordance with Russia's wishes, although the British case was sustained by the commission.

The fact that Senator Penrose has been appealed to in aid of the Greater Pittsburgh movement has been made the occasion of some hysterical comment in quarters liable to fits of emotional excitement, but nothing is more proper than that any state leader of the Republican party should be asked to use his influence in support of a measure of general public importance. The organization of the people of the commonwealth into municipal communities is a matter of state concern and was properly recognized as such by Gov. Pennypacker in his annual message. It has just as strong claims upon Senator Penrose's attention as any other interest of his state. It should be a matter of general public policy that communities which are one in fact should be one in municipal organization. All that is asked in this matter is that the people of the Pittsburgh district be allowed to vote as one community upon the question whether they shall be incorporated as one community or be subject to the present unnatural division. The union would have been accomplished before this but for the miserable faction politics which have afflicted Allegheny county for some years past and which are now the real obstruction to the movement.

Canada has been thrown into a tremendous state of turmoil over the school issue. The withdrawal of Mr. Sifton from the ministry will carry over to the opposition a number of western members, as he represents the attitude of Manitoba on the question. If the minister of finance resigns, the Nova Scotia delegation will follow him. The finance minister is understood to be in hopes that the objectionable clauses will be withdrawn, but it is asserted that the premier has entered into engagements with the Roman Catholic church authorities which will hold him to his present position. There are already separate schools and a division of the school fund in the territories which it is proposed to organize as self-governing provinces, but the Protestant majority is so overwhelming that if allowed to settle the matter themselves the people will be apt to insist upon the principle that only public schools shall be supported by state taxation. The pending bills, however, provide that in every school district "the minority of the rate-payers therein, whether Protestant or Roman Catholic, may establish separate schools therein and make the necessary assessments and collection of taxes therefor," and shall not be liable for any other school taxes. The Protestant churches are organizing their influence in opposition to the measure and the religious line of division is threatening to obliterate existing party lines.

A Horrible Disaster.

The rush of travel to the inauguration has been attended by a horrible accident upon the Fort Wayne road near this city, a rear-end collision taking place between two sections of a special train from Cleveland. In view of the perfection of signal arrangements upon the railroad it is difficult to understand how such an accident could have occurred, but everything will doubtless be revealed by the searching investigations which will follow. Every scene of horror which can accompany such an accident seems to have been present, the collision being followed by an outbreak of flames which destroyed a number of the coaches. The list of killed and injured is an appalling one, and the affair will bring distress to many homes from which the victims had gone in health and happiness to attend the inauguration.

The Beef Trust Report.

Commissioner Garfield's report upon the beef-packing industry makes a favorable showing in some respects for the corporations generally designated as the Beef trust. Their profits are not exorbitant and their business would hardly be remunerative but for the great volume of their transactions and the skillful utilization of by-products. The advance in the price of dressed beef during 1902 was due to natural causes and was not accompanied by greater profits to the packers but by less. It is stated that during months when prices were highest some of the packers were actually losing money on every head of cattle slaughtered. These corporations slaughtered only 45 per cent of the total cattle slaughtered in 1903, but they slaughtered 98 per cent of all the cattle killed in eight leading cattle centers, so that they practically controlled these markets, but at all points to which they ship they have to encounter much local competition. They form the chief source of supply, but not the only source.

The report does not find any evidence of a merger of interests among these companies, except in the National Packing Company, controlled by three of the six large companies. Concert of action in certain lines of policy appears to be due simply to community of interest, and each concern looks after its own business and depends wholly upon its own profits. So far as the supremacy of the companies in the beef trade is not a legitimate product of ordinary business enterprise, it appears to depend upon their ownership of private car lines from which they derive large profits, so that here again the question of railway methods seem to be at the bottom of the monopoly problem. The report as a whole is a benefit to the companies as showing that the consumer does not suffer at their hands. The sufferer appears to be the western cattle breeders, whose product must be disposed of at such prices as the packing companies choose to give, and this in turn restricts prices for live stock at all points where western dressed beef competes with local supply.

The Czar's Appeal.

The appeal issued by the czar to the Russian people is construed as an evidence of the defeat of the reform party. There is not in the document any hint of a redress of grievances nor any suggestion of a change of policy. If the czar had adhered to the determination which there is ground for believing that he reached some time ago to convoke a land congress there would certainly have been some reference to it, but the whole tenor of the manifesto is that the existing order is all right and that attacks upon it are a crime against religion as well as treason to the state. The czar has nothing to offer to his people save to remind them of the duty of obedience. He uplifts "the banner of the autocratic might of the emperors" and calls upon the people to support him "in the great and sacred task of overcoming the stubborn foreign foe and eradicating the revolt at home and in wise efforts to check the internal confusion."

The manifesto manifests a helplessness in the presence of emergency that affords matter for gloomy apprehension as to the future. The discontents with which Russia is seething are not of the kind which yield to exhortation, and if force alone is to be relied upon to quell the revolt which is now admitted to exist, how can there be any reasonable hope of a successful prosecution of the war? A government is in an intolerable position which has to fight a foreign foe and its own people at the same time. The government is at war with Japan, but the Russian people are not, and this defect is fatal.

A Roosevelt Country.

The province of Quebec, in the Dominion of Canada, is a country after President Roosevelt's own heart, in one respect at least. There is no race suicide there. Big families are the rule. Increase and multiply is the order of the day to an extent which has become embarrassing to the government.

In 1890 a law was passed providing that 100 acres of public land should be deeded to every parent with 12 living children. The French-Canadian farmers and their wives are doing nobly to satisfy the requirement, and the number who have their round dozen of children has become so great that 100 to 200 a month are now filing their claims. It is estimated that at present, with a population about one-fourth that of Pennsylvania, there are not less than 12,000 families in the province which include 12 children or more. In order to ease the pressure from claims of this character the government had the law amended so as to give an option of a cash bonus of $50 instead of land. This has had the effect of greatly increasing the number of claims, as there are many families who would not take the trouble to claim the land who are keen to get the cash, and the government may eventually have to abandon the policy of giving rewards for large families. It is really not necessary in order to accomplish the purpose, for the French-Canadian farmers habitually marry young and raise large families.

The Business Situation.

In reviewing the business situation last week reference was made to the fact that while there was evidence of great speculative and industrial activity, the retail mercantile trade had not responded to improved conditions, at least not to the extent that seemed warranted by the outlook. It was explained that this was due to the absorption of savings during the period of dullness and to the fact that wages had not yet responded to the change that had taken place. This week the H. C. Frick Coke Company voluntarily advanced the wages of its army of employes, and was quickly followed by other companies in the same line of trade. This action is by all odds the most important development of the week. It is likely to be followed in other industries, it being reported that the United States Steel Corporation will voluntarily raise wages. This is the food upon which mercantile trade grows, and the growth of one department of business tends to the expansion of other departments, and we then have what is termed general prosperity. An increasing demand for labor that warrants a voluntary advance in wages is the most encouraging sign of the times. It is proof of actual recovery in business and confidence in the future.

The iron trade is now described as threatening a runaway market. Conditions have greatly changed in this industry. After high tide had passed in former years there was a disposition to maintain maximum profits by increasing production, and the almost invariable result was an accumulation of unsold stocks which acted as a drag upon the market, prolonging the period of recovery from depression. Last year there was a shutting off of production to keep it within the bounds of consumption. As a consequence there was no large accumulation of stocks. The last depression was also more of a financial than a commercial nature. There was no prostration of general business, and all sections of the country were not equally affected. The severity of the reaction was felt mainly in the east. The northwest and the south almost escaped the effects of the stock market shrinkage, and when the decline in cotton finally affected the south the rise in breadstuffs enriched the west. The depression of 1893-96 was widespread and general. The depression of 1903-04 was sectional. This explains in a measure how the recovery in the iron market could be so rapid. The actual needs of consumers of iron and steel products in 1904 were not reduced, but the financial ability of the great consumers was temporarily impaired. When the restoration of financial ease restored the means for filling wants, iron and steel consumers found no great accumulation of stocks upon which they could draw. The placing of orders necessitated the firing of coke ovens, the putting into blast of iron furnaces and the resumption of mills. Belated buyers are now becoming anxious over supplies and prices are advancing, with the probability that buyers will again be bidding premiums for prompt delivery.

The speculative markets have ruled more active than at any previous time this year. Violent fluctuations occurred in the May wheat option in the Chicago market, and the price declined about 7 cents a bushel from the recent high mark. It is still 15 cents a bushel higher than at the corresponding date a year ago, and very much higher than the average for a series of years. There can be little doubt that manipulation has had much to do with maintaining the present high level. Stock market values have also risen to the highest level for three years, and the average price of securities is now above a safe investment basis. The general public, however, has not yet been carried away with the speculation, and if a sharp reaction should occur the loss will fall mainly upon professional operators able to stand the loss.

The man who protested that he killed the woman for whom another man had been hanged now says he was only joking. Men who indulge in that sort of humor ought to be secluded from public association on general principles.

William Jennings Bryan had the distance from Pittsburgh to Washington between him and an inauguration of a president. But that only covers the physical phase of the situation.

It is a monstrous evidence of the callous malignity of modern crime if it shall be proved that California's millionaire widow and benefactress was deliberately poisoned to death.

Of course, in his "rally around the throne" manifesto, Nicholas would prefer that those citizens who conceal a bomb will go away off and do their rallying by themselves.

The burning of a mail car full of letters will doubtless prove for some time to come a godsend to the careless husband who forgot to mail his wife's letters.

If the Washington weather man will only give that city a "square deal" today the inaugural festival will be the greatest ever.

If the 50 private policemen know their duty and do it—well the spitting hog will soon become an extinct animal locally.

Steam railway conductors on the trains to Washington this week have had a chance to say, "There's room up front."

If the Americus club doesn't make an impression upon Washington it will fail to sustain its previous reputation.

Dr. Osler has the satisfaction of knowing that he butt in over the war news and the Kansas oil fight, anyway.

The rioting Russians at Ellsworth evidently realized that there were no Japanese policemen in that vicinity.

The shouting that didn't get a chance along with the voting will have a great opportunity in Washington today.

It is a question whether the czar sent Kuropatkin one of his "rally around the throne" invitations.

After today the occupant of the vice presidential chair will be the real thing.

The A. H. Green Memorial.

Mr. Green, during his life, strongly opposed the erection of any portrait statues in the park. It would be a bitter irony of fate and a poor compliment to the taste and the memory of the "Father of Central park" to violate this rule of his sound judgment with a statue of himself. There are entrances and places much more suitable for such a memorial to a fine public character and a high civic patriotism.—New York World.

Talked of in Gotham

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—Declaring he had received inspiration from heaven to kill John D. Crimmins, the president of the City Trust Company, Ferdinand Ingraham, a religious fanatic, appeared in the offices of the company today and waited for Mr. Crimmins. Walker W. Lee, assistant secretary of the company, induced Ingraham to leave, but he returned one hour later asserting he had come to accomplish his mission. He was then arrested by two detectives. Ingraham, who is 33 years old, is a waiter in a Park row restaurant. The man, the detectives say, possesses almost the strength of a Hercules. He was arraigned in the Tombs police court.

The first intimation the clerks at the City Trust Company had that the man was not in his right mind was when he stood in the hall and stopped passers-by, questioning them as to where he could find Crimmins. The clerks talked with him, and after several ineffectual efforts had been made to induce him to leave, Ingraham called out:

"John D. Crimmins is attempting to destroy the Protestant church. He is using his millions to down us, and I have an inspiration from Jesus Christ to kill him. Please tell me where he is, as I wish to get at him." Crimmins has been prominently before the public during the last few years in connection with his leadership of the forces of the Equitable Life Assurance society, who are opposed to the leadership of James H. Hyde, the first vice president of the corporation.

Merchants Inspecting the Bronx.

Persistent rumors of the purchase of large sites on prominent thoroughfares in the borough of the Bronx by big drygoods houses in Manhattan, with a view of establishing branch stores to cater to the great population in that section, are repeated day after day. An unconfirmed report had the northwest corner of Melrose avenue and One Hundred and Forty-ninth street sold to a prominent Manhattan drygoods firm, while large plots just to the west of Third avenue, in One Hundred and Forty-ninth street and in the neighborhood of One Hundred and Fifty-second street and Third avenue, and even as far north as One Hundred and Seventy-seventh street and Third avenue, were said to have been purchased by agents representing Manhattan merchants.

These rumors are not without foundation, for real estate brokers have had many visits from men who wished to be shown large sites in prominent thoroughfares and in locations most central in the borough. Their identity is not known. They refused to give either their names or business. To substantiate these rumors the argument is made that the Bronx, with its population of 320,000, destined to increase at a far greater rate than its past record of 127 per cent, is a section worthy of consideration by merchants, and if they are able to locate centrally in the borough, so as to obtain the trade of the outlying sections, as well as Yonkers, New Rochelle and Mount Vernon, it will pay them to establish branch houses in the city north of the Harlem river.

Police Seek the Ready Letter Writer.

Notwithstanding the fact that Giovanni P. Morosini is not seriously disturbed by the crank letters sent to his daughter Julia at their home in Riverdale, the police are taking a much more serious view of the affair and are trying to discover the unknown suitor who demands $200,000 in gold or silver specie, and also requests Miss Julia to elope with him. Two of the three letters bear the postmark of Trenton, N. J., and the police at work on the case expressed confidence today in discovering the writer. The first letter arrived Tuesday morning, and after Miss Morosini had laughed over its contents she put it away and thought no more of the matter at that time. Both Mr. Morosini and his daughter are keeping a sharp lookout for the letter writer, but no one who might be associated with the case has yet appeared.

Custer Survivor goes to Prison.

William McGee, 55 years old, who claims to be the only white survivor of the Custer massacre, was before Justice Keneflek, in the criminal branch of the supreme court today for sentence, he having been convicted of manslaughter in having caused the death, by stabbing, of Frank Mitchell. McGee was a book agent, and traveled considerably. On December 9 the men quarrelled over the qualities of a kidney stew and during the trouble knives were drawn. McGee stabbed Mitchell several times, averring he did it in self-defense.

"You have undoubtedly been a brave man," said Justice Keneflek to the prisoner, "and a good soldier. You have undoubtedly been wounded, as you say you have. But even brave soldiers have no right to take the law into their own hands." McGee was then sent to prison for seven years and ten months. McGee said he was with Gen. Miles in his Nez Perces campaign, when he was shot three times and had his scalp split open.

Salvation Army to Celebrate.

Increased from a membership of 8 in 1880 to nearly 4,000 today, the Salvation Army in America will, March 25 next, celebrate its 25th anniversary in this city. There will be gathered together several hundred officers and soldiers from all parts of the county. At the present time, the standing of the Salvation Army in America, roughly estimated, is as follows: Officers and employes, 3,706; corps and outposts, 736; institutions for poor and needy, 148; farm colonies, 3. The total amount expended annually in relief of the poor is $900,000. The entire month of March, leading up to and including the congress, is being specialized by a series of great meetings conducted by various leading officers of the army.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

The people persist in talking—talking in season and out of season; also in reason and out of reason.

But talk they will, and it is well that they are thus disposed, for what a stupid, poky, dried-up old world this would be if there was no talk to liven it up.

True it is that some talk too much and some talk foolishly, and some wickedly, but there is so much reasonable, reasonable, helpful talk that we can afford to forget all other kinds.

The good in people is all that is worth remembering. Let the evil be passed by and forgotten.

It would be better for all concerned if all of us were to talk sense, but that is not possible now, and it will not be until a new and improved type of people has been developed.

But it is better to talk even if half of it is nonsensical, for it is through talking that we find out what is going on around us, get the particulars about the comings and goings and doings of our neighbors.

How would you like to live in utter ignorance of what is going on among your neighbors? There may be some people who are so good that they won't stop to listen to a bit of gossip, no matter how juicy it may be.

These are usually spoken of as stupid, uninteresting or queer people.

* * * * *

In view of these facts it would seem to be the correct thing to allow our talkative contingent to make itself heard once in a while.

This same contingent is made up mainly of good people who have something to say, and not of that numerous type that talks merely to be heard.

If some of the talk does not interest you it will be because you are not universal in the matter of taste.

Have you ever tried to find out how many copies of the novel you liked best were sold? While reading it you thought everybody would do likewise and be as much delighted with it as yourself.

To discover that only a few thousand copies had been sold would hardly increase your respect for the taste of the reading public. Very few novels reach sales of many thousands. But that does not check the output, for it is growing constantly. Even now there is a regular flood of books, most of which goes into the sewer, so to speak.

But what else can you expect when most of the talk in which people engage is not worthy of any better fate.

How much of your talk is worth hearing, much less worth preserving? Books are only talk written down, with the ratio between the sensible and the silly fairly well maintained.

* * * * *

Dear Quiet Observer:—I wrote to you before but I suppose my letter was thrust into the waste basket. I have read your column in The Gazette for a number of years, and am always interested except when you write so much about the kissing question.

Please write all good, common sense, something to set the people to thinking, for I am sure more people are interested in what you write than in the sermons that are printed, so you can do more with your pen than your modest self has any idea of.

Will you kindly ask in your column for the old song I heard 25 years ago, and just remember one verse:

"This life is a difficult riddle,
And how many people we see
With faces as long as a fiddle,
That ought to be shining with glee."

Cho.—What is the use in repining,
For where there's a will there's a way.

Please excuse any mistakes and oblige me this time and I shall respect and reverence you the rest of my life. A READER.

Dear Quiet Observer:—When I read your letters in The Gazette I feel as if I would like to take you by the hand and say, "Hail fellow well met," for certainly the early part of our lives must have run in much the same channel. One of your letters a few days ago began, "We are marching to Quebec," etc., and then followed some reminiscences of long ago. Then you ask, "Do you mind about it?" Yes, I mind about it. Did you ever sing:

"And thus the farmer sows his seed,
And thus he stands to take his ease,
He stamps his foot, and claps his hands
And whirls about to view his lands."

Do you mind about it?
Once more, did you ever sing:

"Green grows the rushes, O,
Kiss ————"

But I omit the rest. Do you mind about it?
This brings up the kissing question, which, like Banquo's ghost, will not down. It will come to the front as long as human nature is what it is; and that will be a long time.

Some of those persons who are so shocked at the recital of the kissing plays of old will take part in dances which are in vogue today, dressed—or rather undressed—in a style, and act in a way that the old-time girls would not have done.

Proud and unkissed women of today may say what they please, but those old-time girls remained pure and virtuous and made good wives and mothers, and were a credit to their day and generation. But, alas! many, very many of them, have finished their life work and all that is mortal of them lies today under a snow-covered grave.

But they are not forgotten. L.
Latrobe, Pa.

Dear Quiet Observer:—I like the views expressed by "Novice" very much. I, too, being a believer in equal rights for man and woman.

I think, however, that we differ in regards to the meaning of "equal rights." My idea of equal rights is that each should have entire control of such duties as they are fitted for, that there are some duties that men are by nature and disposition fitted to do what women instinctively shrink from, and that there are other duties the reverse.

One right that I think belongs solely to man's list of rights is the right to propose, and it is not only the right of a woman, but (as is too often forgotten), it is her duty to discourage the attentions of any man for whom she could not care.

Thanking you for printing my queries.
ONE OF THE OLD MAIDS.

Dear Quiet Observer:—While perusing the columns of your valuable paper this morning I notice you asked for a correct copy of "The Psalm of Marriage," so I immediately began to rummage through my clippings of poetry, etc., and finally found it.

I do not guarantee it to be a correct copy, perhaps it might happen to be, so I enclose a copy of it. C. F. R.

THE PSALM OF MARRIAGE.

Tell me not in idle jingle
Marriage is an empty dream,
For the girl is dead that's single
And things are not as they seem.

Life is real, life is earnest,
Single blessedness a fib,
Man thou art, to man returneth,
Was not spoken of the rib.

Not enjoyment, and not sorrow,
Is our destined end or way,
But to act that each tomorrow
Finds us nearer marriage-day.

Life is short and time is fleeting
And our hearts light and gay,
Still like pleasant drums are beating
Wedding marches all the way.

In the world's broad field of action,
In the bivouac of life,
Be not like dumb-driven cattle,
Be a heroine and a wife.

Lives of married folks remind us
We can make our lives as well,
And departing, leave behind us,
Such examples as shall tell.

Such examples that another
Wasting life in idle sport,
A forlorn unmarried brother,
Seeing, shall take heart and court.

Let us then be up and doing,
With a heart on triumph set;
Still contriving, still pursuing,
And each one a husband get.

The Next Congress

By L. W. STRAYER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—As is usual in the short sessions of congress, the session that ends at noon tomorrow has not passed many measures of general importance except the appropriation bills necessary to provide for the running expenses of the government. A great many important questions have come up, but they have either of necessity or expediency been laid aside, and therefore it is anticipated that the next congress will be one of the most important in the history of the country. In the first place, it is practically certain that railroad rate legislation will be enacted in accordance with the views expressed in the president's message at the opening of congress last December. There is no denying that a popular demand for laws bearing upon this subject exists, and there is no reason for believing that next December that demand will not be as emphatic as it is now.

President Roosevelt will probably send another message as strong if not stronger than his first, placing the situation before congress in such a way that there can be no getting away from the subject even if there should be a desire to do so. The house met the situation gracefully and courageously this session when it passed the Townsend-Esch bill, but the Swayne impeachment trial occupied so much of the attention of the senate that there was no time for that branch to consider the bill with the care that it demanded, and thus it was allowed to go over. It has been said that there are powerful influences in the senate working against rate legislation, but whether that is so or not, it is believed that public sentiment will be so strong at the opening of the next session that congress will be obliged to yield to it.

Opposition Is Mustering Force.

An interesting conversation between two senators was overheard in the corridors recently, one of them being openly opposed to any stringent laws affecting the railroads, and the other, while prominently identified with railroads the greater part of his life, yet is understood to be favorable to reasonable laws that will mitigate the rebate evil. The latter had made a public address a few days before and the former was taking him to task for some of the statements attributed to him.

"Yes," said the latter, "but did you read my address, or did you stop with the headlines? The headlines made it appear that I unqualifiedly indorsed the utterances of the president on the question, while in fact I merely said that I would favor a law that would do away with the rebate evil, and that all railroads would likewise favor such a bill."

The first senator had to admit that he had not read the speech carefully and promised to do so. "Remember," he said, "we are depending upon you when the real test comes, and we want you to know it."

As this was a private conversation overheard by accident, and not by eavesdropping, no names can be given nor can any interpretation be placed by the writer upon the statement "we are depending upon you when the real test comes." It would indicate, however, that there is an element in the senate that proposes to fight rate legislation and is even now busy rallying its forces for the struggle.

May Be Tariff Revision.

Few members believe that congress can avoid a revision of the tariff in the next session. It will be recalled that the president favored doing something at this session, but the opposition to tariff tinkering was so strong that he did not force the issue and the subject was dropped. But there is a strong tariff revision element in the east and northwest, and it is believed that in conjunction with the Democrats this element will be able to force some action on the tariff. This does not mean that there will be any material reduction in the present rates, nor does it mean that the Canadian reciprocity will be adopted as the New England manufacturers have been crying for. Tariff revision does not necessarily mean tariff reduction and the rank and file of the Republican party in congress will fight to the last ditch any movement that could be construed as an abandonment of the protective tariff principle. It is admitted that there may possibly be some schedules too high, just as some may be too low, although no very sensible bill of particulars has yet been filed by anybody. If the tariff question is opened up in the next congress, the protectionists will stand by their guns and with a Republican majority of 118 in the house they will undoubtedly have a good working majority, making allowance for the asperities of the "Iowa idea."

Salary of the President.

A question that has been discussed "unanimously during the session is that of raising the president's salary to $100,000 a year. Many people had hoped that in the closing days of the session time would be found to put such a bill through, for there is a pretty general opinion that the present salary of $50,000 is entirely inadequate. But it did not get through, and one reason probably is that the members of congress preferred to wait until there was time to take up the subject of their own salaries and those of the vice president and cabinet members and consider them all together. That there ought to be a boost in the wage scale of the principal officers of the government there is little doubt. The pay of the principal executive officials, compared with those of other nations, is very meager, and, as has previously been mentioned in these letters, instances are on record where members of the cabinet have been obliged to resign because they could not afford to retain their positions, the expense incumbent upon them amounting to more than their compensation from the government.

While it is true that the honor and dignity of a cabinet portfolio, as well as the presidency, should be the chief consideration of those who aspire to these places, yet it is argued that the salaries of these places, from the presidency down, should be such that a poor man could afford to hold any of them without any real financial sacrifice. It is probable that in view of this sentiment, the president's salary would have been increased at this session had it not been for the condition of the treasury, which made it necessary for the administration leaders to caution economy from the start. While the $25,000 extra that it was proposed should be added to the presidential salary would not have made any great impression upon the public treasury, yet it might have been considered inconsistent to preach economy in expenditures for the departments and at the same time add 100 per cent to the president's salary. The unfortunate part is that by failure to act at this session President Roosevelt will be unable to get the benefit of any increase made during the next four years, as he is constitutionally forbidden to accept any increase in the emoluments of his office during his term.

Legislation for the Colonies.

Alaska will also come in for attention at the next session of congress and some of the many plans for the amelioration of that district will undoubtedly be carried. That Alaska should have a delegate in congress has been recognized for some time and this need has been emphasized since the gold development there has drawn thousands of white people up into that northern country. The people need schools, and their need good roads and telegraph lines and many other things that have a civilizing influence and add to the comfort of the inhabitants. The wealth that is being produced in the mines give that district a claim upon the attention of congress which cannot much longer be neglected. A mounted police force is one of the pressing needs of Alaska, such a force as the Canadian mounted police, and steps have been taken to this end.

Porto Rico, the Philippines and Hawaii, our colonial possessions, will also come in for attention from the next congress, as there are many questions pending affecting their prosperity that will have to be acted upon. One great step looking to the development of the Philippines was taken at this session by the enactment of the Philippines railroad bill, which guarantees dividends upon investments in railroads in the islands. This is expected to stimulate railroad building and do much to bring prosperity to the natives.

Our Duty to Ourselves.

The Dominican republic appeals to us to help her restore them lost independence also be lost. It may not be an easy task. Let us concede that it will be a burden from which we might wish to be kept free. Nevertheless it is an alternative to an incomparably heavier one and a graver burden. No man in his senses would wish to see Santo Domingo annexed to the United States. It is for the avoidance of any necessity or pretext for annexation that the protocol is to be approved.—New York Tribune.

STANFORD HOUSE BEING SHADOWED

Occupants of Dead Woman's Home Are Under the Surveillance of Police.

NO REPORT ON THE AUTOPSY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The mystery of the alleged poisoning of Mrs. Jane L. Stanford in Honolulu, presented few new developments today. The autopsy in Honolulu has not been completed, and it has not been proven death did not result from natural causes. A cable message from Honolulu intimates that an acute attack of indigestion may have caused the fatal illness of Mrs. Stanford.

No arrests have been made, and the detectives engaged in investigating the matter have made no direct accusations, though the various members of the Stanford household are closely watched. Capt. Callundan of a detective agency said today:

"At present we have positively no proof that would hold anyone. We cannot take action until the report of the autopsy reaches us from Honolulu."

W. E. Jackson, head pharmacist at the Stanford pharmacy in Palo Alto, sold Mrs. Stanford a package of bicarbonate of soda, February 6. Mrs. Stanford and her secretary, Miss Berner, had just returned from San Jose and came directly from the train to the drug store, where they purchased 10 cents worth of the bicarbonate. The package was wrapped up, labeled, and given to Miss Berner. Mr. Jackson has placed the remainder of the bottle of bicarbonate of soda from which the package was sold, in the keeping of his attorney, Walter Rogers, and refuses to be interviewed.

Dr. Jordan and Timothy Hopkins of San Francisco, who is one of the trustees of the university, will leave tomorrow for Honolulu, to take charge of Mrs. Stanford's body and investigate her death.

A careful analysis made public today by Attorney Mountford Wilson of the mineral water from the drinking of which Mrs. Sanford narrowly escaped death at her residence in this city, shows an attempt upon her life probably was made at that time, January 14. In his analysis, Chemist Louis Falkenau announces that a glassful of that mineral water would contain eight-tenths of a grain of strychnine, half a grain being a fatal dose. The ordinary dose is one-twentieth of a grain.

The Bulletin says that the police and Detective Calloudan, acting for the Stanford interests, are only awaiting the result of the autopsy at Honolulu before taking into custody at least two persons.

Miss Elizabeth Richmond, formerly Mrs. Sanford's maid, said today:

"It seems as though suspicion would naturally narrow down to two or three in the house the week after the attempt was made to poison Mrs. Stanford, and it affected Miss Berner. Ah Wing, the Chinese cook, and Yeng."

F. Beverly, formerly Mrs. Stanford's butler, said that if any charge was made against him he was willing to surrender himself at once to the police.

It was said today by Attorney Mountford Wilson that Mrs. Stanford's will would not be made public for some time yet.

The Call publishes a dispatch from Honolulu today which says Miss Berner has named Ah Wing as the person she suspects of placing the strychnine in the bicarbonate of soda. From the one discovered in the California street mansion there had been taken a small portion, presumably the amount needed to fill the bottle that Mrs. Stanford carried with her to Honolulu.

HONOLULU, March 3.—Miss Bertha Berner, who was Mrs. Jane Stanford's secretary, declared today there was absolutely no truth in the dispatch from this city, published at San Francisco, attributing to her the statement that she suspected Ah Wing, a cook employed for many years at Mrs. Stanford's mansion in San Francisco, of having placed the strychnine in the bottle of bicarbonate of soda, a dose of which Mrs. Stanford took before her death.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, CAL., March 3.—President David Starr Jordan of Stanford university asserted today he had no theory as to who could have a motive for killing Mrs. Stanford and he did not believe any of the servants would do the deed. Continuing, he said:

"The poisoned drug must have come from the same bottle that poisoned the mineral water in San Francisco, in January. I do not believe that the murderer, if there is one, followed Mrs. Stanford to Honolulu. When the will is made public the motive may be revealed."

EIGHT HUNDRED KILLED IN RIOTING AT BAKU

Three Workmen Dead and 42 Hurt at Lodz—New Strike Threatened at Capital.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

BERLIN, March 4.—The Lokel Anzeiger's Baku correspondent gives the number killed in the recent riots between Armenians and Tartars as 800. The belligerents, the correspondent says, have now buried the hatchet, but a general exodus from the city is in progress because it is feared the troubles will be resumed today, when demonstrations are announced in celebration of the liberation of the serfs. The people are disregarding the orders forbidding the carrying of arms. Six battalions of troops have arrived.

LODZ, March 3.—Serious disorders broke out at the Poinanski cotton mill today while the men were being paid off. Troops were summoned to restore order and three workmen were killed and 42 injured. A general strike is expected.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—The workmen left their meetings in St. Petersburg this afternoon threatening to inaugurate a general strike. Tonight the streets are again full of Cossacks, and every preparation and precaution has been taken in anticipation of possible trouble tomorrow. It is officially stated that the refusal of the workmen's ultimatum demanding release of their fellows arrested since January 22, open meetings and free publication of the proceedings of the Schidlovski conciliation commission was because the government realized that the forces behind the workmen were political agitators. The freeing of those arrested would simply reinforce the workmen and open meetings would be used not for the purpose of adjusting strike differences, but to make revolutionary speeches for dissemination through the press.

WARSAW, March 4.—The gas works strike has ended and the workmen will return to their labors today. The gas company has granted a nine-hour day.

COMMITTEEMEN REGRET LOSING MR. COCKRELL

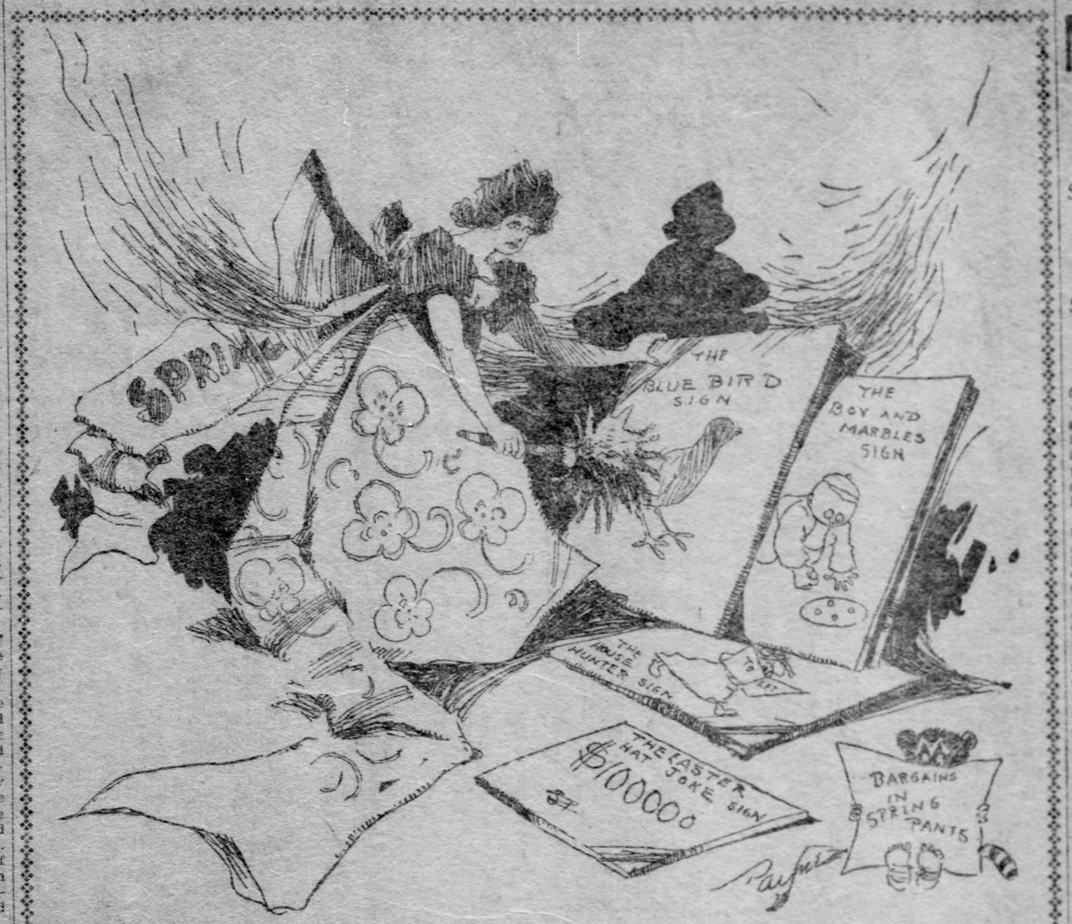
WASHINGTON, March 3.—The colleagues of Senator Cockrell on the military committee of the senate today presented him a handsomely engrossed set of resolutions expressing the general regret of the members of the committee at losing the senator's services because of the expiration tomorrow of his term in the senate. Senator Cockrell was greatly moved by the testimonial and responded feelingly.

HOUSE WILL PRESENT LOVING CUP TO SPEAKER

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Speaker Cannon tomorrow will be presented a massive solid silver loving cup in token of the universal regard in which he is held by his fellow members. Representative Boutell of Illinois probably will make the presentation during a recess of the house. Democrats and Republicans alike joined in subscribing for the cup, and it is said every member of the house contributed.

Japanese Monks Trouble China.

LONDON, March 4.—A dispatch from Pekin states that owing to the influx of Japanese monks bent, under the guise of missionary propoganda, on spying and exciting the populace against the dynasty, the Chinese government has ordered that passports be withheld in the future.



Brushing Up the Signs.

U. S. STEEL WILL INCREASE WAGES

A Big Advance Is Now Forecasted by Reports from Many Sources.

WILL AFFECT 170,000 MEN

Information from New York received by prominent business and financial men of this city states that the United States Steel corporation's management is making preparations for a general wage increase affecting the larger proportion of the big concern's employes of every grade. It is said that 170,000 men will be affected and $12,000,000 added to the payroll.

The "tip" to this effect has been widely spread during the past week, even before the announcement of the increase averaging 10 per cent in the wages of the employes of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, the corporation's coke subsidiary.

The definite date on which the proposed increase will take effect is not as yet told, the policy of the corporation being one of absolute secretiveness up to the moment when the complete official announcement is made. It is, however, the guess of a number of men closely in touch with such matters that the increase will be effective April 1.

The proposed increase comes as the reverse of the action of the corporation last year, when a dilapidated market and falling values of every kind demanded that wages take their share of the decrease. The cut at that time averaged about 10 per cent and was very general. The highest officers were affected.

Wages Totaled $120,000,000.

If this is true the new addition to the payroll will affect close to 170,000 men and will mean an expenditure of about $12,000,000 more a year in wages than at present.

The following table from the corporation's annual report for 1903 is the last available from official sources to show the number of men employed and payments on their account:

	1903.	1902.
Employes of Manufacturing properties	123,397	125,626
Coal and coke properties	17,873	16,519
Iron ore mining properties	13,768	13,465
Transportation properties	11,033	11,160
Miscellaneous properties	1,658	1,857
Totals	167,709	168,127
Total annual salaries and wages paid	$120,763,896	$120,528,343

The figures for 1904 will not be available until the publication of the annual report for last year, which will not appear until the middle of next month. They will show a greatly reduced expenditure for wages on account of the fact that the first eight months of the year formed the worst part of a period of depression. Both number of employes and total of wages and salaries will be much smaller because of closed plants and cut wages.

Present Year Record-Maker.

It is the confident statement of those best acquainted with the industry that the year 1905 will make some new high marks in the steel industry. The pace of the market at present is beyond all precedent. The production of pig iron has never been at a point equal to the last month, and for each ton produced there seems to be a market for a ton and a half. A runaway pig iron market is forecasted by some.

It was pointed out yesterday that in one department of steel production there is already an increase. With the marking of steel bars $2 a ton higher, the wages of the employes in certain departments goes up on the sliding scale arrangement.

WALKER WILL LEAVE ISTHMIAN COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(Special.)—Rear Admiral John Walker, chairman of the isthmian canal commission, will soon step out of the position. It can be stated on authority that, whether or not the commission is abolished, Rear Admiral Walker will go. The milk in the cocoanut of all the canal legislation fiasco is that Senator Allison of Iowa has resolved to keep Rear Admiral Walker in the position he has held since early in the first McKinley administration.

RAILROADS SETTLE GRAIN RATES WAR

CHICAGO, March 3.—The western grain rate war was settled today by an agreement to restore normal tariffs April 1. The rates as restored give Chicago and the seaboard a better chance at western grain than they hitherto have had. The gulf lines will hereafter enjoy a differential of only 3 cents over Baltimore.

New Steel Rail Orders.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(Special.)—New rail orders include the following: Mississipal, Oklahoma & Gulf, Philadelphia & Reading, Lehigh Valley, New Jersey Central and Chicago & Great Western, 10,000 tons each.

LAND CASE BILL A LAW WITHOUT SIGNATURE

Gov. White Fails to Approve It—Number of Bills Passed Are Vetoed.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHARLESTON, W. VA., March 3.—Gov. White has filed vetoes of the following bills passed at the recent regular session of the legislature:

House bills fixing the maximum school term at six months in each year; the setting aside of $75,000 from the general school fund for aid of poor districts; relating to motor vehicles and regulating their speed; establishing a criminal court in Mingo county; regulating freight charges on short line railroads; establishing a public library in Martinsburg and abolishing the intermediate court in Marion count; senate bills establishing independent school district of Richwood, Nicholas county, and amending the Fairmont charter.

The bill amending the law relating to the sale of lands for benefit of school funds, known as the King land case bill, was allowed to become a law without the governor's signature. Under the provisions of the constitution the governor has five days from the end of the session in which to veto any measure and this limit expired last night at midnight.

BRYAN SOUGHT DEMOCRATS.

Defeated Democratic Candidate for Presidency Called on Controller Larkin and Mayor Hays.

William Jennings Bryan, twice the Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States, passed through Pittsburgh yesterday on his way to deliver a lecture at Waynesburg, Pa., on the subject, "The Value of an Ideal." After his arrival at the Union station Mr. Bryan remained there half an hour reading the morning papers.

He asked the way to the office of Controller Larkin, and when directed walked to the city hall. The controller had arrived the night before from Atlantic City, but was not at his office when Mr. Bryan called. He was received by Assistant Controller Morrow and was introduced to the clerks in the office. He next sought Mayor Hays, but the mayor was absent.

At the controller's office he was asked if he did not think President Roosevelt had stolen some of the Democratic thunder. He replied emphatically, "No, sir. President Roosevelt has brought a number of the Republicans to some of our ideas." Until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon Mr. Bryan visited among local Democrats.

GENERAL STRIKE.

Italian Railway Employes and Socialist Deputies Will Consider Question Today.

ROME, March 3.—A committee of railway employes, together with three socialist members of the chamber of deputies and representatives of labor exchanges, will meet tomorrow to decide whether or not to call a general strike. A vote taken from among 65,000 men belonging to unions resulted in 14,000 favoring a strike and 41,000 against, while 8,000 abstained from voting; but it is feared that the leaders, who are mostly irreconcilable, may declare for a strike.

Passenger traffic on the railroads has been reduced 20 per cent because of the strike, and a tourist agency in one day returned $1,000 to persons who decided to give up journeys.

W. & J. MEN BANQUET.

Successful Dinner is Held by the Alumni of the Institution.

The annual dinner of the Pittsburgh Alumni association of Washington and Jefferson college was held last evening at the Duquesne club. Judge S. A. McClung, president of the association, acted as toastmaster in an impromptu program. The leading address of the evening was delivered by President J. D. Moffat, who defended the small college as an institution and said that the larger schools are trying now to attain its efficiency.

Others speaking were Judge John D. Shafer of the Allegheny county bench, and Prof. Edwin Linton of the faculty. There were close to 250 present, and the dinner was a decided success. The members of the committee in charge were P. J. Alexander, Malcolm McGiffen, J. R. McCurdy, W. G. Lindsay, A. E. Gill, Robert Woodside and Robert Chess.

INAUGURAL TRAIN IN SIXTY SECTIONS

NEW YORK, March 4.—A train leaving here for Washington shortly after midnight, loaded with troops and people going to the inauguration, ran in 60 sections, probably the largest number ever sent out over one road. Every car was filled to its capacity.

Opposes Settlement of Case.

Millvale officials state that as far as they are concerned no movement will be made to settle the embezzlement charges against Justice of the Peace A. J. Needling. Neither the school board nor the council held the meetings which were announced last night. Borough Auditor Henry Cooper, who brought suit against Needling, said last night that he is opposed to any settlement of the case.

Sent Railway Ordinance Back.

A special meeting of Etna council was held last evening to consider the ordinance of the proposed Pittsburgh & Butler Street Railway Company, which is up for third reading. The ordinance was referred back to the ordinance committee. Among other changes it is said that the Pittsburgh Railways Company will be asked to run Etna cars to the borough limits.

MR. GARFIELD'S REPORT PLEASES THE PACKERS

District Attorney, However, Keeps on His Hunt for Anti-Trust Law Violators.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 3.—While the packers today manifested the greatest pleasure in Commissioner Garfield's report on their trade methods and for the first time in three years were in a mood to talk, the district attorney's office went right along with its business of collecting and collating the evidence which will be presented to the grand jury looking to indictments for violation of the anti-trust law. It matters not whether the packers made money or lost it, they would be amenable to the law if a criminal trade conspiracy were shown to exist contrary to the Sherman law.

J. Ogden Armour said: "The report is very fair and gives the reader a good idea of what profits are made in the beef industry. There is no business in the world in which the margin of profits is so small. We have no patents on our business nor are we in a position to monopolize it."

Edward Morris: "It is not telling any news to say that packers do business on the closest margin of profit of any industry in the world and the findings of the commissioner are the best evidence that there is no monopoly in the dressed beef business."

Edward F. Swift: "It is evident that the investigation was carried out without any prejudice and the results, coming as they do from such authoritative source, are entitled to careful consideration."

CHAMBERLAIN DEPLORES UNIONIST DIFFERENCES

Declares They Have Caused Considerable Delay to Movement for Tariff Reform.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, March 3.—At a private meeting of the tariff reform league today Joseph Chamberlain made a speech in the course of which he referred to the differences of opinion in the Unionist party on the fiscal question, which has been shown more in parliament than in the country and have considerably delayed the movement for tariff reform.

He said he wished he could convince those friends who had urged the necessity of moving gradually, and in other ways had shown a certain fear of the results if they proclaimed their views openly, that they were like a man fighting with his hands tied behind him. The experience of the bye-elections had convinced the friends of fiscal reform that the bold policy was the best. They have, he said, just thrown away another seat. He was not surprised and could not profess any great regret. Anyone would suffer in an electoral campaign unless he had the full courage of his convictions. Half-hearted candidates were bound to fall. A certain stiffening of the backs of tariff reformers was emphatically needed.

In the meantime he supposed they must look forward to two or three years of the same kind of work as had been already undertaken. He admitted that they could not expect to succeed immediately, but his conviction of ultimate success was, if possible, stronger than ever.

UNITED NATIONS MAY FIGHT.

Present Ministerial Crisis Likely to Result in War Between Norway and Sweden.

BERLIN, March 3.—(Copyright Cable.)—Latest reports from Norway are causing considerable anxiety here, for it is recognized that the ministerial crisis is only the transition stage of a national crisis which may lead to civil war between Norway and Sweden.

There seems no doubt that the Norwegian party is determined to bring about a separation between Norway and Sweden if necessary by force of arms. There is little chance of the Swedish party giving way, as the Swedish fleet is in position to blockade Norway and bring the commercial life of the country to a standstill in 24 hours.

NO LEGISLATION FOR THE CANAL

Senate Attempts to Continue Present Law, but House Will Not Concur.

STATEHOOD BILL IS DEAD

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The senate found itself today far less pressed than usual on the last day of a session of congress. All the appropriation bills having been passed, the session was given up largely to general legislation. The pure food bill was definitely displaced and a sharp colloquy over the incident occurred between Messrs. McCumber and Lodge.

The joint resolution continuing in force the present law applicable to the Panama canal zone was unanimously adopted, but not until after several senators had expressed themselves in frank language concerning the attitude of the house, to which they attributed the failure of the conference on the bill. The senate today, 40 to 6, agreed to a resolution offered by Mr. Kittredge extending until the end of the next congress the provisions of the Spooner law providing for the temporary government of the Panama canal zone and for the prosecution of work on the canal.

No meeting of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce will be called to consider the senate resolution passed today, continuing the act which places the government of the canal zone in the hands of the president. The resolution was received from the senate this afternoon and at once referred to the committee named. Members of this committee, who have been consulted, indicate considerable feeling in the matter, and assert that the resolution is simply an attempt on the part of the senate to place on the house the responsibility for the failure of canal legislation.

The last day's session of the house before the final adjournment at noon tomorrow found that body almost through with its work of disposing of conference reports on the great supply measures of the government and a few measures of more or less public importance. From the moment the doors were opened until late in the night the galleries were packed, while outside in the corridors were thousands anxious to gain entrance to the chamber.

Final conference reports on the two remaining appropriation bills, the river and harbor and the general deficiency measures, were agreed to at an evening session.

The statehood bill died at 9:50 o'clock tonight. At that time the conferees on the bill parted not to meet again during the Fifty-eighth congress. There was persistent effort on the part of the senate conferees to get a disagreement reported to the two houses, but the house conferees made the positive declaration that no disagreement report would be signed.

The plan of the house leaders on the statehood question for the next congress has been outlined. The first day of the next session, Mr. Hamilton, chairman of the house committee on territories, will introduce the statehood bill with provisions like those which passed the house. He will call his committee together to report the bill, which action will be taken without preliminary hearings. Within two weeks it is expected the bill will be on the house calendar. A special rule will be forthcoming to put it through without protracted discussion, and the question then will be again before the senate. It is believed that with a long session before it the bill can be passed in the senate.

Value of Steel Cars Shown.

NEW BRIGHTON, March 3.—(Special.)—The strength of steel freight cars was demonstrated in a wreck on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad near Fallston this afternoon. An air hose burst on a car near the front of a train of steel cars and two wooden cars. The brakes were instantly set on the cars where the hose burst, causing the rear cars to jam against it. The two wooden cars were smashed to kindling wood, while not a steel car was damaged.

NICHOLAS SUMMONS COUNCIL OF WAR

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—Confirmation has been obtained of the report that Emperor Nicholas has summoned a council, including Gens. Sakharoff, Dragomiroff and Roop, to discuss the Gripenberg-Kuropatkin incident and the position at the front in general.

Twenty-Four Licenses Granted.

BEDFORD, PA., March 3.—(Special.)—Twenty-four licenses to sell liquor in Bedford county were granted by Judge Woods here today. New licenses were granted Joseph H. Edmondson at Everett and James McIntyre at Saxton. Two old ones were refused—Hughes Brothers, wholesale, at Bedford, and Marcus May, retail, at Hyndman. Among the new rulings was one prohibiting wholesale liquor dealers from selling through grocery stores.

Young Member Makes Fine Speech.

LONDON, March 4.—An interesting incident of yesterday's sitting of the house of commons was the promising maiden speech of Viscount Turnour, who is not yet 22. He was warmly congratulated by many members, including Sir Edward Grey, who complimented him on sharing the record with the boy premier William Pitt.

SENATE PASSES THE RIVER BILL

Final Action Was Preceded by Bitter Argument Between Sibley and Burton.

HARSH STATEMENTS IN HOUSE

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.

At 11:30 tonight the conferees' final report on the river and harbor bill was adopted by the senate and the bill was passed. Earlier in the day a serious disagreement among the conferees threatened the defeat of the bill and this was only avoided by concessions on the part of both the senate and the house.

When Chairman Burton returned to the house with the announcement of disagreement he was made the subject of an attack by several Pennsylvania members. Mr. Sibley said Mr. Burton only appeared on the floor as a trouble-maker and he made other pointed allusions which called forth some warm retorts from the Cleveland man.

Mr. Sibley had moved that the house recede and concur in all the remaining amendments. Mr. Burton opposed the motion.

Mr. Sibley asked if it were not true that Mr. Burton had written a letter to a senator before the bill left the house, saying that if the senate amended the measure there would be no bill. He declined, however, to allow Mr. Burton to make an explanation on his (Sibley's) time. Mr. Sibley then reverted to a statement said to have been made by Mr. Burton on the floor of the house that if the house should disagree to the senate amendments there would be no bill. This, he maintained, was an indication there would not be a free conference, and he suggested that it would be better for the speaker to appoint unprejudiced conferees. Mr. Sibley said several senators had informed him there would be no bill unless the house receded on the amendments in dispute.

Sibley's Remarks Resented.

This statement was challenged by Mr. James of Kentucky, who asked who the "imperial senators were who had instructed him (Mr. Sibley) to inform the house of their dictum."

Mr. Williams made the point of order that the discussion was not within the rules in the reference made to senators. Speaker Cannon sustained this point.

The reflections of Mr. Sibley on Mr. Burton were warmly resented by Mr. Burgess of Texas. Mr. Sibley, he said, by insinuation had conveyed a threat by certain senators that they would defeat the bill unless the senate's amendments were agreed to. He prophesied that if that were so those men would go out of political life and, he added, with bitterness, "even in Pennsylvania." Mr. Burton, he said, amid applause, was a brave and fair chairman, always actuated by the highest motives and a man whom the Democrats would be proud to see sitting on their side.

Messrs. Adams and Morrall of Pennsylvania were more vigorous in their protest against the conferees for holding out against the senate amendments. The latter boldly asserting that the bill would be talked to death in the senate if the house did not recede.

Following remarks by Mr. Lorimer of Illinois testifying to the high character and ability of Chairman Burton and by Mr. Sulzer of New York, in favor of concurring in the senate amendments, Mr. Burton threw down the gauntlet to the Pennsylvania delegation and said to them that if they wanted to take the responsibility for defeating the bill they could do so.

Threat to the House.

The statement that the bill would be talked to death by the two senators he declared to be a veiled threat to the house because he had heard of no other outside of those two. He detailed the generous appropriations granted to Pennsylvania in the past and in the present bill and defiantly called on the Pennsylvania delegation to dispute him. He declared that so long as he was chairman of the rivers and and harbors committee, no threat of the loss of the bill would deter him from fair dealing. It was, he said, far better to lose the bill than to establish a precedent that one man or two men will insist on something unreasonable and hold up congress. Prolonged applause greeted him as he took his seat.

The Sibley motion was voted down, 189 to 76.

The bill was sent to further conference. Messrs. Burton of Ohio, Dovener of West Virginia and Lester of Georgia being appointed conferees.

Senator Penrose has strongly intimated that if the increased appropriations for the Delaware channel were not granted he would talk the bill to death. Later the conferees got together and reached an agreement by striking out the provision for a survey, that for local participation and increasing the authorization of contracts from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. Senator Penrose accepted these terms and he also secured the passage of a resolution calling upon the secretary of war to inform the senate the cost of deepening the Delaware channel to 30 feet.

CZAR GRANTS AN ASSEMBLY

Issues Rescript to Minister of Interior to Call Conference to Formulate a Plan.

THANKS TO PETITIONERS

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—The emperor has issued a rescript to the minister of the interior stating that he has decided to convene an assembly of elected representatives of the people to elaborate and consider legislative measures. Following is the text of the rescript:

"True to the ancient custom of the Russian people of the expression of its feelings to the throne in days of joy or sorrow for the fatherland, the nobility, Zemstvo assemblies, commercial associates and peasant communities have offered from all parts of Russia congratulations on the birth of the heir to the throne, with expressions of their willingness to sacrifice their fortunes for the successful termination of the war, and to devote all their strength to the establishment of order in the state. In my own name and in that of her majesty, I order you to convey to them our hearty thanks for the expression of their loyal feeling, which in the present very grave times is all the more pleasing as an expression of their willingness, at my call, to co-operate in the successful execution of the reforms announced by me, and is entirely in accordance with the wishes of my heart.

"My desire is to attain the fulfilment of my intentions for the welfare of my people by means of the co-operation of the government with experienced forces of the community, and continuing the work of my crowned ancestors, to retain the prestige of the Russian nation undiminished and to maintain order therein. I am resolved henceforth, with the help of God, to convene the worthiest men, possessing the confidence of the people and elected by them, to participate in the elaboration and consideration of legislative measures.

"Taking into consideration the peculiar circumstances of the fatherland, the multiplicity of its races and, in certain parts of the country, the weak development of citizenship, Russian rulers in their wisdom instituted reforms in accordance with their mature requirements, but only in logical sequence, at the same time considering the continuation of firm historical ties with the past as a pledge for the durability and stability of the present.

"In undertaking these reforms I am convinced that local needs and experiences of life, well weighed and sincere speech of those elected, will insure fruitfulness to legislation and real benefit of the people. At the same time I foresee all the complexity and difficulty presented in the elaboration of this reform, while preserving absolutely the immutability of the fundamental laws of the empire.

"I have confidence in your long administrative experience and value your tranquil assurance in approbation of a special conference to meet under your presidency to consider means to accomplish this, my will.

"May God bless this good beginning. May God help you successfully to secure the welfare of the people confided to me by God. NICHOLAS."

The signing of the document came at the end of a dramatic scene, the climax of which was an impassioned speech by Emperor Nicholas to his ministers, in which he declared that he sought only the welfare of his subjects.

"I am willing," the emperor said, "to shed my blood for the good of my people."

The emperor was surrounded by the ministers and a few members of his court and the empress was at his side. The decree involves no change in the regime of autocracy, and it means neither a constitution nor a national assembly. At the same time it recognizes the principle of the people's right to be heard regarding laws under which they must live. Whatever the result may be, the document is sure to mark an epoch in Russian history, as important, if not more important than the signing of the emancipation manifesto, the twenty-fourth anniversary of which it was intended to signalize.

A high personage, who was present said: "The emperor has been represented as indifferent to the condition of his people, but the greatness of Russia is his sole care. For him the two are indissolubly linked. For this reason he refuses to surrender the autocratic power in favor of a constitutional regime. Why? Because he is convinced, as he virtually says in so many words in the rescript, that the people are not prepared for popular government. The heterogeneous elements of the population—Poles, Finns, Tartars, Armenians, Mongols, and other races—are only held together by the autocracy, whose end would mean the fall of Russia as a great state. But the emperor recognizes the strength of the outcry against the bureaucracy, as manifested by addresses and memorials voted by all classes of society, and has yielded to their demand. The people's representatives can make known directly to him their views concerning every law which the council of the empire proposes."

POLICE OF QUAKER CITY ARREST ELOPING WIFE

Mrs. Lena Bacharella of Pittsburgh and Her Companion Are Held to Await Husband's Arrival.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—Mrs. Lena Bacharella, a pretty young Italian woman whose home is in Pittsburgh, was arrested here today on a warrant sworn out by her husband, who charges she took $2,000 of his money and deserted him. In company with the woman when she was arrested was Ariola Longo, a former employe of the woman's husband, who is a well-to-do fruit dealer in Pittsburgh.

Word was sent here to arrest both of the fugitives. The police found them in a house at No. 703 Christian street. Mrs. Bacharella, who was dressed in expensive garments, when taken to the city hall did not admit having taken the money and running away, but in her trunk at the house $1,500 was found. Longo was well supplied with greenbacks. The couple was locked up in the Central station to await the arrival of the woman's husband.

ASKS ACCOUNTING FOR $60,994,000 IN STOCKS

Promoter of the U. S. Shipbuilding Company Begins Suit Against the Mercantile Trust Company.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—A suit was filed today by counsel for John W. Young, one of the promoters of the United States Shipbuilding Company, asking for an accounting of $60,994,000 of the securities of the corporation, from the Mercantile Trust Company, its trustee.

The complaint recites that in June, 1902, the Mercantile Trust Company accepted the offer of the plaintiff to convey to it $19,995,500 of the preferred and $24,958,500 of the common stock of the United States Shipbuilding Company, and $16,000,000 of the first mortgage 6 per cent sinking funds. The complaint alleges that the Mercantile Trust Company "did not deliver and distribute the said securities as directed, authorized or permitted by said trust obligation or by the plaintiff. And the said defendant never rendered an accounting to the plaintiff in respect of said securities, or the disposition made of them by it, although demand therefor has been made."

RUSSIAN ARMY IS BEATING RETREAT

Kuropatkin Is Bending Every Effort to Extricate Himself from Japanese Trap.

HAS LOST 7,000 SOLDIERS

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—According to the latest information from the front, fighting is general and of the most desperate character. The losses have been exceedingly heavy on both sides.

Although it is not officially admitted, it is regarded as certain that Gen. Kuropatkin is directing all his efforts to the withdrawal of his army to Tie pass. It is now practically a rear guard action, but the task of extricating himself is proving very difficult. The Japanese have not only driven in his left, but a column is already reported to have crossed the Hun river east of Fushun. At the same time, the Japanese are pressing the Russian center under cover of the fire of their siege guns.

The efforts of the Japanese to envelop the Russian right wing have been unsuccessful, but it has been forced back almost on a line with Mukden. Two Russian divisions were dispatched to head off the wide flanking column advancing from the Liao river toward Sinmintin (about 30 miles west of Mukden), but according to the latest advices they were too late, the Japanese having entered the town yesterday.

Russian Loss Is 7,000.

According to unofficial reports, the Russian losses up to last night were nearly 7,000 men. Gen. Rennekempff particularly distinguished himself during the fighting in the mountain passes southwest of Mukden. Ugly rumors of mutiny among some of the Polish regulars at the front are in circulation.

A dispatch from Gen. Kuropatkin, dated March 2, says:

"Our detachment at Oubenepusa holds its position. The commander of the advance guard, Mojciko, has been killed.

"A detachment on the right flank, near Kudaza, has repulsed an attack by the Japanese, whose losses were enormous. One company was annihilated. The heights commanding the entire plain near Tomaguchen, after alternately changing hands, have been definitely occupied by our troops.

"The Japanese attack on our right flank has been repulsed. At 7 a. m. the Japanese advanced on Putiloff hill, but were repulsed. Our losses yesterday were insignificant."

Fighting Is Stubborn.

SAKHETUN, MANCHURIA, March 3.—Stubborn fighting has been in progress all day long. The Japanese today made two infantry attacks on Putiloff hill, but were repulsed. They have resumed the bombardment of the hill.

The Japanese attacked the Russian extreme left wing at two points as well as at Gauto pass where, during the morning, the fortifications previously abandoned were recaptured by the Russians. Toward evening the Japanese advanced on the right wing, where stubborn fighting continues.

Though the Japanese are pushing forward on the left bank of the Hun river, the Russians are maintaining a stubborn defense. The four Japanese divisions engaged in the turning movement on the Russian right on the Liao river today reached Sawnipu, about 11 miles west of Mukden, but Russian reinforcements were sent out and checked the advance.

Under cover of the artillery fire and a mist, the Japanese opened an infantry attack on Putiloff hill at 7 o'clock this morning, but were beaten off by the desolating fire of the Russians guns. A second attack at noon was similarly repulsed, after which the Japanese resumed the bombardment of the hill with siege guns preparatory to making a fresh assault. Gen. Nogi's Port Arthur veterans are participating in the fighting. The losses on both sides are heavy.

Battle Nears Mukden.

MUKDEN, March 3.—A ceaseless artillery fire is heard 10 miles southward. The roaring of the guns is becoming more distinct every hour.

The Russian losses during the last five days have been heavy. The wounded are streaming through Mukden northward, the hospital train service being infinitely better than at the time of the battle of the Shakhe river.

Night attacks are again a feature of Japanese tactics. In one engagement on the left flank, for hours the men fought in darkness, the Japanese using hand grenades with terrible effect. The butchery on both sides was frightful.

Gen. Rennenkampff's troops acquitted themselves brilliantly, contesting the passes southeast for three days. They fought continuously, the Japanese pressing them on all sides with heavy odds in favor of the Japanese. Thursday night the corps lost 1,800 men, including 14 officers. Over 3,000 wounded men have arrived here.

The brunt of the fighting fell on Gen. Danielsoff's division and Gen. Lubavin's division, which held the heights of Tumous mountain. They were attacked last night and the position twice changed hands, but morning found it still in possession of the Russians. Thus far Gen. Rennenkampff has successfully barred the way of Gen. Kuroki's columns.

Oku Loses 2,000 Men.

TOKYO, March 3.—The following reports have been received from the field headquarters of the Manchurian armies:

"The enemy in front of our forces in the direction of Singching appears to be gradually receiving reinforcements. Our Penshu force has captured the enemy's positions in the eastern heights of Katai pass and at Changkou, which is two miles east of Tungkou mountain.

"In the direction of the Shakhe river the enemy in front of our forces made a small night attack, which we repulsed. The enemy on the right bank of the Hun river made a counter attack on Chenchiehpao and its western districts toward the river, but the attack was entirely repulsed. We have driven the enemy from Chingtao and Suganglai."

—GEN. OKU'S HEADQUARTERS IN THE FIELD, March 2.—(Via Fusan.)—A Japanese detachment sent to reconnoiter about 550 yards north of Apatai, this (Thursday) morning, attacked the Russians and carried their trenches after a desperate bayonet charge against superior numbers. The casualties suffered by Gen. Oku's army last night (Wednesday) and this (Thursday) morning were about 2,000, but the Russian losses were greater.

CALL OF CZAR TO RUSSIAN PEOPLE

Text of His Manifesto Asking Subjects to Rally to Support of Throne.

TO OVERCOME FOREIGN FOE

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—The text of the imperial manifesto published by the Official Messenger today calling on the country to rally round the throne in defense of the empire from its internal enemies, is as follows:

"An inscrutable providence has been pleased to visit our fatherland with heavy trials. A bloody war in the far east, involving the honor of Russia and the command of the waters of the Pacific ocean so urgently necessary to the consolidation of the peaceful prosperity not only of our own but of other Christian nations throughout the ages, has imposed a great strain on the strength of the Russian people and has swallowed up many dear victims near to our heart. While the glorious sons of Russia are fighting with self-sacrificing bravery, risking their lives for their faith, for their emperor and for their country, disturbances have broken out in our own land to the joy of our enemies and our own deep sorrow.

"Blinded by pride, the evil-minded leaders of a revolutionary movement make insolent attacks on the holy orthodox church and the lawfully established pillars of the Russian state, thinking that by severing the natural connection with the past they will destroy the existing order of the state and set up in its place a new administration on a foundation unsuitable to our fatherland.

Refers to Killing of Sergius.

"The outrage on the Grand Duke Sergius, who ardently loved the first capital of the empire and who met his end midst the sacred monuments of the Kremlin, deeply shocks the national feeling of everyone to whom the honor of the Russian name and renown and his home are dear.

"We humbly bear the trials sent us by providence and derive strength and consolation from our firm trust in the grace which God has always shown to the Russian power, and from the immemorial devotion which we know our loyal people entertain for the throne.

"With the help of the prayers of the holy orthodox church and under the banner of the autocratic might of the emperors, Russia has already frequently passed through great wars and disturbances, always issuing from her troubles and difficulties with fresh and unbending strength. Nevertheless, the recent internal disorders and the instability of thought, which have favored the spread of revolt and disturbances, make it our duty to remind all those in the government institutions of their service oath to call upon them to display increased solicitude in the safeguarding of law, order and security, in firm consciousness of their moral responsibility as servants of the throne and of the fatherland.

Asks All to Give Support.

"Thinking unceasingly of the welfare of our people and firmly trusting that God after He has tried our patience, will give victory to our arms, we appeal to right-minded people of all classes to join us each in his calling and in his place in single-minded co-operation by word and deed in the great and sacred task of overcoming the stubborn foreign foe and eradicating the revolt at home, and in wise efforts to check the internal confusion. We wish to remind every one in this connection that only if there is tranquility of mind throughout the whole population, it is possible to realize our aims for a renewal of the quiet life of our people, strengthening the prosperity of the state and perfecting its administration.

"Let all those rally around the throne who, true to Russia's past, honestly and conscientiously have a care in accord with ourselves for every affair of state.

"May God send down on the clergy holiness, on those in authority justice and truth, on the people peace, on the laws power and on the faithful strength for the consolidation of the autocracy and the welfare of our dear subjects.

"NICHOLAS."

It is considered that these bills ne make a program sufficient to keep short session busy, without undertng much in addition.

Practically three weeks of the senate's e was taken up with the impeachment l of Charles Swayne, United States ge of the Northern district of Florida, on charges preferred by the house d upon which Judge Swayne was acitted.

A statehood bill passed both branches congress but failed because of the inility of certain members to agree upon e provisions.

MANY CHANGES IN THE SENATE

New Members of the Upper Branch of Congress Will Take Oath Today.

THREE VETERANS TO RETIRE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.

With the expiration of the Fifty-eighth congress tomorrow the terms of 30 members of the United States senate expire, and Senator Fairbanks' resignation takes effect that he may assume the office of vice president. When the new senate organizes at noon the Republican majority will have been reduced one vote temporarily, owing to the fact that the Delaware and Missouri legislatures have not yet been able to elect. When these two vacancies are filled the Republicans will have 58 votes and the Democrats 32. At present the Republicans have 57 and the Democrats 33.

The following senators have been elected to succeed themselves: Aldrich of Rhode Island, Bate of Tennessee, Beveridge of Indiana, Burrows of Michigan, Clapp of Minnesota, Clark of Wyoming, Culberson of Texas, Daniel of Virginia, Depew of New York, Dick of Ohio, Hale of Maine, Kean of New Jersey, Knox of Pennsylvania, Lodge of Massachusetts, McCumber of North Dakota, Money of Mississippi, Proctor of Vermont, Scott of West Virginia and Taliaferro of Florida. They will all be present to take the oath of office tomorrow except Senator Knox, who has gone to Palm Beach, Fla., for his health, and Senator Aldrich, who is in Europe.

The following senators will retire from office to be succeeded by new men: Ball of Delaware, Bard of California, Cockrell of Missouri, Dietrich of Nebraska, Foster of Washington, Gibson of Montana, Hawley of Connecticut, Kearns of Utah, McCann of Maryland, Quarles of Wisconsin, Stewart of Nevada and Fairbanks of Indiana. Ten of them are Republicans and two are Democrats. In the list are three of the veterans of the United States senate. Mr. Cockrell is second eldest in point of service, being exceeded only by Senator Allison of Iowa. Mr. Hawley is fifth in line and Mr. Stewart is eleventh. The latter would be first if there were no interval in his service, as he came to the senate before any of the others.

There are nine Republicans and one Democrat among the incoming senators, whose names follow: Charles R. Flint of California, Elmer J. Burkett of Nebraska, Samuel Pyles of Washington, Thomas H. Carter of Montana, Morgan B. Bulkeley of Connecticut, George Sutherland of Utah, Isador Raynor of Maryland, Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, George R. Dixon of Nevada and James A. Hemenway of Indiana. All of these new men are expected to be present tomorrow when the senate organizes.

The legislatures of Delaware and Missouri are still in session and as both are controlled by Republicans it is certain that they will send Republican senators from those states.

ELLIS GLENN PROBABLY WILL NEVER BE TRIED

No Court Official Eligible—Woman Has Organized Company to Drill for Oil.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., March 3.—The case of Ellis Glenn, who four years ago was charged with forgery committed while masquerading as a man, will in all probability never come to trial. Her case was set for today but was not reached.

When she appears her case will be continued for the reason that there will not be a court official eligible to try her. The present judge of the criminal court was assistant prosecuting attorney at the time of her former trial. The judge of the circuit court was formerly prosecuting attorney. The special judge of the criminal court chosen for cases in which the regular judge is incompetent to act, was a witness at the former trial, and the present prosecutor was formerly Ellis Glenn's counsel.

In the meantime she is out on bail and has just organized a company to drill for oil in a hitherto undeveloped section of the state.

PRESS MUZZLING SERIOUS PROBLEM

Lord Selborne Says Most Patriotic Journalist Might Make Trouble in War.

NO REMEDY IN BRITISH LAW

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, March 3.—In the house of lords today Lord Ellenborough (Conservative) drew attention to the dangers the country might be exposed to during the few hours preceding a declaration of war or the first few days of a contest, if the government was unable to check the dissemination of news, and asked if the government would take steps to consider an alteration of the laws in this connection.

Lord Selborne, first lord of the admiralty, replying, said he knew of no law which could prevent the "baleful dissemination" of news. The most patriotic journalist might innocently jeopardize an issue. Parliament and the press might be urged to consider a remedy. Japan, Lord Selborne added, would not have succeeded as she had but for her power in suppressing news.

Lord Selborne lengthily discussed Lord Ellenborough's question regarding the admiralty's precautions against a possibility of a surprise naval attack similar to that off Port Arthur and an invasion of Great Britain by a foreign country. He proposed to discuss the question whether Great Britain or any other country was liable to attack from any country at a moment of profound peace, when there was not even a diplomatic cloud on the horizon. He said Lord Ellenborough had greatly exaggerated the danger of a surprise invasion and had underrated the difficulties which would confront an invader. A temporary loss of command of the sea from negligence or accident by Great Britain would never enable an invader to land in this country. The whole experience of the existing war lent force to that question.

Lord Selborne laid stress on the immense importance to Japan of disposing entirely of the Russian fleet. He said the whole issue of the war hinged upon this, and everyone who had followed the history of the war had noted the intense nervousness of the Japanese so long as a single vessel of the Russian squadron remained afloat.

Wisconsin Salons Back Water.

MADISON, WIS., March 3.—Today the resolution introduced in the senate yesterday challenging the governor's figures in regard to railroad earnings was laid aside, and a substitute adopted, providing for a committee of three senators to examine the reports from which the governor's figures were taken and report whether fro msuch statements it is possible to arrive at the conclusions set forth in the governor's message.

PAYROLL TO DENOUNCE ANNEXATION IDEA

Allegheny Is Flooded With Hand-Bills Which Denounce Greater Pittsburgh Measure.

"Citizens of Allegheny, be warned. Be not deceived by specious empty promises and vain delusions. Awake to a sense of the audacity and presumption of these wirepullers of Pittsburgh who propose the absorption of our fair city of Allegheny."

This is the heading on a circular which has been spread broadcast over Allegheny. It is the forerunner of the mass meeting which is to be held in Allegheny Carnegie hall tonight, held, the projectors say, merely to "discuss the Greater Pittsburgh bill." Mayor Wyman has ordered every payroller to attend the meeting, and the annexation idea is being denounced on every hand by those who benefit from political positions.

The speakers at the meeting tonight will be W. J. Burke, president of the Ann Oil Company; W. C. Burry, former member of common council from the Second ward; Harvey Henderson, Christopher Saan and Attorney Gill. The latter says the meeting is not called to protest against annexation but to furnish an opportunity for all to speak, whether the project is favored or not.

Mr. Gill says one resolution will be presented which will request the legislature to amend the proposed bills by giving Allegheny the right to vote separately on the proposition. A handbill which has been distributed in Allegheny, reads in part, as follows:

We have no reason to be ashamed of our identity and individuality. We are satisfied with our status at home and abroad. Let us refuse and resent with scorn a unity, an absorption, and annexation that would make us tributary to Pittsburgh and destroy our liberty and name. Esau sold his birth-right for a mess of pottage. Scotland sold herself for a groat. With these precedents in view let us not be FOOLS and give ourselves away for a song. Go to the Meeting at Carnegie Hall, Saturday evening, March 4, and stand pat for Great Allegheny.

"If consolidation of Allegheny and Pittsburgh becomes a fact some of the old mossbacks who make up the majority of those opposing Greater Pittsburgh will be greatly surprised at the great developments which will take place," said Dr. James C. Thompson of Union avenue, one of the leading physicians of Allegheny. "There is no doubt that consolidation will result in great benefit to Allegheny, and incidentally to Pittsburgh. Great changes will soon be inaugurated in Allegheny. None but those who have personal reasons can possibly oppose annexation of Allegheny."

Three Million Homes

Know What Liquozone Can Do. Who Else Will Try it Free?

We judge from our records that one me in five, the country over, has me one whom Liquozone has cured. me have been cured of little ills; me know that their lives have been ved by it. And most of those homes ll use Liquozone daily, as we do, to ep well.

Those homes are scattered everyhere. Your neighbors and friends live some of them. If you will only ask out Liquozone there are plenty to ll you about it. Why will you suffer ith any germ disease while millions now how to end it?

Don't you realize that a product hich is used like this must have rearkable merit? We have never asked soul to buy Liquozone. We have ublished no testimonials, no evidence cures. We have simply asked the ok to let us buy the first bottle—to t the product itself prove what it can . And we ask that of you, if you ed it. If you are still using drugs to re germ troubles, let us, at our exnse, show you something better.

What Liquozone Is.

Liquozone is a product which, in the st two years has sprung into worldde use in the treatment of germ disses. It is now used by the sick of ne nations; by physicians and hospils everywhere. It is daily used in illions of homes in America.

The virtues of Liquozone are derived ely from gas, made in large part om the best oxygen producers. No rugs, no alcohol—nothing but this as enters into it. The process of aking takes 14 days, and requires imense apparatus. At the end of two eeks we get one cubic inch of Liquone for each 1,250 cubic inches of gas ed. The attainment of this product as, for more than 20 years, been the nstant subject of scientific and chemal research.

The main result is, to get into a liquid, and thus into the blood, a powerful, yet harmless germicide. And the product is so helpful—so good for you under any condition—that even a well person feels its instant benefit.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone and the rights in other countries have sold for proportionate sums. We mention this fact to indicate the value of Liquozone—the value to you. Men have never before paid such a price for any discovery used in the cure of sickness.

We need not tell you that we proved Liquozone well before buying it. For years it was tested through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. It was employed in every stage of every germ disease; in all the most difficult cases obtainable. With thousands of sick ones, considered incurable, we proved that it did what medicine could not do. Then, and then only, did we pay the price.

Since then we have spent nearly $2,000,000 to make Liquozone known. We have bought the first bottle and given it free to every sick one we learned of. These people told others, and the others told others. The result is that Liquozone is now more widely employed than any medicine ever was. And no one can doubt that it is doing more for sick humanity than all the drugs in use combined.

Kills Inside Germs.

The greatest value of Liquozone lies in the fact that it kills germs in the body without willing the tissues, too. And no man knows another way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. For that reason, medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Liquozone is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. Yet it is not only harmless, but of wonderful benefit—better than anything else in the world for you. No one is so well that he cannot be helped by it.

The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter. To the human body, Liquozone is exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying—the most needful, the most helpful thing possible. But to germs it is certain destruction; and these facts are true of nothing else in existence.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases; all due to germs or to the poisons which germs create. These are the diseases to which medicine does not apply, for drugs cannot kill inside germs.

All that medicine can do for these troubles is to act as a tonic, aiding Nature to overcome the germs. But those results are indirect and uncertain, depending on the patient's condition. A cure is always doubtful when drugs are used, and some of these diseases medicine never cures.

Liquozone alone can destroy the cause of these troubles. It goes wherever the blood goes, so that no germ can escape it. The results are almost inevitable. Diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquozone. "Incurable" diseases are cured by it. In any stage of any disease in this list the results are so certain that we will gladly send to any patient who asks it an absolute guaranty.

AMERICUS CLUB IS A SENSATION

Pittsburghers Reach Washington in Good Form and Call Upon Many Notables.

GIVE DINNER TO GEN. WARNER

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.

Wherever there is anything doing in this wonderful city tonight Pennsylvanians are to be found as the chief directors and banner carriers, and Pittsburgh is fairly dividing honors with the men from Philadelphia, even if the latter are largely in the majority. Pennsylvania is going to be a great big factor in the big show tomorrow, which, if present indications count for anything, is going to eclipse all that has become history, and Washington has known some great times on the occasion of former inaugurations. Tonight Pennsylvania is in evidence everywhere, and that means that the men from Pittsburgh, who are here by the thousands, are making themselves and their great city known. Pittsburgh has been advertised all day long, and this evening one of the principal social functions is being given by Pittsburghers.

It was shortly after 9 o'clock this morning when the first Pittsburgh demonstration took place. That was when the Americus Republican club, 150 men in line and headed by the Second Brigade band of 50 pieces, swung into Pennsylvania avenue from the Pennsylvania station and headed up the broad boulevard to the front of the Treasury building, where the line-up was photographed. The picture was to be one of the features of a big pictorial souvenir publication, but the photographer met with a bit of hard luck this afternoon, the first, he declares, that he has had in handling inaugurals for 25 years past, when he dropped the negative and had it smashed into a thousand bits. Now he is imploring the Americus men to get a move on half an hour ahead of the schedule time in the morning and let him have another snap at them.

Club Serenades Notables.

After the photograph had been taken, the Americus men marched to the Hotel Raleigh and had breakfast. The balance of the morning was spent in getting ready for a demonstration this afternoon. From 1 o'clock until nearly 5 the club was on the go, serenading notables and making it known that Pittsburgh was on the map. They serenaded Admiral Dewey, and though that old sea dog is on the sick list and has been confined to his residence for several days, he insisted on throwing up the window of his room and shouting a hoarse greeting to the club that not so many months ago made him their honored guest. Senator Penrose was serenaded, and so was J. Willis Moore, the weather man, who is one of the club's favorites; but favorite though he be, he was threatened with all manner of dire fates should the weather of tomorrow be aught but what it promises to be this evening—one of the finest inaugural days Washington has ever known. There are thousands who declare that it cannot be otherwise that fine tomorrow; that the luck of President Roosevelt will permit of no other condition. If these predictions come true, Washington will see something surpassing any outdoor demonstration chronicled in her history. It is in the air. Everybody is anxious to assist in making it such.

But to get back to the serenading trip of the Americus club: Congressman John Dalzell and H. Kirke Porter were remembered and the Post and Star newspaper offices were visited. Then the club lined up in front of the New Willard and gave Congressman-elect Barchfeld a compliment. The big long doctor came downstairs and looking the crowd over from the curbstone assured them one and all that they looked good to him. Next the club made its way to the White House and serenaded the president, and then wound up the afternoon's work by calling at the residence of Senator Fairbanks, the vice president-elect.

Complimented by Fairbanks.

Mr. Fairbanks made a little talk, complimenting the club most generously on the record it has made. He told them how he had been told of the worth of the club by the lamented McKinley and by the late Senator Hanna, and how he had learned personally of the sacrifices the members of the organization were ever ready to make for the sake of their party, as exemplified, for instance, in the long 900 mile trip the club made in the last campaign when they acted as Senator Fairbanks' personal escort for the big Madison Square garden meeting in New York. In conclusion Senator Fairbanks asked the privilege of shaking the hand of each member of the club.

Somehow or other the Americus club seems to be the special attraction for the colored people of this city. It is proverbial that the beat of a drum in Washington will bring negroes swarming as bees about a sugar barrel. When the Second brigade band broke out into a swelling harmony on Pennsylvania avenue this morning the colored population seemed to rise from the ground as one man and fall in line to march to the stirring strains. There was an advance guard in front of the band that was a wonder. And so it has been all this afternoon. Many other clubs have put in an appearance headed by splendid musical organizations and all of them attracting large followings of the colored population, but the Americus club always had the greatest mob. Whether it is the excellence of the music or whether it is the attraction found in the tall white plug hats and twirling, red, white and blue umbrellas that draws this body, guard no one seems to know, but there is no question as to its being there.

Will Know More of Pittsburgh.

The work of the club today has been a great advertisement for Pittsburgh and that to come tomorrow bids fair to be even greater. The Americus men are to act as escort for Gen. B. H. Warner, who is the chief marshal of the wonderfully diversified civic division. This will be the fourth inauguration that the Pittsburgh club has had this position of escort, the first time being in 1889 when Harrison was inaugurated. This evening the officers and inaugural committee of the club made a return compliment paid them by Gen. Warner by tendering him a complimentary dinner at the Hotel Raleigh. Those who were at the table and their guests were as follows:

Vice President-elect Fairbanks, Congressmen-elect Graham and Barchfeld, Congressman James W. Brown, J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia, who was toastmaster; Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Gen. Chaffee, Congressman Dayton of West Virginia, Prof. J. Willis Moore, Congressman Southard of Ohio, who is to be one of the speakers at the club's next Grant's birthday dinner; Lawrence W. Noyes of the Union League club of Chicago, Judge Robert Armstrong of the superior court of the District of Columbia; Dr. F. S. Warner, Jr., Col. L. P. Shoemaker and Col. O. G. Staples, Col. J. Hopper Lindsay of Gov. Pennypacker's staff, Gen. O. O. Howard, Gen. D. D. Wheeler, John C. Dilworth, chairman, and J. Harry Letsche and J. R. Barkour, Jr., of the inaugural committee; Secretaries George S. Houghton and T. L. Harper, William I. Mustin, Maj. Harry W. McIntosh, Charles E. Schuetz, Edwin G. Hayes, James Kirkwood, James Negley Cooke, Dr. S. H. Ralston and Councilman William Schempf.

Mr. Mustin Made Commander.

Among those who had to decline invitations to meet Gen. Warner were Congressman-elect James Francis Burke, Senator Beveridge, Congressman J. Adam Lode, Gen. Joseph Wheeler, the Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton, Postmaster General Wynne and Congressman James E. Watson of Indiana, who is to be another of the orators at the coming annual banquet of the club. The dinner was sumptuously appointed and was one of the notable affairs of this evening. The news that it was being held spread and again was the fame of Pittsburgh heralded.

The Americus organization has been further honored by having its ex-president, Mr. Mustin, appointed commander of all the Pennsylvania clubs that will appear in the civic division. This appointment by Gen. Warner will put Mr. Mustin at the head of one of the best and most distinguished bodies of men in the entire parade.

Philadelphia clubs are here in great numbers, every one of them headed by a smashing big band and carrying banners that put David's coat of many colors in the shade. These Quaker City clubs commenced to pour in late this afternoon and for a time it seemed as though there was none but Philadelphians on the avenue. They came so fast that street cars, automobiles and the big society parade, that was taking advantage of a perfect spring afternoon to get out on the famous thoroughfare and look things over, became very much mixed up. There was a hearty laugh all along the avenue when the Eighteenth Ward club marched along with a gorgeous bromo-seltzer advertising wagon bringing up the rear. They may need the stuff in the morning, but these Philadelphians look to be a very husky and hard-working lot of men.

Created More Colonels.

In addition to appointing Mr. Mustin as marshal in charge of the Pennsylvania clubs, Gen. Warner has further honored the Americus club by naming several of the more prominent members as members of his staff, all of them with the title of colonel, and those so appointed are all insisting on the use of the title when they are addressed.

The Hon. Joan J. Shenkel and a few other members of the Young Men's Tariff Republican club are already on the ground wearing their shiny beavers and long cape overcoats and exciting comment as to whether they are actor men or preachers. The club is due to arrive early tomorrow morning and then, so say those who are already here, they will show a turn-out of the stalwart Republicanism of Pittsburgh that will make Washington talk more than it has already over the great city at the forks of the Ohio.

INAUGURAL BALL RICH IN COLORS

The Pension Building Is Transformed Into an Italian Flower Garden.

IS DECORATED HANDSOMELY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Italian skies seldom covered a more beautiful scene than that on which the newly inaugurated president will gaze as he enters his panoplied box tomorrow night formally to open the inaugural ball. He will find himself in an Italian garden surrounded by a two-story arcade hung with festoons of laurel and southern smilax and baskets of gaily colored orchids and pink azaleas. Flowers bloom everywhere and stately palms from the tropic stand here and there amid the golden columns of the arcade with its ivory facades. Crowning the gallery of the second arcade are 76 columns supporting as many globes, on each of which stands an American eagle with outstretched wings. Festoons of ivory colored drapery connect the columns and back of each rises a fir tree, their tops almost lost to view in the dim blue of the sky. In the center of the garden is a wonderful grotto with weird caverns. A seven-mouthed fountain shoots forth streams of many colors which splash upon the rocks and freshen the drooping water lilies that bloom among the ferns. At the other end of this wonderful garden back of a bank of blue bougainvilleas is a small amphitheater almost surrounded by huge palms, these flowers and palms concealing the Marine band from view.

This is what has been done with the pension building where every inaugural ball since President Cleveland's inauguration has been held. For months the decoration committee has been working and the result of their labors will be seen tomorrow night. Never before have the decorations been on such a bold and lavish scale. Instead of swaddling the immense court of the pension building with bunting and flowers and palms, the committee undertook to improvise an Italian garden. The walls are covered with blue bunting and in order to gain the effect of a sky overhead the lights are centered and confined almost entirely to the garden.

Green and gold are the predominating tones in the decorations. The second story of the ivory-tinted arcade has a luminous red frieze of Turkey red bunting which stands in striking relief against the blue background of the rest of the building. Other contrasts are furnished by the evergreens that surround the summit of the arcade.

Largely to the accurate detail with which the illuminating scheme has been worked out is due the harmony with which the flowers and the palms, the bunting and the flags, the trees and the golden columns of the arcade are blended with the dim blue overhead. In order to give the greatest illumination to the ball room floor a double row of strong lights with reflecing glass globes are arranged at the first cornice level of the arcade. Surrounding the second story of the arcade are a series of discs between the arches. Each disc consists of 76 frosted lights of soft tones in colors. Lighting up the second story of the arcade is a line of similar lights along the cornice level.

BIG CROWDS DEPART FOR INAUGURATION

Young Men's Republican Tariff Club Among Those Who Went Last Night.

It is estimated that over 5,000 people from Pittsburgh and vicinity have gone to Washington to attend the inauguration of President Roosevelt today. Many people passed through the city yesterday and during the day the Union and Baltimore & Ohio stations were crowded. Many special trains were sent out with inaugural crowds during the day, and last night five extra trains and 23 extra Pullman cars were sent out from Union station.

Two of the trains went out as extra sections of No. 6 at 7:15 p. m., two more went as extra sections of No. 4 at 9 p. m., and one went as an extra section of No. 10 at 10 p. m. The Baltimore & Ohio sent several specials, and one carrying the Michigan inaugural committee of 208 members passed through.

The Young Men's Republican Tariff club, 200 men strong, departed last night for Washington. The club left its headquarters at Grant street and Third avenue and marched up Grant to Fifth avenue, down Fifth to Wood, thence to Sixth avenue, thence to Smithfield street, to Liberty avenue, to Union station. The delegation was greeted with cheers all along the route of parade, and much red fire was burned. The delegation was in charge of Maj. W. R. Brown, president of the club. Inspector Robinson and a mounted squad of 10 policemen acted as escort for the club. It is the first time the Tariff club has attended an inauguration in a body.

The Commercial club, a colored organization, went to Washington over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at 9 p. m. There were 70 men in the delegation and they occupied three special cars.

Among McKeesporters who have gone to the inauguration are the following: G. J. F. Falkenstein, City Controller C. E. Soles, City Clerk James N. Brown, City Treasurer Samuel Milliken, Meat and Milk Inspector Jacob J. Murphy, Councilmen John N. Dersan, C. G. Falkenstein, U. G. Johnston, Anderson Soles, John Curran, William German and M. F. Bowers.

KEYSTONE GUARD AT WASHINGTON

Pennsylvania Citizen Soldiers Are Ready for the Inaugural Parade.

LOCAL DETECTIVES ON HAND

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.

The Keystone state's national guard is to be represented in the inaugural parade by a provisional brigade composed of the First regiment of Philadelphia representing the Third brigade, a provisional regiment from the First brigade and a provisional regiment from the Second brigade, all under the command of Gen. J. P. S. Gobin, the senior brigadier of the state's division. The provisional regiment from the Second brigade is to be under the command of Col. James E. Barnett of the Tenth regiment, and will be made up of the following companies:

Tenth, Company E, Capt. James E. Loar of Mt. Pleasant; Company D, Capt. John L. Gans of Connellsville; Company A, Capt. Robert L. Tidball of Monongahela; Company I, Lieut. Wade T. Kline of Greensburg. Sixteenth regiment, Company I, Capt. D. F. A. Wheelock of Bradford; Company M, Capt. John W. Boreland of Grove City; Company L, Capt. James A. McKee of Butler; Company C, Capt. Joseph F. Robinson of Warren, and the following companies of the Fourteenth regiment of Pittsburgh: Company B, Capt. Thomas B. Easton; Company G, Capt. Joseph A. Rising; Company H, Capt. Hugo Leidenroth; Company F, Capt. Harry W. Studt.

These 12 companies will average, with their officers, 65 men each, which, with the staff of the Tenth, selected by Col. Barnett to serve on this occasion, will make a regiment of over 800 men from Western Pennsylvania. With the exception of two companies of the Sixteenth which came in over the Pennsylvania road late this afternoon under command of Maj. Fred E. Windsor, this body of citizen soldiery came in over the Baltimore & Ohio before noon, having left Pittsburgh Thursday night.

Barnett's Men Well Quartered.

The Philadelphia regiment and the men who compose the First brigade's provisional regiment are quartered in Convention hall. Col. Barnett's command has the best of it by odds, being quartered in private residences in the square bounded by Delaware avenue and First, B and C street, which have just been vacated, the properties having been recently purchased by the government for the purpose of erecting an office building for members of the senate. These residences are well heated, located within pistol shot of the capitol, and are far superior, in every way, to anything Pennsylvania troops have had for quarters at former inaugurations.

Col. Barnett after having guards posted at all the residences occupied gave the balance of the command their freedom until 10:30 o'clock tonight when a check roll was called and taps sounded. The command is under orders to form at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning for drill preparatory to taking part in the parade. Col. Barnett says all the men are in good health and that they are on their best behavior. The command is scheduled to start on their return to Western Pennsylvania at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

Roger O'Mara Is There.

Big Roger O'Mara is on hand just as he always is when there is anything big going on. O'Mara is one of the 12 men selected to serve as President Roosevelt's bodyguard all day tomorrow, from the time he leaves the White House to go to the capitol to be sworn in until he gets back to the White House after the ball at the pension building. Six of these men have been chosen from the detective force of this city. The other six of whom O'Mara is the big fellow are noted sleuths from all parts of the county. William Elmore and a quartet of fellow detectives from the Pittsburgh front office were busy all this afternoon and evening circulating with members of the local force looking after the light-fingered gentry and those who might be suspected of more serious motives and designs.

One of the busiest Pittsburgh men in Washington is Dr. Barchfeld, the big South Sider who is to represent the Thirty-second district after tomorrow. He has spacious apartments at the New Willard and is keeping open house for all of his constituents who are here, dispensing hospitality in a generous manner. There has been a constant stream of visitors, mostly Pittsburghers, in and out of his apartments all day. The big doctor takes pride in introducing his people to all the notables he can find. He is making the acquaintance of many prominent men, and when he gets his full swing as a real congressman he bids fair to be one of the best known men in town.

TEXAS SENATE PASSES PIPE LINE MEASURE

AUSTIN, TEX., March 3.—The senate today passed a bill that will place all pipe lines in Texas under the jurisdiction of the railroad commission, fix a maximum rate for the same and provide for monthly statements by all persons using the lines as to what oil they have in storage and what is anticipated for the subsequent 30 days. The bill now goes to the house.

THE TRICKS

Coffee Plays on Some.

It hardly pays to laugh before you are certain for facts, for it is sometimes humiliating to think of afterwards.

"When I was a young girl I was a lover of coffee but was sick so much the doctor told me to quit and I did but after my marriage my husband begged me to bring it again as he did not thing it was the coffee caused the troubles.

"So I commenced it again and continued about 8 months until my stomach commenced acting bad and choking as if I had swallowed something the size of an egg. One doctor said it was neuralgia and indigestion.

"One day I took a drive with my husband three miles in the country and I drank a cup of coffee for dinner. I thought sure I would die before I got back to town to a doctor. I was drawn double in the buggy and when my husband hitched the horse to get me out into the doctor's office, misery came up in my throat and seemed to shut my breath off entirely and left all in a flash and went to my heart. The doctor pronounced it nervous heart trouble and when I got home I was so weak I could not sit up.

"My husband brought my supper to my bedside with a nice cup of hot coffee but I said: 'Take that back, dear, I will never drink another cup of coffee if you gave me everything you are worth, for it is just killing me.' He and the others laughed at me and said:

"'The idea of coffee killing anybody.'

"'Well,' I said, 'it is nothing else but coffee that is doing it.'

"In the grocery one day my husband was persuaded to buy a box of Postum which he brought home and I made it for dinner and we both thought how good it was but said nothing to the hired man and they thought they had drank coffee until we laughed and told them. Well we kept on with Postum and it was not long before the color came back to my cheeks and I got stout and felt as good as I ever did in my life. I have no more stomach trouble and I know I owe it all to Postum in place of coffee.

"My husband has gained good health on Postum, as well as baby and I, and we all think nothing is too good to say about it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

ITALIAN SENATE DISCUSSES IMMIGRATION TO AMERICA

Foreign Minister Tittoni Praises Treatment Given Arrivals by the United States Government.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, March 3.—The whole sitting of the senate this afternoon was taken up with the discussion of an interpellation of Senator Prince Odescalchi on the subject of the relations between Italy and the United States. The senator spoke lengthily about immigration conditions in America, which he described as thoroughly "imperialistic." Senator Pierantoni urged the government to fight illiteracy, which makes Italians inferior to other immigrants. He strongly attacked lynching.

Senator Baron Fava, who, while ambassador at Washington, concluded the present commercial treaty between Italy and the United States, said it was impossible to hope for better economic conditions with the United States until the present almost prohibitive tariff was changed.

Foreign Minister Tittoni thought it was an exaggeration to say that Italian immigration was not desired in the United States. He quoted the opinions of prominent Americans to the contrary. The minister praised the American government for protecting immigrants after landing and said that while illiteracy was being combatted here by means of 20,000 new schools recently opened the government intended to send a special official to New York to attend to immigration matters.

WORLD'S FAIR PROPERTY PROPERLY DISPOSED OF

Minutes of Board of Directors Refute Charges of Sale Much Below Value of the Buildings.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. LOUIS, March 3.—Secretary Walter D. Stevens of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company, when asked to reply to the charges said to have been made by the national commission that the world's fair company sold its property for much less than it was worth and disposed of more than was advertised, produced the minutes of the board meetings at which this subject was considered.

The minutes show the appointment of a committee of five on salvage. On December 13 the proposition to sell the physical property of the exposition with certain necessary exceptions, was approved by the full board of 54 directors. After twice advertising three bids were received, the lowest $101,000, the others $285,000 and $420,000. The highest bidder later consented to give $450,000 and received the award.

A new building cannot pay for itself in a month, and is not expected to.

If you build a new factory you figure out that in the course of time it will pay for itself and prove a profitable investment. After a month or a year has elapsed you do not go around with a long face because that factory has not paid for itself. It is the same with advertising.

The result of intelligent advertising is an edifice of public patronage, founded upon the solid rock of satisfaction, and growing more valuable and profitable year after year.

Such an edifice cannot be built in a day, nor will it pay for itself in a month.

The leading American advertisers advertise constantly in the leading American weekly magazine, The Saturday Evening Post. By using this publication you will build wisely and well. You will reach 800,000 homes or 4,000,000 people 52 times a year. The patronage of a small proportion of this great army of readers would keep your factory running night and day.

THE PITTSBURGH SEVEN SCORES ANOTHER CLEVER VICTORY

SOO IS BEATEN IN HARD CONTEST

Baird Slams Men from Northwest Around and Inflicts Bad Injuries to Some.

HAMILTON IS BADLY CUT

The Pittsburgh hockey team achieved its first shutout of the season last night, handing a defeat to the American Soo, 2 to 0. The game was replete with so many varieties of the sport that the spectators were on the lookout at all stages.

Baird of the Pittsburgh team again was the central figure, and he was sentenced three times to the bench for violations of the rules. "Pudy" Hamilton of the Soo was also in the nasty business himself, but Baird was the better and in the second half almost put Hamilton out of commission with a chop to the head which sent him down for the count.

Baird began early by throwing Stevens into the benches, for which Referee Jack gave him two minutes. Then Hamilton cross-checked Arthur Sixsmith and he was chased to the bench. Robinson went after Baird and gave him a square bodycheck, causing the Pittsburgher to go to the ice. While going down Baird sent his club to Robinson's head, causing an abrasion of no small size on his cheek.

While Hamilton and Robinson were on the bench Kent chased up the ice and passed over to the Soo cage, where Sixsmith, as usual, was waiting for such a contingency. Sixsmith slammed the rubber into the net for the first goal.

Baird opened the second half with a bodycheck to Robinson, and drew a four-minute rest period. Hamilton was skating around as though he was not afraid of anything on the ice, but he got his when Baird went into him with his body and as they were separating Baird brought his club down on Hamilton's head.

Hamilton went to the ice and was carried into the dressing room, where he was fixed up. He was cut on the forehead, the incision being about three inches long. He played out the game with a hugh bandage on his head, and blood flowed from the cut.

Baird rested eight minutes. Jones, the Soo goal keeper, early in the second half tripped Campbell as the latter was skating around the net, and he was detected in the act by Jack, who sent him to the bench. Campbell was tripped several times during the game. He and Hamilton had a wrestling match near the side lines in the opening period, but neither was penalized.

Campbell negotiated the second goal in the last half, shooting from a scrimmage after Sixsmith had rushed up the field.

Winchester played a good game at goal for Pittsburgh, as did Jones for the Soo. The Soo forward line was fast, especially Bike Young and Laviolette, but they shot wide of the cage. The same teams will play again tonight. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—2.		Soo—0.
Winchester	Goal	Jones
Spittal	Point	Hamilton
Baird	Cover Point	Howell
Sixsmith	Forward	Stevens
Campbell	Center	Robinson

Goals—Sixsmith, Campbell. Referee—Jack.

STROUP AND GRADY FOUGHT CLEVER SIX ROUND BATTLE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALTOONA, PA., March 3.—Solly Stroup of Pittsburgh and Jack Grady of Ashland, fought six rattling good rounds before the Bellevue club here tonight. The fight was as clean as a new pin and was filled with clever fighting. At the windup both were strong and willing, and it was the general impression that it was a good draw.

Grady is by far the cleverer of the two; his footwork and headwork were great and he did the cleanest hitting, but his blows lacked the necessary force to do his antagonist to a turn. A good punch would have made him master of the situation in the third round, when he had Solly just where he wanted him. The Pittsburgh fighter, more of a slugger than a boxer, made up for the infrequency of his clouts by the steam behind them. He can also stand a fair share of punishment, and this greatly enabled him to weather Jack's wicked rushes.

Stroup was plainly nettled at the peculiar crouching attitude assumed by his opponent, and during the first four rounds was unable to land, but in turn took his medicine without a grimace. In the sixth they mixed it lively, Grady throwing his usual careful manner to the winds, and Stroup found him for several mighty clouts. The gong found them in the middle of the ring fighting wickedly.

Will Be Six Fast Bouts.

The Business Men's club will hold their weekly boxing show tonight in their hall, Fifth avenue. The card announced is one that will consist of 36 rounds of first-class boxing; that is, if some of the boxers do not get their quietus before the limit. The main bout will be between Paul Moore, the 133-pounder, who has made a record that has never been equaled in this section of the state, and Joe Keally, and that there will be something doing every minute while they are in the ring is a sure thing.

Altoona Badly Beaten.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O. March 3.—(Special.)—East Liverpool defeated Altoona tonight 59 to 16. Goals, Bloor 2, Allison 4, Rigby 5, Powell 4, Watkin 3, Chadwick 3, McNevin, Hargreaves, Holmberg, Fouls, Rigby 4, Allison 4, Roth 10. Referee, Zang.

FOX TERRIERS WILL CONTEST FOR HONORS

Some of the Finest Dogs in the Terrier Breed Are Listed for the Coming Show.

The Pittsburgh dog show has always been strong in the fox terrier breed. When the show opens next Wednesday morning some mighty specimens of this breed will be found. All of the great ones in the Sable kennels, of course, will be here. But this year the new importation of C. K. Harley of San Francisco, Wandee Doris, will have to be reckoned with in the class for smooth ones. She won in New York.

In the class for wire-haired ones Mr. Harley's Wandee Coastguard, which won here last year, had to take a back seat to Mrs. George S. Thomas' Selbrook Topper. For the opposite sex, however, Mr. Harley triumphed with Wandee Lucretia, which beat Mrs. Thomas' Endcliffe Precise. Besides these strong Kenneis Miss Francis McCahill of Larchmont and E. H. Ingwersen, Chicago, will send on some good ones.

The fox terrier is evidently a judicious cross between a beagle and a bull terrier. He is essentially a vermin dog of the highest order and capable of worrying a fox when it has taken to earth. It is used by operatives in some parts of England for coursing rabbits.

RIGID ATHLETIC TRAINING.

Four Year Course to Be Rule for Both Army and Navy Cadets.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Athletic training of the cadets at the military and naval academies will be conducted hereafter through the entire four-year courses at those institutions if the president should approve the report recently submitted to him by a joint board of army and navy officers which he appointed to consider the subject.

Col. A. D. Mills, superintendent of the military academy at West Point, called on the president today. He said the joint board had reported in favor of putting the cadets at both academies through a rigid course of athletic training during the entire four-year course instead of during the first year only, as heretofore. If the president should approve the report, and it is indicated that he probably will, a carefully prescribed course of physical training will be followed by the students, which, at the conclusion of their course, is expected to make them the physical equals of any soldier in the world. Later, a similar course of training will be extended to the enlisted men of both the army and the navy.

BIG COUP MADE ON LADY FELIX

Was Put Through for a "Good Thing" at New Orleans and Landed the Money.

THE BOOKS ARE HIT HARD

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW ORLEANS, March 3.—The sport was decidely interesting at the fair grounds today. Not alone were the finishes in most of the events of the most exciting, but the majority of the winners were considered in the light of good things, and the penciliers were in a sorry mess after the closing event.

George C. Bennett, a heavy stockholder in the Crescent City and Memphis Jockey clubs, today announced that the Crescent City Jockey club would race day for day with the New Orleans Jockey club if the opening day at Memphis had to be postponed. Racing here up to April 15, the close of the City Park season, would give the Memphis club a chance to open on the same day as Nashville, new in the American association, thus giving the rivals a chance to look up in the Tennessee racing field.

Spencerian, at 7 to 10, captured the one-mile handicap with much ease. Careless, who was probably the heaviest backed horse in the race, finished second, with Whorler third. The Street horse flattered his backers to within the final eighth, when Spencerian moved up to him with ease and simply laughed home. Whorler was easily the best of the others.

After Inquisitive Girl had taken the opening dash for the form players, Sam Hildreth and his colonels had an inning with Panic, who at a fat price, put it over the odds-on favorite, Leonard Joe Hayman, by a neck in the closing strides. Duke of Kendal was the goods in the third race, and landed a sackful of money for the eastern clique.

Lady Felix was the medium of a tremendous coup in the fifth race, and romped in with something to spare. Sam Hildreth came back strong again in the closing event, and, after getting his friends down on Hands Across, saw him come galloping home under Jack Martin's gilt-edged ride. Summary:

First race, 6 furlongs—Inquisitive Girl, 105, Aubuchon, 8 to 5, won; Duke of Portland, 105, Schoiling, 9 to 1, second; Owasco, 100, C. Harris, 15 to 1, third. Time, 1:14⅘.

Second race, 5 furlongs—Panic, 107, Aubuchon, 10 to 1, won; Leonard Joe Hayman, 112, J. Martin, 2 to 5, second; Proteus, 107, McCafferty, 16 to 1, third. Time, 1:01 4-5.

Third race, 6½ furlongs—Duke of Kendal, 106, H. Phillips, 5 to 1, won; Vic Ziegler, 88, Wishard, 10 to 5, second; Frank Rice, 104, Freeman, 30 to 1, third. Time, 1:20 4-5.

Fourth race, 1 mile, handicap—Spencerian, 100, H. Phillips, 7 to 10, won; Careless, 103, W. Robbins, 11 to 5, second; Whorler, 100, Lee, 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:40 2-5.

Fifth race, 5 furlongs—Lady Felix, 105, Crimmins, 3 to 1, won; Cyuthia, 100, Baird, 9 to 2, second; Pure Favor, 105, R. Wilson, 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:02 2-5.

Sixth race, 1 1-16 miles—Hands Across, 111, J. Martin, 6 to 5, won; Capt. Arnold, 114, Crimmins, 7 to 2, second; Dalesman, 114, W. Robbins, 6 to 1, third. Time, 1:49.

THE FIGHTERS FLUNKED.

Followers of the Ring Were a Sorely Disappointed Lot.

NEW KENSINGTON, PA., March 3.—(Special.)—A large crowd was disappointed at the smoker given by the Glassmere Athletic association last night. Fred Bond was matched to meet Charley Gervais in the windup, but the latter flunked out. Clayton Cramer, the Allegheny heavyweight, consented to take Gervais' place against the New Kensington pugilist, but at the last moment he also refused to go on. Lou Welch, the big Pittsburgh athlete, was secured to go on, but he missed a train and did not get to Hite until hour after the disappointed crowd had gone home. Johnny Regan, who was to have fallen on with Billy McIsaacs, also failed to put in an appearance. These were the two star bouts, and the failure of the pugilists to appear caused bitter disappointment.

Frank Bosen of New Kensington made short work of Flynn of Pittsburgh, putting him out in the first round with a swing on the chin. Glimb of Turtletown and Robertson, a Pittsburgh boy, fought four fast rounds to a draw.

FINAL BILLIARD CONTEST.

CARNEGIE WANTS GREATER CITY

Stops Here Enroute to Cleveland and Chats About Pittsburgh.

ADMIRER OF PENNYPACKER

Andrew Carnegie spent last night in Pittsburgh as the guest of W. N. Frew. This morning he will visit the site of the tech school, and later in the day will go to Cleveland, where he is to testify in the Chadwick case.

Mr. Carnegie reached Pittsburgh from the east on the St. Louis limited last evening. He was willing to talk about any subject except the Chadwick case. He could not discuss it for publication, as he is to appear in Cleveland as a witness and believes his testimony should be reserved for the court-room.

"What are the prospects for a Greater Pittsburgh?" was one of the first queries he put to his interviewer. When told that the legislation was being endangered by the opposition of Mayor James Wyman of Allegheny, Mr. Carnegie was at a loss to place in his memories the North Side executive. When an incident or two in the history of the mayor was recalled, he was able to locate the man who is trying to block the consolidation of the two cities. "I want to see a greater city," said Mr. Carnegie, "and I hope all obstacles will be removed. It would be an advantage to have Pittsburgh receive her proper standing in the world. It is possible to form a large and compact city."

"Has Pittsburgh any new plans for public improvement? What is being done about filtration?" were a couple of questions asked by Mr. Carnegie. He was told there were no new improvements contemplated aside from the filtration plant, and that contracts for its erection would soon be let. "I am glad to hear that," said he. "It seems to me that Pittsburgh, with the aid of filtration, can get a plentiful and pure supply of water from the Allegheny river.

"I am sorry," said Mr. Carnegie, "that Pittsburgh is still such a dirty place, and I fear the smoke nuisance is increasing. With proper enforcement of the law, at least two-thirds of the smoke could be abated. Smoke consumers are being made that consume. This is being demonstrated at the steel works at Homestead. If it did not work a hardship on a home industry in the Pittsburgh district, it would be well to follow the example of New York and prohibit the use of soft coal within the city limits."

Mr. Carnegie was asked if he had any more surprises for Pittsburgh. He replied that he had not, and that his particular interest now is to see the tech school finished as soon as possible. He is hopeful it will be completed by November, 1906, but is afraid that, as the task is such a great one, he may be disappointed. "I intend to make an examination for myself in the morning," said he, "and will visit the site of the institution to ascertain what is being done before I go to Cleveland."

"I was disappointed the other day," remarked Mr. Carnegie, "when I wanted to buy an automobile. I was surprised to learn that the machines are not manufactured in Pittsburgh. It was necessary to go to Cleveland to purchase one. Pittsburgh can furnish all of the materials needed to build automobiles, and I do not understand why Pittsburgh capital is not invested in this industry. Cleveland probably has to buy some of the raw materials in Pittsburgh."

"How are the Pennsylvania newspaper men and Gov. Pennypacker getting along these days?" was an inquiry from Mr. Carnegie. When told the relations were peaceful, he replied: "I am glad of it. He is a great governor. I had the pleasure of meeting him at State college last summer and was much impressed. He is so democratic. He is an honest man and has made a wonderful record as an executive. When next you see him I wish you would tell the governor that I favor his re-election."

Mr. Carnegie was reminded the Pennsylvania constitution prevents Gov. Pennypacker from succeeding himself without allowing a term to intervene.

"That is too bad," replied Mr. Carnegie. "This is one case where I agree with 'Tim' Campbell in remarking: 'What is the constitution between friends.' If he cannot succeed himself, then tell Gov. Pennypacker I am for him for any higher office that he wants."

Mr. Carnegie said that, while he is no longer in the steel business, he still keeps some tab on it. In his opinion the indications point to a prosperous year.

PEACE DRAWS NEARER.

Member of Russian Imperial Family Says Japaneses Success Has Forced Crisis.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 3.—(Copyright Cable.)—A member of the imperial family said this afternoon that the success achieved by the Japanese had brought matters to a decisive point. His hearers were too discreet to ask for further details, but they assumed that Gen. Kuropatkin's position had become impossible. Tonight the impression is that peace is nearer than ever before.

The imperial ukase appealing to the people for a cessation of the internal troubles in view of their damaging effect preventing a successful issue of the war has been unfavorably received by the public.

The Grand Duchess Sergius at the conclusion of her sensational visit to the assassin of her husband, promised to intervene to save his life. Since then the murderer has become exceedingly violent and exacting.

U. S. STEEL AFTER BESSEMER.

Virginia Iron Manufacturers Have Advanced Prices About 50 Cents a Ton.

NEW YORK, March 3.—(Special.)—The United States Steel Corporation is in the market for considerable Bessemer iron and the announcement of a large sale is expected at any time. It is believed that the corporation will be unable to secure additional iron at the price paid for the last lot of 40,000 tons.

Within the last two days Virginia iron manufacturers have advanced iron prices about 50 cents a ton. They claim that higher quotations are justified by the advances in the prices of coal, coke and iron ore.

DEITRICH WANTS HIS MONEY BACK

Pittsburgh Man Gets After Mine Promoter Who He Alleges Swindled Him.

THE SUM INVOLVED IS LARGE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, March 3.

Conrad Deitrich of Pittsburgh has begun suit in the supreme court of this county against Anthony Blum of Boston, president of the Twentieth Century Mining Company, to recover a large sum of money alleged to have been obtained by Blum through fraudulent representations.

The complaint sets forth that Blum, who was president, manager and general factotum of the company, painted the prospects of the property in such glowing terms that he induced Deitrich to pay $11 a share for 1,000 shares, although the par value of the stock, the plaintiff alleges, was $10, and the actual value less than $1.

The Twentieth Century Mining Company was originally incorporated under the laws of West Virginia and subsequently reincorporated under the Canadian mining laws. Its capital was $2,000,000, and its offices were in Boston and this city. The mine is situated at Gold Rock, Ontario.

In 1898 Anthony Blum appeared in New York with glowing prospectuses of his company, and is said to have floated $800,000 of stock. Big blocks are said to have been sold in Pittsburgh, Boston and the west. The shares paid 6 per cent interest June 1, 1900, to January 1, 1902, and from that date 8 per cent, until the crash came. It is alleged that none of the dividends were paid out of the earnings, but from the money obtained by the sale of stocks.

Last January stockholders at the annual meeting, it is set forth in an affidavit, forced Blum to admit the mine never had paid, and that he had sold to another mine which he controlled all the milling machinery of the Twentieth Century Company, charging himself $14,000 for what the company had paid $40,000.

Louis H. Cochrane of Allegheny, Pa., a son-in-law of Mr. Deitrich, makes affidavit that in August, 1904, he visited the mine, which he found entirely abandoned, all the machinery having been sold and transferred by Blum to the Volcanic Reef and Laurentian Mining companies, which are controlled by Blum. The machinery, he swears, was sold for $14,000, although worth more than $40,000, and the purchase price had not been paid over. He also learned that Blum had been diverting funds of the Twentieth Century company to the use of other companies, and saw some of the checks.

Judge MacLean today granted an attachment against Blum's bank account in a trust company, and his interests with Speyer Bros. and the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company.

Prepared by Procurator-General.

LONDON, March 4.—The correspondent at St. Petersburg of the Daily Telegraph asserts that the imperial manifesto to the people was not debated in council or submitted to any responsible advisor, but was drafted in secret by M. Pobiedonostseff, procurator general of the holy synod, and discussed only between the procurator, the emperor and the dowager empress and then published to the amazement of everybody.

A great many public spirited men have given to this enterprise and others who have not yet had an opportunity to give will be asked to do so. An appropriation of $25,000 was promised by the city council provided the committee raised a similar amount. A portion of the money received was used to buy the property in Fifth avenue, Soho, which has been chosen for the site. The house on this property is now rented and the rentals go toward the general fund. Only a few thousand dollars more are necessary to complete the $25,000, but it is said that the committee will undertake the task of raising another $25,000 in order to build the bath on a more extended scale than was at first planned.

Churches Gave the Institution Hearty Support During the Past Year.

CHRISTMAS SUM $19,504.97

The annual report of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Orphan asylum for the year 1904 has just been made public, and aside from containing interesting data, shows a flourishing condition in the asylum. The institution, which is under the direction of the Rev. Father Michael Lynch, now shelters 527 children, and has, since its inception in 1841, cared for 11,950 boys and girls.

The financial statement shows that the ordinary receipts, including church collections, donations from relatives of inmates and from the relief association were $23,552 09. The extraordinary receipts, which include $20,338 21 from the annual picnic, were $23,514 41, making a grand total of receipts of $53,366 50.

The ordinary expenses, which pertained entirely to the keep of the children and maintenance of the asylum, were $30,770 88. The extraordinary expenses, applied to renovations, assessments, insurance, interest on debt to the amount of $4,493 32, and a payment on the debt of $9,000, total $21,777 78. The total expenditures for the year were $52,557 46, leaving a balance on hand on January 1, 1905, of $809 04. A debt of $70,522 47 still remains on the old and new asylums.

The annual Christmas donation to the asylum offered by the churches and societies in the Pittsburgh diocese last year aggregated $19,504 97, and was received as follows:

MADE GOOD JOB OF DESTROYING SHIPS

CHICAGO, March 3.—A Hongkong special to the Chicago Daily News says: "Reports from Port Arthur state that 43 of the sunken Russian vessels in the harbor are useless. The Russians exploded dynamite in both the foremost and aft holds and in the engine room. The machinery and magazines were destroyed by a torpedo, and the guns plugged and burst at the muzzle."

Will Develop Coal Land.

INDIANA, PA., March 3.—(Special.)—Clarksburg will be the center of the largest coal operations yet planned for this county. Sixty thousand acres, including the famous McCaughey leases, are to be developed by the Pittsburgh, Indiana & Eastern Railroad Company. Three large tipples and 900 twin coke ovens will be built at Clarksburg, where the first operations will begin within 90 days. The transfer involves the payment of more than $2,000,000 to the farmers of the southern part of the county.

Summoned for McKendry's Trial.

BEAVER, March 3.—(Special.)—County Detective B. Lazarus went to the Lance home in Independence township today to serve subpoenas for witnesses who will testify before the grand jury Monday in the case against William McKendry, the guard who shot Arthur S. Harris, a supposed robber, at the Lance home January 1. Abram, James and Sally Lance, and several neighbors have been subpoenaed, together with Charles Obney the other guard, who says he has received anonymous letters threatening him if he tells what he knows.

King Dines With Marlboroughs.

LONDON, March 3.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra dined with the duke and duchess of Marlborough in their new home, Sunderland house, in Curzon street, tonight. It was practically a house warming. The queen wore beautiful jewels. There were a score of guests, including Count Mensdorff, and Prince and Princess Henry, of Pless.

Carpenters Will Not Amalgamate.

TORONTO, ONT., March 3.—The Brotherhood of Carpenters and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners will not amalgamate, as the Canadians propose it. A referendum was taken recently both in the United States and Canada. The result of the vote in the United States will not be known until about April 1.

Are Opposing Liquor Licenses.

Many remonstrances against the granting of liquor licenses are being circulated in McKeesport, particularly in the residence districts. In the Seventh ward, where free from saloons, the applicants are Michael Joyce and M. E. Sregman. Remonstrances have always been successful hitherto.

Miss Eva Hamilton.

PROMINENT TEACHER OF SHARON DIES SUDDENLY

Miss Hamilton Taught Primary Grade 33 Years—Guest on Gazette's European Tour.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

SHARON, March 3.—Miss Eva Hamilton, for 33 years a teacher in the primary grade of the Sharon public schools, died at 2:30 o'clock this morning at her home on Second street, from the effects of paralysis. She came home yesterday afternoon, and after eating a hearty supper walked into the sitting room where she fell to the floor. A physician was summoned but she died several hours after.

Miss Hamilton was born in Jackson township 53 years ago. She came to Sharon with her parents 35 years ago, and for 33 years was a school teacher. She was president of the "X" club and in charge of the primary department of the First Presbyterian church, of which she was a member. Miss Hamilton was selected as one of the 40 popular school teachers who went to Europe two years ago as guests of The Pittsburgh Gazette.

She was one of the most prominent women of Sharon and had a wide circle of acquaintances. Miss Hamilton is survived by her mother, Mrs. A. P. Hamilton, who for many years was president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, and one brother, William Hamilton of Odebelt, Iowa, editor of the "Chronicle," and one sister, Mrs. T. S. Lunshee, of Des Moines. The funeral will be held Monday.

BLOCH NOW DENIES HE KILLED MRS. FATZINGER

Counsel for Man Hung Says Woman's Death Was Result of Suicide Compact.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, PA., March 3.—Adolph H. Bloch, alias John White, who is in jail here charged with being a fugitive from justice, stated today that he knew nothing whatever of the murder of Mrs. Kate Fatzinger at Allentown in August, 1903, for which Eugene Bloch was hanged Tuesday. Bloch stated on Wednesday evening that Eugene Bloch was his brother, and that he himself killed Mrs. Fatzinger, but he says now that he wanted to spring a joke on his friends at Canonsburg.

ALLENTOWN, March 3.—The police authorities here unhesitatingly say that they do not believe the reported confession of Adolph J. Bloch, who is in the Washington county (Pa.) jail, that he murdered Mrs. Kate Fatzinger, for which crime Eugene Bloch was hanged on last Tuesday.

J. L. Schaadt, who was counsel for Bloch, said today: "I put little faith in the report that the murderer of Kate Fatzinger had confessed. The woman was not murdered. It was a suicide compact between her and Bloch, as he declared during the trial. That Bloch was innocent I have always believed. Bloch never had a brother. Herbert Wolfe, a friend of Bloch, testified during the trial and later disappeared. It is possible he is the man who now calls himself Adolph Bloch.

District Attorney Schantz says he will make an investigation, though he does not credit the man's story. He stated today that he had been notified by Justice of the Peace Butler of South Canonsburg, who arrested the alleged Bloch, that the prisoner repudiated the statement, saying he was joking. Bloch's mother, who is an inmate of the county poorhouse, states that Eugene Bloch was her only son.

Boats Breaking Up Ice Gorge.

The big gorge of ice in the Youghiogheny river at McKeesport is being gradually broken up by towboats, and little damage is anticipated now from the ice unless there should be a quick rise. The boats are to continue working as far as the mines of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Buena Vista, when all danger of serious damage will be averted.

ROPE WAS AROUND A SYRIAN'S NECK

New York Mob Was Hanging Him to Lamp-Post When Police Saved Him.

HAD ENTICED LITTLE GIRL

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—A lynching—even an attempted lynching—is a rarity in New York city, but late last night a man with a rope around his neck was being hauled up on a lamp post at the corner of Washington and Rector streets. Two hundred longshoremen, and twice as many screaming women and children were fighting for a chance to pull the man's hair, to kick him, to cut him with knives, or to smash him, with cudgels.

John Reagan, a longshoreman, lives at 105 Washington street with his wife and 11-year-old daughter, Nellie. At 51 Washington street lives Assab H. Encha, a Syrian bookkeeper. This is the heart of a district populated mostly by Syrians and Irish.

Mrs. Reagan missed her little girl last night and went out on the street to look for her. Neighbors said they had seen her walking away hand-in-hand with a Syrian. Mrs. Reagan screamed and ran to find her strapping husband, who was over on the water front talking to a group of fellow seamen.

"John," cried Mrs. Reagan as soon as she caught sight of her husband, "the Syrian has got our Nellie." For months there have been stories afloat about the district that Encha, the Syrian bookkeeper, had lured little girls from their homes.

"My Nellie," yelled Reagan. "We'll lynch him! Come on, mates."

Catching up a long rope, Reagan started on a run, followed by the men. In Enchas room the girl was found, as was another little girl. With a yell, Reagan jumped on the man, who was on his knees begging for mercy. He fixed the rope about Encha's neck, and, taking his daughter by the arm, led her out of the room, shouting: "Yank him along, boys, we'll hang the dog."

The long line of men hurried back into the street, dragging Encha down the three flights of stairs. At the street entrance of the house a crowd of several hundred men and women had collected, and greeted the Syrian with hoots, yells and volleys of rocks.

"Lynch him, lynch him!" they cried. The Syrian between sobs cried that he had done nothing.

"Well, pray, then," yelled the crowd, cursing and kicking the prostrate, bloody and mud-be-spattered man.

At this moment two policemen ran to Encha's assistance. With drawn night sticks and revolvers they fought their way into the crowd and saved the man until the reserves came up, when the Syrian was marched to the station house, hundreds of men and women fighting and clamoring to get at him.

At the Tombs police court this morning, when Encha was arraigned, Reagan made a run at the prisoner, and was caught by court officers just as he was clearing the railing separating the court room from the judicial enclosure. With difficulty they held him and forced him into a seat.

"When I see that dog out in the open, I'm going to kill him," he shouted. Encha was locked up in the Tombs.

Few Changes in Braddock Councils.

Braddock borough council will reorganize next Monday evening, and there will be scarcely any change in the departments. George Soles of the Fourth ward will be the only new member, succeeding Russell A. Rose. All the other members either hold over or have been re-elected. L. F. Holtzman is slated for president of council with no opposition, and L. L. Todd will again be borough clerk. Before the old council adjourns sine die, it will act finally upon the ordinance vacating a portion of Thirteenth street to the Carnegie Steel Company.

Held a Workers' Institute.

A workers' institute was held yesterday afternoon and last night in the First United Presbyterian church, Braddock, under the auspices of District No. 30, Allegheny County Sabbath School association. The afternoon session was devoted to primary work. Miss Alice Hamlin, field secretary, gave "A View of the Field," Mrs. A. H. Jolly spoke on "The Development of a Song," Miss Caroline Hall on "Care of the Youngest." At the evening session the principal address was delivered by Attorney Wylie on "Teacher Training."

Claim Price Was Too High.

INDIANA, PA., March 3.—(Special.)—Today's investigation of the contracts awarded by the county commissioners on bridges was devoted largely to the Juneau bridge in Canoe township, which was built by James Bathel. The amount paid for the masonry was $1,000 and bills for extras brought the total to $1,352 57. Several witnesses stated that by actual measurements there were only 87½ cubic yards in the bridge, and at the contract price, $5 a cubic yard, would foot up to only $435.

NEW CASTLE SOCIETY JUST REVELS IN CATS

Mrs. Beverly H. Hitchcock's Proposed Party Is Causing Much Excitement in Upper Circle.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW CASTLE, March 3.—Society here is excited over the coming party of Mrs. Beverly H. Hitchcock, in honor of the third birthday of her pet cat, "Miss Alice Roosevelt." Invitations have been issued to ladies fortunate enough to possess cats of aristocratic lineage and the affair will be quite an event in local circles.

"Alice Roosevelt" will celebrate her third birthday March 22. She is a twin, her brother bearing the name of "Prince Henry." The names were bestowed because they were born the day Miss Alice Roosevelt, the president's daughter, Christened "The Meteor," the steam yacht built in this country for the German emperor, which occasioned the recent visit of Prince Henry, the kaiser's brother.

The coming cat party has served to arouse the greatest interest and will make life easier for many kittens, as everybody is anxious to have as fine a cat as others, and cat pedigree is being carefully studied.

PREACHER AND PARAMOUR EAT BREAKFAST IN JAIL

Miss Bowne Turns ear Ear to Father's Pleadings to Forsake the Rev. J. F. Cordova, Her Companion.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 3.—Julia Bowne and the Rev. J. F. Cordova had their first breakfast of dry bread and coffee in the Middlesex county jail this morning. The girl positively refused to go home with her father, J. Conover Bowne, when he visited the jail last night to go on her bond for $500.

Cordova and Miss Bowne are confined with two of the town drunkards, who spend most of their time in jail, and with Mary Creechgt, held for trial on the charge of having tossed her newborn infant into a snowbank.

"It's no use for me to leave here," replied the girl to her father's pleadings, "unless Cordova can go with me. I cannot forsake him. My love for Cordova is stronger than that for home."

Mineworkers Go on Strike.

CONNELLSVILLE, March 3.—(Special.)—Thirty-two diggers and haulers of the Marietta Coal Company in East Connellsville, went out on strike today. The men insisted on a raise in wages equal to that made March 1 by the H. C. Frick Coke Company. The places of the strikers are being filled rapidly, and this afternoon the mine was operated with little inconvenience. Laborers are flocking here by the hundreds.

THE THREE RIVERS

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 8 o'clock last night was 5.9 feet and the river was falling.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, O., March 3.—At 8 p. m. today the Ohio river at Cincinnati was 21.8 feet and falling. The river was practically free of ice here. The stream was about one-sixth full of soft slushy ice, which in no way will be a hindrance to the running of boats. The ice nibbles in here looking after the fleets of the combination. She is assisted by the Delta, one of the smaller boats. The Gleaner will be let off the Queen City marine ways tomorrow if the ice can be cleared from around the foot of the cradles. The Crowhill will also be let off and the Virginia will be taken on. After the Virginia is taken on the ways Capt. James A. Henderson will leave for his home in Pittsburgh. The towboat Jim Wood, which has been picking up the runaway empties of the combination between here and Madison, Ind., is due here today with her fleet of pickups. Many of them are damaged and will be repaired here. Clear and pleasant.

RIVERMEN SIMPLY WAITING.

This Year Worst in History of Navigation on Local Rivers.

This year has probably been the worst in the history of navigation on the local rivers. Low water and ice have contributed to give the navigators the longest idleness they have suffered for many years. When it is going to end is a problem.

At present there are big gorges in the Ohio river at Wheeling Island and Powhattan. Below these points the Ohio is clear, and navigation could be resumed at once but for these two barriers. There is no telling when they will get away. It will take a heavy rise in the Ohio to break them. It may come next week or it may be a month off. Rivermen have ceased to speculate on the records of past years. This was a year in which all records have been wiped out and new ones started.

W. R. Crump returned yesterday morning from Cincinnati. As master of transportation for the River Coal Company he was there looking after the property of his company.

James O'Neil, master of transportation for the United States Coal Company, who has been in Cincinnati during the trying times of the ice gorge, has returned home.

John Moren, general freight agent for the river coal company, is in Memphis, Tenn.

The Eleanor of the Clyde Coal Company went up yesterday with a tow of empties. She stopped at Glenwood to have repairs made to her cams.

The Clyde of the Clyde company is bound down with a big tow of coal for local consumption.

Capt. James A. Henderson of the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati packet line, will return from Cincinnati this morning.

The H. S. Neel Company's dredgeboat is lying at the Smithfield street bridge, undergoing repairs.

INDICTMENT FOR BINGER HERMANN

Congressman from Oregon Is Charged With Destroying Public Documents.

HE MAKES EMPHATIC DENIAL

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Binger Hermann, member of congress from Oregon and former commissioner of the general land office, today was indicted by the federal grand jury here on the charge of destroying public records. The indictment was found on the testimony of certain general land office employes. The substance of the charge is that Mr. Hermann, just previous to his resignation as commissioner of the general land office, which was on February 1, 1903, destroyed 35 letter-press copy books containing copies of official communications written by him as commissioner of the general land office and relating to the business of that bureau. Mr. Hermann's attorney appeared in court immediately after the indictment had been found and on behalf of his client waived the exemption due a member of congress and asked that bail be fixed. District Attorney Beach suggested $5,000, while Mr. Hermann's counsel named $2,500, the latter figure being set by the court.

The indictment was returned under section 5408 of the revised statutes of the United States, which provides as follows:

"Every officer, having the custody of any record, document, paper, or proceeding specified in section 5403, who fraudulently takes away, or withdraws, or destroys any such record, document, paper, or proceeding filed in his office or deposited with him in his custody, shall pay a fine of not more than $2,000, or suffer imprisonment at hard labor not more than three years, or both, and shall, moreover, forfeit his office and be forever afterward disqualified from holding any office under the government of the United States."

Brief Indictment Returned.

The indictment is brief. It alleges specifically that Mr. Hermann, on the 15th of January, 1903, was an officer of the United States as commissioner of the general land office, and that as such officer he was in the custody of all records, documents, papers and proceedings filed in the general land office and that among the records were 35 certain letter-press copy books, which contained letter-press copies of certain official letters concerning the affairs and business of the general land office, and which were required to be kept in the copybooks by the usage and custom of the land office for reference and information pertaining to and concerning the business and administration of the office. The indictment recites that a more particular description of the 35 letter-press copy books cannot be given because they are not now in existence.

The indictment then charges that Mr. Hermann did "unlawfully and fraudulently destroy the said 35 letter-press copy books, and the contents of the said letter press copy books, with intent to impair their usefulness and to prejudice the due and proper administration of the business of the general land office contrary to the form of the statute in such case made and provided and against the peace of the government."

Hermann Makes Denial.

A special session of the grand jury was called to meet today to consider this case, and at 2 p. m. the indictment was returned in Justice Wright's court. No steps were taken by the district attorney's office to secure Mr. Hermann's appearance in court, but immediately after the indictment had been returned H. P. Gatley, counsel for Mr. Hermann, appeared before Justice Wright and moved the court to fix bail. He then said that Mr. Hermann is a member of congress, and that for more than 30 years he had held positions of trust and confidence both at the hands of the chief executive of the nation and of the people of his own state. Mr. Gatley said further that no man could point a finger at Mr. Hermann and conscientiously say that he ever did a wrongful act. He said that although exempt as a member of congress Mr. Hermann did not stand on that exemption, but submitted to the jurisdiction of the court for the purpose of giving bail to answer the charge. He added that at the proper time Mr. Hermann would be ready to meet the charge. Shortly afterward Mr. Hermann appeared at the office of the clerk of the district supreme court and gave bail in the amount fixed, with Samuel A. Drury as surety.

As he was leaving city hall Mr. Hermann made the following statement to a reporter:

"This is an old story. For more than two years these charges have been paraded in the public press. During all this time I have been ready to meet them, and stand ready to meet them in this case. They are absolutely untrue and without foundation."

The witnesses before the grand jury were Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock, Elliott P. Hough, a clerk in the general land office, and C. H. Miller, an employe of the land office. William J. Burns, secret service agent, who has been investigating the land cases, has been in conference with the secretary during the past week, and today was in conference with District Attorney Beach.

Deadlock Was Broken.

A deadlock in the school board of the Fifteenth ward, Allegheny, which has existed for the last six months, was broken last night. At the election on February 21 the Rev. D. S. Kennedy and A. E. Hamilton were elected members of the board, and they took their seats last night. It was their votes that broke the deadlock. D. M. Hartley was elected president and P. E. Dien, secretary. Three vacancies in the corps of teachers were filled by electing Emma Day, Florence Boschert and Blanche Ross.

Will Help Bloomfield Organize.

The board of directors of the Oakland board of trade met last night. An invitation was received from the promoters of the Bloomfield board of trade to be present in a body and assist them in perfecting an organization on Thursday night, which was accepted.

"The Hand That Rocks The Cradle Rules The World."

MOTHER'S love starts a man or woman on the right path. The right remedy at the right time fits a mother for the ordeal. Motherhood is often looked forward to with feelings of great dread by most women. At such a time when she is nervous, dyspeptic, irritable and in need of a uterine tonic—something which will calm the nervous system through the special organs, and a strength builder, she will find Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription just what is needed. Here is a medicine that has stood the test of a third of a century with approval, in that time it has sold more largely than any other remedy put up specially for women's weaknesses. It is guaranteed by the proprietors not to contain a particle of alcohol—which could only do harm to a sensitive system.

WHY WOMEN SHOULD CONFIDE IN A MAN.

It is much easier for a woman to confide in the average man than in the average woman. She knows that the man will respect her confidences and keep them to himself. He is strong, has more experience of the world and can help the woman who needs advice. Without a perfect medical understanding there can be no helpful advise, women should not trust their delicate constitutions in the hands of unskilled persons. It requires a thorough medical education to appreciate and understand the womanly organism. When a woman has ills and pains that she cannot bear—when life seems dark for every woman, she should confide her troubles to a physician of standing in the community, or one who has a national reputation. Certainly it would not be the part of wisdom to confide in an ignorant person without medical education simply because she was a woman. There is every reason why she should write to some great specialist, one who has made the diseases of women a specialty for a third of a century, like Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. All correspondence is held sacredly confidential, and he gives his advice free and without charge.

SINGLE AND MARRIED WOMEN

Very often find that it is repugnant to their feelings to consult their family physician. In such a case they can put perfect confidence in Dr. Pierce, who has made such a success in the treatment of women's diseases, for he will give the very best advice possible and without cost. To grow beautiful, healthy and happy should be the desire of every woman. It is then possible to hold a husband and to make home happy and bring contentment to it. In most cases Dr. R. V. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will fit the needs and put the body in healthy condition.

So sure of it is the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that they offer

A $500 REWARD

For women who cannot be cured of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health, by curing the local womanly diseases which are generally responsible for the failure of the general health. A woman's entire being is centered in her womanly nature. When the delicate womanly organism is attacked by disease; when there is irregularity or a disagreeable drain; when inflammation, burns and ulcers gnaw, the general health will reflect the progress of disease, in increasing weakness, nervousness, backache, headache, loss of appetite and sleeplessness.

PROFIT IN BEEF NOT EXORBITANT

Commissioner Garfield's Report on Investigation Transmitted to Congress.

MONEY IN THE PRIVATE CARS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 3.—President Roosevelt today transmitted to congress the report of the commissioner of corporations upon the beef industry. The president's letter of transmittal is as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a report from the secretary of commerce and labor upon that position of the resolution of the house of representatives adopted March 7, 1904, having to do with the prices of cattle and dressed beef, the margins between such prices and the organization, conduct and profits of the corporations engaged in the beef packing industry.

In view of the fact that the department of justice is now engaged upon other matters involved in the resolution, the secretary of commerce and labor cannot at this time report thereupon.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

White House, March 3, 1905.

Summarized by Mr. Garfield the report shows:

That six packing companies—Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Morris & Co., the National Packing Company, the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Company, the Cudahy Packing Company, frequently designated in the trade as the "Big Six"—in the year 1903, slaughtered 5,021,607 head of cattle, out of a total indicated slaughtered in the United States of 12,500,000 head, or about 45 per cent.

That the average net profit for three companies—The Armour, Swift and Schwarzschild & Sulzberger—for the 12 months ending June 30, 1903, as shown by their actual bookkeeping records, was 99 cents per head, not including incidental profits mentioned below.

Packers Lost Money.

That the year 1902, instead of being one of exorbitant profits, as has been commonly supposed, was less profitable than usual. The report says in fact, that during the months when prices of beef were highest, some at least, of the leading packers, were actually losing money on every head of cattle slaughtered.

That the changes in the margin between the prices of cattle and the prices of beef are in themselves no indication whatever of the changes in the profits of the beef business.

That conditions in 1902 were abnormal and that cattle prices for 1903 and 1904 cannot fairly be compared with that year.

That in 1903 the price of cattle fell very sharply, chiefly because of a large increase in the supply. The number of cattle killed in five leading western markets during the first half of 1903 was more than 15 per cent greater than during the first half of 1902, and on account of the increased size of cattle, the quantity of beef produced increased 22 per cent. That the six leading packing companies especially discussed are apparently not over-capitalized.

That the percentage of profit on the gross volume of business, including hog and sheep products and other minor commodities, is comparatively small. In the case of Swift & Co., during the three years, 1902, 1903 and 1904, the profits have in no case exceeded 2 per cent of the total sales. In the case of the Cudahy Packing Company for 1904 the net profits were 1.8 per cent of the total sales; in 1902 it was 2.3 per cent.

That the profits of private car lines in the packing industry on mileage is a very liberal one, approximating computations indicating a net return of from 14 per cent to about 17 per cent. Reckoning on the basis of dressed beef transported, however, this profit would add but little to the cost of such beef to the consumer, the net profits from the mileage of the private cars being computed at not more than 4 cents per 100 pounds of beef, or, say, 25 cents a head of cattle.

Trust Has Competition.

The statement that the six large concerns mentioned slaughtered in 1903 only about 45 per cent of the total cattle killed in that year, indicates very clearly the existence of active competition by other concerns, at least in many places. This is chiefly explained by the operations of a large number of small slaughtering establishments.

For instance, such cities as Buffalo, Cleveland and Indianapolis obtain only from 10 to 33 1-3 per cent of their total beef supply from these six companies.

In the southern states, the large packers mentioned generally supply less than half the total beef consumed in the large cities, and in the smaller cities and towns of this section the proportion is generally less than one-fourth. The great packing establishments have numerous auxiliary departments, some of which are virtually distinct in nature and strictly belonging to the packing business. The profit on private refrigerator cars is that derived from the mileage paid by the railroads, which, roughly speaking, averages slightly more than three-fourths of a cent a mile for every mile traveled by refrigerator cars, whether loaded or empty.

The average distance to which beef is transported from the packing house before consumption does not exceed 800 miles. The gross mileage received by the owner of the refrigerator car would, therefore, be roughly, $12 a round trip. In comparing the margin between prices of cattle and prices of beef, exhaustive study was made of the by-products, and, since the difference between the maximum and minimum value of such products a head during the past two or three years has much exceeded the total profit of the packer, this has been a most important feature of the investigation. Thus, the price of hides, the most important by-product of cattle, after reaching a maximum in 1902, declined sharply in 1903 and 1904.

Price of Hides Declined.

The average price received for all hides sold by the Armour, Swift and Schwarzschild & Sulzberger companies, from 16 packing plants, fell from 11.8 cents in the second half of 1902 to 9.6 cents in the second half of 1903, this representing a decline in the net value of the hide a head from $6.96 to $5.79.

The bureau of corporations has made its computations from the records of the companies. The bureau has had access to all the price records of the leading packing companies, and also to all the accounts and records, excepting car line accounts, which determine the profits of the packers on beef and its by-products. As stated, the results of the bureau's investigation indicate that the larger packing companies especially considered are not overcapitalized. Presumptive evidence in favor of the fair capitalization is found in the very concentrated holdings of the stocks of these companies, nearly all of which, with the exception of Swift & Co., are held by the packers themselves and their families. In the case of Swift & Co. the entire $35,000,000 capital stock and $5,000,000 bonds were paid in cash and at par.

The conclusions of the report in regard to the operations of private car lines are approximate. The bureau arrives at an average cost for a refrigerator car of $1,000, an average yearly cost of maintenance of $115 a car, and a net profit from the mileage alone, as already stated, of from 14 per cent to about 17 per cent.

A statement submitted by one company—the Cudahy Packing Company—shows an actual net profit on the original investment in its cars of 22 per cent in 1902, of 20 per cent in 1903, and of 17.7 per cent in 1904.

The National Packing Company, one of the "big six," is a merger of various packing plants, particularly the so-called Hammond-Fowler properties, and is controlled by Armour, Swift and Morris, who constitute its board of directors. Except for the National Packing Company, however there appears to be practically no general inter-ownership of stock among the six principal companies.

Defendants Forfeited Their Bonds.

John Geary and Hearman Williams, storekeepers, of 244 Sixth avenue, Homestead, charged by Detective John J. Roach of the Philadelphia Company, before Alderman John Groetzinger with making connections with the wires of the Monongahela Electric Company, and stealing a quantity of electric light, failed to appear when called for a hearing yesterday, and forfeited their bonds of $300 each.

Small Fortune Awaits John Jamison.

Superintendent of Police Wallace yesterday received a letter from Edward Balentine, county detective of Breckinridge, Minn., asking him to locate the whereabouts of John Jamison, who is supposed to be in this city. A relative of Jamison recently died and left him $6,000. The police found three men of that name, but fortunate John yet remains undiscovered.

Worked the Telephone Trick.

The cash drawer of R. A. Price's meat market in Eighth avenue, Homestead, was yesterday robbed by the old telephone trick. At 2 o'clock Price was called to a telephone next door and while the party engaged him in conversation some minutes a boy, apparently about years of age, who was in the store, behind the counter and took silver bills to the amount of $35.

YOUNG PITTSBURGHER MEETS A TRAGIC DEATH

Clyde E. Campbell Was Brutally Murdered at San Antonio, Texas.

Word was received in Pittsburgh yesterday of the murder at San Antonio, Tex., of Clyde S. Campbell, a son of Attorney W. W. Campbell of this city. The young man was shot to death by a man named Charles Johnson, who is under arrest at San Antonio. Campbell was unarmed and made no effort to defend himself.

A dispatch from the scene of the murder says that Campbell approached Johnson and started to talk to him. Johnson pulled out a six-shooter and fired five or six shots, four of which took effect. The one which proved fatal struck Campbell over the right lung. When told he could not live Campbell said: "If I die let the law take its course; if I live I will settle with Johnson." Campbell had been in the employ of the Van Noy News Association at San Antonio for the past 10 years, and was highly regarded by that company.

Campbell was a brother of W. H., Guy E. and Otto C. Campbell of Crafton. The remains will arrive here this evening, and will be buried from the First Presbyterian church at Crafton tomorrow afternoon.

GYPSY QUEEN SUSPECTED OF ROBBING THE CAMP

With Two Male Companions Is Alleged to Have Stolen $3,200 in Gold from Band.

The $3,200 in gold stolen Wednesday night from a band of Mexican gypsies camping on the outskirts of McKeesport has not been recovered. Last night Rosie Morgan, a member of the tribe, was charged before Alderman L. M. Morgan of McKeesport with larceny. Bina Morgan, another member of the camp, made the information. She is mother-in-law of Rosie.

It was shown that Rosie Morgan has had trouble with different members of the camp, especially with her husband, because she received the attentions of Thomas and Ewell Rose of McKeesport. On the night of the robbery these young men visited Rosie Morgan, and they, together with the older woman, Bina Morgan, were left alone for several hours Wednesday night. The Rose brothers were also charged with larceny, and after hearing the evidence Alderman Morgan remanded the three to the lockup. The gold was in a strong iron box wrapped in an old dress under one of the wagons.

THREE BOYS BADLY HURT IN A COASTING ACCIDENT

James McDowell, aged 12, was taken to the East End hospital yesterday afternoon suffering from a broken arm, dislocated shoulder and a lacerated scalp, received in a coasting accident near Beulah church, in Wilkins township. In the same accident Hazlett Scott, aged 12, received a compound fracture of the arm and internal injuries, and Joseph Stephan, aged 10, sustained a crushed nose and severe bruises. Young Scott's arm may have to be amputated. The boys were sliding down the Bombridge hill with two sleds tied together when the front sled struck a stone and the boys were thrown over a 40-foot embankment.

May Apply for Injunction.

Dissatisfaction resulting from bids for new school buildings authorized by McKeesport, may result in an application being made in court to restrain the school controllers from letting the contracts. The controllers have the proceeds from a bond issue of $200,000 to expend on new buildings, but as the bids range from $80,000 to $110,000 on each building, the appropriation will not be sufficient. It is said the controllers are disposed to award the contracts and depend on an increased milage to furnish the extra money.

Will Speak in Welsh Revival.

Edward S. Griffith of Cleveland, one of the leaders among the Welsh citizens of America, will make two addresses in Pittsburgh tomorrow. In the morning Mr. Griffith will speak in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church, and in the evening will occupy the pulpit in the Oakland Welsh Presbyterian church. In both cases his theme will be the wonderful revival now stirring Wales, where 76,000 conversions have resulted. Mr. Griffiths was in Wales recently and witnessed the results of the revival.

Father Kaufmann Is Ill.

The Rev. Father Peter Kaufmann, rector of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, Locust and Franklin streets, Allegheny, will be taken to St. Francis hospital for treatment for nervous disorder. Father Kaufmann organized St. Joseph's church and has been pastor there for the past 30 years. During the past two years he has been incapacitated and has suffered extremely from nervous exhaustion. His assistant, the Rev. Father Charles Hipp, has attended to the duties of the parish.

Suspected Murderer Still at Large.

Milo Milosevic, who is suspected of the killing of Milo Kovocevic in the rear of 2808 Carson street Thursday afternoon, is still at large. South Side police were yesterday searching and shadowing all places where it was thought he might be in hiding. Coroner Armstrong has committed to jail 11 foreigners who are said to have witnessed the murder. They all lived in the vicinity of the place where the crime was committed.

Homestead Grocer Missing.

Julius Solomon, who conducted a grocery store in Third avenue, near Dickson street, Homestead, has been missing from his home since Monday morning last. The police of the surrounding towns were notified. He left his family in Homestead.

Verdict Against Railroad Company.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 3.—(Special.)—A verdict for $6,000 was returned today in the case of the administratrix of Patrick Horan vs. the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Company. Moran was killed in an accident.

Are You in the Rush and Bustle?

While we join in the rush and bustle of this busy world, overtaxing our energies and racking our systems, many of us are morally culpable of reckless disregard of bodily strength and fitness. Then perhaps the health breaks down, and we seem doomed to long periods of pain and depression. Our whole life is darkened.

NEW YORK STOCKS REACTED, CLOSING LOWER ALL AROUND

The Greatest Decline Was in the Southern Iron Group—Local Market Very Dull, but Ruled Fairly Steady.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

There was a sharp reaction in the New York stock market yesterday, but while prices closed lower all around, the market as a whole acted well, and it was conceded that there was good buying on the decline. Wall street was inclined to ascribe the reaction to the break in the southern iron group, and this was certainly severe enough to upset any ordinary market. There were also some traders who were not entirely certain that President Roosevelt's inaugural address might not contain something about the "trusts" or proposed legislation that would unsettle the market, temporarily at least. Then there was some talk of the probability of today's bank statement being unfavorable. It is estimated that the banks have lost $3,000,000 cash during the week, and unless the loan item offsets this, a decrease in surplus reserve would appear. However, the call loan market did not reflect any additional firmness, rates closing at 2 to 2½ per cent.

Very little attention was given to the astonishing proclamation issued by the czar of Russia to his subjects, although this seemed to have some effect upon foreign markets. French rentes closed lower and London was a rather free seller of American securities during the day. Ever since the massacre in St. Petersburg on January 22 the outside world has been under the impression that internal affairs in Russia were much worse than the censored reports revealed. This impression is strengthened by the proclamation issued yesterday. It not only appeals to the patriotism of the Russian people, which seems to be a negligible quantity at the moment, but it makes a strong draft upon the religious sympathies of the people, and finally goes to the extent of reminding that part of the public in the service of the government to remember the oath of allegiance. All this reveals a lack of confidence in the fealty of even those entrusted with upholding the present order of things, and suggests a panic stricken state of mind in the highest government circles that sometimes precedes a revolution. Further trouble in Russia would be felt in French financial circles, then in London and finally in New York. Its importance as a factor in the domestic situation cannot be estimated, but under present conditions it would be less than anywhere else, and perhaps only temporary.

At the opening of the market Sloss-Sheffield sold at 86, a drop of 20 points. There was a quick recovery to 90 and another reaction of 10 points. This unsettled the entire southern iron group, and Tennessee Coal & Iron broke from 94 to 87¾, and Republic Iron, common and preferred, declined 1¼ to 2 per cent. The selling extended to United States Steel, the common declining to 35¼ and the preferred to 95⅛. There was some irregularity in the remainder of the industrial list, but the general tendency was lower.

In the railroad list the largest declines were in the high-priced issues. New York Central broke from 157 to 154⅝. Union Pacific lost 1¾ per cent, and other standard stocks from 1 to 1½ per cent. There was a recovery from the lowest price, but the market closed barely steady. The day did not pass, however, without recording a few more new high prices. American Smelting advanced to 92¼, United States Realty to 94½, and Erie second preferred to 71½, and these closed at net gains for the day.

The local stock market ruled quite dull, but the tone was fairly steady. The largest declines were in Crucible Steel common, which advanced to 13 and closed at 12¾, a slight gain for the day. The preferred rallied to and closed at 65¼. There were no transactions in Pittsburgh Coal common, but the preferred was firmer and closed at 80¼. A small lot of River Coal sold at 28½, a rally of ½. The Brewing stocks were dull and unchanged, but Independent Brewing is declined a fraction to 108½. The strongest stock was United States Glass, which advanced to and closed at 57 bid, the highest price ever quoted. Westinghouse Air Brake was a fraction lower at 149¾, but Electric advanced ½ point to 91. The rest of the market was extremely dull and unchanged.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The reaction in the stock market yesterday was not accompanied by any particular news or rumor. The speculation has acquired such a swing and the leaders in it have met with such success that they do not wait upon the ordinary fluctuations, and therefore violent price changes do not have the same significance as they would have in a narrower market. The break in the southern iron stocks was on a report that the proposed merger would be either abandoned or deferred. The movement may have been in the nature of a "scoop." The people reported to be identified with the scheme usually accompany their operations with fireworks. The January reports of the Harriman roads indicate a policy of making a showing favorable to market operations. That is, a year or two ago, when some of these stocks were in different hands than those at present, and the Southern Pacific was reporting enormous gains in gross earnings, it almost invariably reported a decrease in net earnings, showing that the money was being put back into the property. This policy was what the Keene pool protested against when they were carrying the stock in the 70s. Yesterday Southern Pacific reported an increase of $56,000 in gross earnings for January and an increase of $51,000 in net. Union Pacific reported an increase of $378,000 in gross and an increase of $215,000 in net. The tone of Wall street advices after the close last night foreshadowed a quiet market for the short session today, with possibly a little further reaction, pending the inaugural ceremonies at Washington and further developments abroad over Sunday.

Pittsburgh stock exchange clearances for February amounted to 465,053 shares, compared with 780,128 shares in January and 112,450 shares in February a year ago.

The probability of a dividend on Tonopah Extension this year is not encouraged by local officers of the company. The stock was quoted yesterday at $4 50 bid, $5 asked. Ohio Tonopah was quieter than for some days past, and closed nominally unchanged.

After selling at 56⅝, United States Glass advanced to and closed at 57 bid, the highest every quoted. There was nothing doing in Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

Many brokers from New York and several from other exchanges, including Pittsburgh, were in Washington to attend the inaugural ceremonies, which may have had something to do with diminishing the volume of trading. In Wall street it was noticeable that trading became dull on the decline, the bulk of the business being transacted during the first two hours.

A third of the business on the local exchange yesterday was in Crucible Steel common, which rallied to 13, which was regarded as good buying. Less than 200 shares of the preferred changed hands, and the stock rallied a fraction to 65¼. While there is little or no expectation of a resumption of dividends this year, certainly not before the annual meeting in October, the feeling on the stock is bullish, mainly because all classes of iron and steel stocks are advancing.

For the second day this week there were no transactions in Pittsburgh Coal common. The preferred also remained dull, less than 500 shares changing hands. The market price of Coal preferred and Steel preferred is now lower than for months past, and those who place some significance in the relative parity of stocks, think Coal preferred should advance, if Steel preferred retains its gain.

Wall street houses which gave out the tip on Soo common reiterate that it is all right and that the stock will eventually go much higher.

The advance in Erie second preferred to a new high record is in anticipation of a dividend.

Directors of the American Tobacco Company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, payable April 1.

The directors of Swift & Co. have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on the capital stock, payable April 1.

January net earnings of Atlantic Coast Line decreased $13,000. This is the stock which had such a large advance during the week.

Sloss-Sheffield, which sold down to 86 in one of the stocks reported to have been acquired for incorporation in the Southern iron merger, and reports have had practically official sanction that the organizers of the combination were to pay 125 for all of the outstanding common stock. Many thousand shares of the stock passed through the market on the stock exchange at prices which never touched the alleged figure agreed upon for absorption, but which did reach 118½ momentarily. The stock sold Thursday at 108. The fact that 100 shares should be offered down yesterday unanimously for 22 points without finding a single buyer, naturally had a disturbing effect. There has never been a wide market for this particular stock, so that the material results of the slump might be expected to be slight. But other stocks which have been associated with the merger report are more actively traded in, especially Tennessee Coal, and the sharp break in the market had a disturbing effect on sentiment generally. The admission that the proposed merger had been "deferred" was the only news to account for the movement.

The forecast of the currency movement of the week indicated a small gain for New York on balance over the regular express movement with the interior. Sub-treasury operations, however, have absorbed more than $2,000,000, pointing to a decline in the cash item. The present large drain into the sub-treasury is largely due to drafts by interior national banks on their New York correspondents for payment to the treasury department to make good the national bank 5 per cent fund, which had become depleted by the large current redemption of bank notes. This large redemption was an incident in the heavy flow of currency from the interior to New York, the New York banks offering the bank notes for redemption as they were received. The treasury to replenish the 5 per cent fund is the stage to which the reflux of the currency movement has gone for time loans were marked up again and it seems evident that large progress has been made in taking up the available supply of credits offered by the trust companies, as well as by the banks.

BUTTER, EGGS AND FLOUR ARE ALL ON DECLINE

Cost of Living Will Be Materially Less Next Week Than for Some Months.

Butter and eggs are the weakest things in the local markets today and flour dropped off 10 cents a barrel yesterday. The news will be pleasant to retail dealers and housekeepers who have to figure on the week's expense bills.

Butter is particularly weak and dealers are all selling at less than quotations this week. It is confidently believed the price of this article will drop 3 cents a pound next Monday, it is going fast in the east and prices there and in Chicago are much lower than the prices in Pittsburgh. Eggs were quoted at 28½ cents yesterday in Chicago, but 30 cents was being asked here. Some dealers are shading this. It looks like 25-cent eggs at retail by this time next week. A heavy slump is expected Monday, but a cold breeze may stiffen the market now any time.

Flour did the expected yesterday when it was marked down all along the line. Many dealers bought quite heavily yesterday, as they look for an advance and no more flour at the present quotations during the month of March. It is purely a matter of guesswork, however, as no man can foretell what the wheat market is going to do.

Green goods were very slow yesterday and business was not so good as might have been expected for a Friday. Better times are looked for next week, as lower prices will bring more buyers into market.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts of hay and grain yesterday were as follows: Pennsylvania lines, 7 cars oats, 1 car corn, 14 cars hay; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 2 cars oats, 1 car corn, 3 cars hay; Baltimore & Ohio, 3 cars oats, 1 car corn, 3 cars hay, 1 car straw.

The arrivals were picked up early in the day and quite a few buyers did not get all they wanted. Receipts have not been so light for a long time. This fact makes it unnecessary to make concessions in present prices to effect sales. Everything is going at full quotations.

Development Work in the Field Continues on the Down Grade

Development work in the lower southwest Ohio and in Southeastern Ohio is still on the down grade and no fulfillment of a revival. Nothing but light wells have been drilled and there is a marked increase in the dry holes list. In the Wallace district, Harrison county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its test on the Richard Robinson farm 30 feet into the stray and has discovered nothing but a little gas. In the Littleton district, Wetzel county, the same company has drilled its test on the F. P. Casey Farm, through the Gordon, and has a duster. In the Smithfield district, the same company has completed its No. 8 on the James Wade farm and has a duster in all sands.

In the edge of Wetzel county, near the Marshall county line, a local company has drilled the test on the Levi Paugh farm through the Gordon and has a duster. The well was given a 40-quart shot but it failed to respond.

In the Lowells Run district, Calhoun county, the Carter Oil Company has completed its No. 3 on the E. C. Chidester farm and has a fifth gasser in the Berea grit. The location is 600 feet north and 300 feet east of the center farm. In the Burning Springs district, in Wirt county, the Nelsonville Oil and Gas Company has drilled its No. 2 on the S. S. McPee farm through the Big Injun and the well produced 50 barrels the first 24 hours. Drilling was discontinued at a depth of 1,500 feet. North of Cairo, Ritchie county, the Stewart United Oil Company's No. 1 on the William Nicholson farm is holding up at 150 barrels a day.

On the Ohio side in the Newport district, Washington county, James Morrison & Co. have drilled their test on the Gordon horizon through the Berea grit and have a 25-barrel producer. The Empire Gas and Fuel Company has drilled its No. 11 on the H. M. Hervey farm through the same formation and has a 10-barrel pumper.

In the Wolf Creek district the Tecumseh Oil Company has completed No. 10 on the Ruth A. Chapman farm and has a show for a 15 to 20-barrel well in the Big Injun sand. In the Muskingum field J. F. Johnson has completed a second test on the Thomas Stilling farm and has a 3-barrel pumper in the Berea grit.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 3.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at an advance of 10@15 points on covering and a renewal of buying based on better European cables. There was a duplication of the advance, however, and shortly after the opening a French cable was received, showing a decline in that market involving about 5 to 10 points per bushel. Later, however, the market was less active and toward the close rallied to the absence of important offerings, with the close steady at a net advance of 10@15 points. Sales were reported of 124,500 bags, including March at 6.20c; May at 6.30c; July at 6.40@6.50c; September at 6.50@6.55c; November at 6.60c; December at 6.60@6.70c and January at 6.70c. The Wool Market.

BOSTON, March 3.—Of the wool market the Commercial Bulletin will tomorrow say:

There has been a little more business put through this week than was anticipated, but it is no large quantities South American grades are neglected now and offered at cost in some cases. A line of staple Ohio delaine fleece and territory are steadily and fairly but domestic medium fleece is weak. The opening of the London auction sales is awaited with interest. If prices are sustained there it will go far to restore confidence here.

The shipments of wool from Boston to date from December 29, 1904, amount to 11,000,000 pounds, against 44,140,000 pounds, against 41,500,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts to date are 44,758,675 pounds, against 21,000,000 pounds for the same period last year.

TRADING WAS HALTED BY SQUEEZE RUMOR

Wheat Pit Hears That Operation in May Wheat Has Not Really Been Abandoned.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, March 3.—Trade was brought almost to a halt here today in all grain and provisions. The chief reason seemingly was a report that the attempted squeeze in wheat for May delivery had never in reality been abandoned. With the exception of May wheat, which is up ¼@⅝c, closing prices are practically identical with yesterday's final quotations.

From start to finish the wheat market showed little signs of animation, business being confined to trades of small proportions. Notwithstanding lower prices at Liverpool, the market here opened quite steady, May being a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher at $1 15¼@15⅝. July was ¼@⅜c lower to a shade higher at 98⅜@98c. Commission houses showed a tendency to make moderate purchases, but offerings were extremely light. Rumor that the May deal was still in operation and that the price of the May option would soon share in advance, appeared to be the main factor in restricting offerings. The market was bearishly affected by a report of a St. Louis trade paper claiming that fall-sown wheat is in good condition. Prospects of an early spring raised some selling of the July delivery, in consequence the tone of that option was weaker than May. At $1 14⅜ May reached the lowest point of the day. The between price on July was at 98⅜c. Covering by shorts caused a rally to $1 16. In sympathy July sold up to 99¼c. The market closed about steady, with May at $1 15⅝. Final quotations on July were at 98¼c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 132,400 bushels. Exports for the week, as shown by Bradstreet's, were equal to 7,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 371,000 bushels, compared with 464,000 bushels. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 282 cars, against 404 cars last week and 275 cars a year ago.

Small acceptances from the country formed the basis of a firm corn market. Leaders in that trade predict light receipts from now until after the completion of spring work on the farms. Large clearances helped to maintain a firm undertone. May opened unchanged to a shade lower at 47⅝@48c, sold between 47⅝@48⅛c and closed at 48¼c. Local receipts were 466 cars, with none of contract grade.

The main factor in the oats market was a good demand for the cash grains, shippers and elevator interests being active sellers. A moderate demand in cash prices tended to stimulate speculative trading. The market was steady the entire day. May opened unchanged to a shade lower at 31⅛c to 31⅛@31⅜c, sold at 31⅜c and closed at 31⅜c. Local receipts were 104 cars.

Provisions were firm early on light receipts of hogs. Later the market eased off on selling by pit traders. At the close May pork and ribs were each off a shade at $12 52½@12 55 and $6 75 respectively. Lard was unchanged at $6 25@6 27½.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 27 cars; corn, 393 cars; oats, 133 cars; hogs, 21,000 head.

The leading futures as reported by John D. Armstrong & Co., Farmers Bank building, Pittsburgh, members Chicago board of trade, ranged as follows:

GRAFT CASES ARE ON TRIAL LIST

Charges Against Allegheny Officials May Be Heard on Monday.

MAYHUGH REVERSES MAYOR

A number of the cases arising out of the charge of graft being made against certain elements in Allegheny, is on the trial list in criminal court next Monday, and will probably be tried if some of the minor cases which head the list are disposed of in time, if not they will be tried Tuesday or Wednesday.

The cases are mostly those of the officials, but few others being put down for trial. The most important of these cases is the one in which Superintendent of Police Melvin H. Campbell is charged with extortion. The Monday list is as follows: A. J. Neadling (3), George Dickson, George Morgan, John Leppo, Cyrus Dauler (2), Henry Driver, J. N. Nowak, Dan Winkfield, Lila Wright.

Graft cases: Capt. James Wilson (7), Street Commissio.er Charles Striepeke (4), Supt. M. H. Campbell, Alice Scott (2), Samuel Smith (2), Matt Steele (2), William Ford (3), Jennie Lacock (2), Policeman Joseph A. Dean, Margaret LeRoy (2).

For Thursday and Friday jail cases will be added to the list in which true bills are returned by the grand jury. This body convenes on Monday morning to dispose of the cases upon which no action was taken by the grand jury for the December term of court and those which have since developed.

Judge Brown handed down an opinion in the case of William P. Mayhugh, who was fined $5c and costs by the mayor of McKeesport for violating a city ordinance in delivering and selling adulterated milk. The court reverses the mayor and orders Mayhugh's fine returned to him. Mayhugh is a milk dealer of Elizabeth and shipped to dealers in McKeesport. In the opinion the court finds that as Mayhugh was fined for violating a city ordinance, the charge was improper, the ordinance covering only the limits of the city.

Special Election Ordered.

In the matter of the exceptions filed to the annexation of Sterret township to the city of Pittsburgh, Judge Brown dismisses the objections and orders a special election to be held by the township on May 15. On October 22, last, Attorney W. H. Pratt, township solicitor, presented a petition asking that the township be annexed to the city, as most of the residents desired it. Later some of the residents of the township which borders on Wilkinsburg petitioned the borough council to annex that portion of the township to Wilkinsburg, which was done. Afterwards Wilkinsburg objected to the township being annexed to the city on the grounds that part of it had been annexed to the borough. Judge Brown dismisses the exceptions filed as the proceedings for the annexation of the whole of the township were commenced before a part of it was annexed to Wilkinsburg. He says that the proceedings commenced must have been known to most of the township residents and that the jurisdiction of the court could not be ousted by a later collateral attempt to annex a portion of the township to the borough of Wilkinsburg.

John A. Snee, who brought suit against the West Side Belt railroad for the unlawful obstruction of the waters of Peters creek, filed an answer to the rule granted to show cause why the time granted the railroad for complying with the order of court should not be extended 90 days from February 15. He avers that the court should refuse the extension as the rule was not brought in good faith, being merely an attempt to evade attachment for contempt of court and to further injure the plaintiff by delay. He claims the railroad has made no effort to comply with the order of court requiring it to make certain changes in its tracks so as to turn the creek back into the original channel. Snee alleges that by reason of delays he has been deprived of his property for over two years and has been greatly damaged.

Bad Faith Is Charged.

Frank A. Howard filed exception to the findings of fact and conclusions of law in the equity suit brought by him to restrain the borough of Swissvale from letting contracts to the Welsbach company for lighting the borough streets. The court last week held that the contract was valid, but Howard claims the court erred in failing to find that the council and burgess of said borough in entering into the contract did not act in good faith and that the amount paid is exhorbitant and unreasonable and contract void. He also claims the court erred in not sustaining the allegation in the bill of fraud and misconduct.

By his will, Anton Dezort, late of Allegheny, leaves an estate valued at $11,200 to his wife, Anna. In case she remarries, she is to give each of her children $1,000. Charles Knodel, late of Reserve township, leaves his entire estate to his wife, Amalia. If she remarries she is only to receive a widow's dower, the remainder to be divided between her and her two children.

Orders were made by Judge Kennedy in several cases heard on the last argument list. In the cases of William S. McDowell, trustee in bankruptcy for the Pittsburgh Automobile Company, against Homer J. Lindsay and C. R. Hartley rules for judgment were refused for want of sufficient affidavit of defense. The cases will now go to trial. The action is for assessments on stocks of the automobile company.

A new trial was refused in the case of Eliza Menges and others against the Pennsylvania Water Company in which a verdict for $1,000 was given the plaintiffs. In the case of Sophia Weisman and others against the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western Railway Company, in which the plaintiffs were awarded $1,062, like action was taken. A new trial was granted in the case of the Fidelity Title & Trust Company, administrator of the estate of Valentine Voltz against St. Michael's Roman Catholic church. The action was for the recovery of $1,800 which Voltz had loaned the church.

Application was made for a charter for the German club of Pittsburgh. Among the subscribers to the club, which is formed for social purposes, are: William Heeren, Dr. F. K. Stahl, Camille Mercader and Philip A. Lange.

Dispute Over Coal.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company has brought suit against P. F. Hormel to recover $15,000 for coal alleged to have been illegally mined by the defendant. It is alleged that Hormel has outrun the boundaries of his mine in Collier township and encroached on the adjoining property of the plaintiff company.

Edward F. Preiss secured a preliminary injunction against James J. Rattigan to restrain him from excavating beneath the building at 246 Eighth street, Homestead, occupied by the plaintiff. He avers that the excavation renders the building unsafe for occupancy.

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed against Herman Goldman, a merchant of South Sharon. The petitioners, the Shenango Valley Milling Company and the John F. Fitch Company present claims amounting to $826 66. A voluntary petition was filed by Charles H. Watkins of Arnold, Westmoreland county. His liabilities are given as $3,903 71 and his assets as $3,491.

Executions issued: Cornelius Sullivan vs. John C. Sullivan, $1,071; Lavon C. Barrelle vs. James N. Malone, $2,775; Patterson Coal & Supply Company vs. Frank Metcalf, $873 45; Charles A. Robb, ex. vs. William Orr, $1,740 37.

C. D. Greenlee filed a bill in equity against the officers of the Belle of Thunder Mountain Mining Company and J. C. Russell to compel an accounting to him and restrain them from issuing stock till such an accounting is made. Greenlee claims a certain number of shares of stock pursuant to an agreement made when he turned over the options on mining claims to the concern.

INTERESTED IN PITTSBURGH.

Foreign Life Assurance Men to Be Entertained Here.

An important delegation of life assurance men from the far corners of the earth will be in this city on Monday to study the methods and equipment of the Pittsburgh agency of the Equitable Life Assurance society—which is the largest life agency in the world.

The delegation will consist of J. T. Hamilton of Yokahoma, manager of the Equitable for China and Japan; J. C. Roquet of Paris, secretary general of the society for Europe; Reginald T. Nalsh of London, resident manager for Great Britain; George T. Wilson, third vice president, and Henry L. Rosenfeld, inspector of agencies.

There will be an all-day conference and luncheon at the Schenley in honor of the visitors, and they will then be given an opportunity of inspecting the agency and its methods.

CRANK CAME TO KILL JOHN D. CRIMMINS

Believed New York Capitalist Had Filched $50,000,000 from Irish People.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, March 3.—A shabbily dressed, dirty man walked briskly into the office of John D. Crimmins at the City Trust Company this morning and asked to see Mr. Crimmins, insisting on an immediate interview.

"My name is Ferdinand Ingraham, and I have come to kill Crimmins," said he to a clerk.

The clerk went to a telephone booth and summoned the building watchman, who came with several helpers. When the employes stepped into the room, the clerk took one by the arm and, with a bow to the crank, said: "Mr. Crimmins, Mr. Ingraham."

Like a flash, the crank jumped from his chair and sprang upon the doorman, crying: "I've been sent to kill you."

The crank was overpowered, and later Magistrate Barlow sent him to Bellevue for an inquiry as to his sanity. Ingraham said a mind-reader told him that John D. Crimmins had $50,000,000 which he had filched from the people of the north of Ireland, and he explained he had gone to Mr. Crimmins to demand the money back for these people.

GRADE TEACHERS MEET.

Many Attend Institute in North School and Hear Interesting Discussions.

At the grade meeting of the Pittsburgh Teachers' institute in the North school building, Eighth street and Duquesne way, yesterday afternoon, papers were read and discussed on subjects of much interest to fifth year teachers. Miss Ida M. Smith of the Brashton school, had charge of the meeting, which was attended by about 150 teachers.

Supervisor George L. Smink gave a talk on "Instruction in Music, Fifth Year Grade," and took the teachers to task for giving the girls the higher parts and the boys the lower in their classes. Teachers should learn, he said, which portion of the music the pupil was best suited to follow. He also gave some valuable hints on the best methods to pursue in drilling pupils in two-part music. "Ethics" was the subject of a paper read by Mrs. S. F. Brown of the Beltzhoover school. She condemned corporal punishment, and said the first step toward successful teaching was to get the pupil's good will.

The rest of the program consisted of a paper by Miss Anna Williamson of the Lemington school, on "Importance of Reading," and another by Miss Minnie Robson of the Brushton school, on "Language in the Fifth Year."

FEEL SURE OF YOUNG.

Attorney Jokingly Eliminates Him from His Trial Cases.

As a straw which shows how strong is the feeling among attorneys that United States District Attorney James Young will be appointed to succeed Judge Elliott Rodgers, there occurred a small incident in common pleas court No. 3 yesterday afternoon when the attorneys interested in cases to be called next week were being called by the court. When a case in which Attorney Young is entered for appearance was called, Attorney Roddy P. Marshall jokingly asked the court to enter him (Mr. Marshall) for appearance in the case.

"But," said the court, "Mr. Young is entered for appearance in that case."

"Well, your honor," said Attorney Marshall, "he will have received the appointment as judge by the time the case is called and cannot attend to it."

"Well, we will wait till then," returned the court.

TWO MEN BADLY HURT.

While Erecting a Cupola Were Struck by Heavy Pole.

While at work erecting a cupola in the plant of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company on Preble avenue, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon, two employes of the Thomas Carlin's Sons Company were badly injured by a derrick pole falling on them. The injured are: Martin Schmitt, aged 30, of 808 Main street, Allegheny, whose right leg was broken, and William Griffin, aged 29, of 127 Pine street, Allegheny, who had three ribs broken, and was hurt internally. Both of the injured were taken to St. John's General hospital.

With a lot of other workmen the men were removing the derrick pole from the cupola. They had to lift the pole over a loaded gondola car, and in doing so the pole slipped knocking Schmitt off the car. The pole fell on Griffin and pinned him to the side of the car.

LAST CUSTER SURVIVOR GETS LONG SENTENCE

NEW YORK, March 3.—(Special.)—William McGee, who claims to be the only white survivor of the Custer massacre, was before Justice Kenedick today for sentence, convicted of manslaughter in having stabbed Frank Mitchell after a quarrel over the qualities of beat stew. Counsel pleaded for leniency, saying the man had been a good soldier, but McGee was then sent to prison for seven years and ten months.

AN UNKNOWN AIDS CALEB POWERS FUND

Twenty-Five Dollars in Crisp New Bank Notes Donated by "A Friend."

An act of noble but modest charity was made apparent at this office yesterday when a plain envelope, addressed to the Caleb Powers fund, and containing $25 in crisp, new bills, was presented, containing the anonymous signature: "From a Friend."

One who surscribed herself, "A Mother," expressed the wish in a letter accompanying her contribution, that 1,000 believers in justice and right might contribute $1 each to The Gazette Caleb Powers fund.

"I sympathize with his poor, aged mother," writes Mrs. Edith Kelly of Oliver, Pa., in making her contribution.

It is a credit to the community in general that The Gazette fund in behalf of Caleb Powers has received the support of so many, who by their contributions, stamp themselves as friends of justice and equal rights for all men.

The question of guilt or innocence of the prisoner has ceased to be the paramount issue. The question as to whether or not Caleb Powers is to be fairly heard is the problem to be solved. The Kentucky court of appeals has three times said that this right has been denied him.

To such who, by their aid however small, incline to assist this man in achieving his right, will have their contributions acknowledged from day to day, if sent to this office.

Action to Be Taken Against Two Former Employes of Fayette County.

UNIONTOWN, March 3.—(Special.)—Following the confession of Owen R. Brownfield, former clerk in the commissioners' office, that he had taken $12,000 in county bonds in 1902, for which he made complete restitution, District Attorney T. H. Hudson states that County Detective Alex McBeth has been authorized to make information against Mr. Brownfield for action at the March grand jury.

District Attorney Hudson says McBeth has been ordered to take action against S. D. Newcomer, former steward of the county home, who has been surcharged with $1,240 91.

CUBAN CABINET NOW COMPLETE

DIAZ'S RETIREMENT SURPRISE

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

HAVANA, March 3.—The formation of a cabinet, representative of the Democratic party, to which President Palma recently declared his allegiance, was completed today by the acceptance of portfolios by the following:

Secretary of state and justice, Juan Francisco O'Farrill; secretary of the treasury, Gen. Ruis Rivera; secretary of the interior, Gen. Freyere Andrado; secretary of public works, Gen. Rafael Montalvo; secretary of public instruction, Eduardo Yero; secretary of agriculture, industry and commerce, Ernetso Castro.

The foregoing, which will shortly be officially announced, is characterized by the opposition as a politicians' cabinet. It was President Palma's desire to reappoint Senores Diaz and Ortiz, respectively, as secretaries of public works and state and justice, but he yielded to the urging of the moderate leaders and will not reappoint any of the recently resigned officers.

Senor Yero is the only former member of the cabinet in the new government. In the new government he is transferred from the department of the interior to the department of public instruction. Senor Yero's health is precarious. The fact that Senor Diaz was not reappointed creates some surprise, as the progress of the department of public works under his direction was regarded as the strongest feature of the Palma government, and the relations between President Palma and Secretary Diaz have been particularly intimate.

Senor Ortiz, who a few months ago resigned a judgeship to become secretary of state, will be appointed fiscal of the supreme court, succeeding Gen. Andrade. Senor Diaz will retire to private life as a civil engineer.

Juan Francisco O'Farrill, the new secretary of state, is a leading Havana lawyer, and was counsel for Gen. Ludlow while the latter was governor of Havana. Gen. Rivera is promoted from the position of chief of the Havana custom house to be secretary of the treasury. Gen. Montalvo is at present governor of the penitentiary. Senor Castro is a lawyer and political leader of Cardenas.

SENIOR CLASS TO QUIT.

Row in Massachusetts Agricultural College Over Bean-Throwing Breaks Out Afresh.

AMHERST, MASS., March 3.—The senior class of the Massachusetts Agricultural college today determined to leave college until its difficulties with the faculty are satisfactorily adjusted. Three weeks ago three seniors were suspended for throwing torpedoes and beans in a class room, and the entire class of 80 left college, claiming all the members were equally guilty.

Later the class was induced to return by the local alumni. The seniors claim the alumni agreed to secure the reinstatement of the suspended men, but this not having been done, the class decided to give up its college work.

"I've Lost Ten Pounds"

A man says, "Look at this." And he over-laps his coat to show how loose it is. There are some people who can lose fat to advantage, but the loss of flesh is one of the accepted evidences of failing health. As flesh-making processes begin in the stomach, so naturally when there is loss of flesh we look first to the stomach for the cause. And the cause is generally found to be disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequent physical weakness.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores the lost flesh by curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food from which flesh and strength are made.

"My wife was for five years troubled with indigestion of stomach and bowels, bloating and severe pain at times during the entire five years," writes Mr. J. Milton Unger, of McConnellsburg, Pa. "Her heart was affected, and she took a purgative every few days but only received temporary relief. She got very poor in flesh and I bought one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from our druggist and after taking it she said she felt like a new woman. Has no more trouble with stomach and bowels, and has no pain nor bloating. Has gained fifteen pounds in weight."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation and biliousness.
